Urge Resubmission for "Temperance."

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., June 9.—[Special.]—The Republican party went wet today in Indiana, dryest of the bone dry states. Wets defeated drys on the floor of the state convention and put through a plank headed "temperance" which calls for the submission by congress to the states of repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and for repeal of the Wright bone dry state law. The vote stood 823 to 620.

Bedlam reigned in Cadle tabernacle for a time as the battle opened. The drys made the loudest noise as they rushed around among the delegations throwing arms around delegates' necks and imploring them to vote at any rate against repeal of the state act, the joint product years ago of the Anti-Saloon league and the Ku Klux Klan. But all the dry necking came to naught, and when the roll was called the wets outnumbered the drys by 203 votes.

Text of Temperance Plank.

The plank reads:

"The Republican party is the party of the constitution and we stand for its complete observance as well as for the faithful enforcement of all laws. However, we recognize an honest difference of opinion among our citizens regarding the eighteenth amendment. We acknowledge the right of the people who ordained the constitution to pass upon that instrument, or any part of it, at any time;

"Therefore, we recommend that the congress of the United States immediately submit a proposal for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution.

"Said proposal to be submitted for ratification or rejection by nonpartisan conventions of the people of the several states called for that sole purpose in accordance with the provisions of article five of the constitution of the United States.

"Should the eighteenth amendment be repealed, we pledge our best efforts toward the enactment of such measures in the state of Indiana as actually will promote temperance, effectively abolish the saloon, whether open or concealed, and bring the liquor traffic itself under complete public supervision and control, with revenues properly drawn from legalized sources for relief of the burdened taxpayers.

"We also recommend the repeal of the so-called 'bone dry' laws of Indiana and favor the enactment of such measures as will conform to the federal enforcement acts."

Springer for Governor.

Raymond S. Springer of Connersville was nominated for governor over six other contenders. Arthur Sapp, a dry, dropped out of the field, announcing he could not run on the platform adopted. Springer had been regarded as the best dark horse. He was first state commander of the American Legion. His opponent probably will be Paul B. McNutt, who is expected to be nominated at the Democratic convention June 21. McNutt also is a former commander of the American Legion and is dean of Indiana university law school at Bloomington.

Joseph Kyle of Gary was nominated for lieutenant governor and Bert C. Morgan of Indianapolis for secretary of state in the only races in which there were contests.

Ends Dry Tyranny.

Party leaders tonight are jubilant. They deem the wet plank as telling the world that the Republican party of Indiana, boss ridden for years by professional dry dictators, has cut loose from the Anti-Saloon league and dry domination. L. E. York, league superintendent, thumped the table and shouted threats late last night before the platform committee—"The league will defeat the ticket if you adopt a wet plank." For the first time in years the whip cracking failed, and York was heckled and denounced and treated to a "raspberry."

Industrial centers such as Indianapolis, Evansville, Terre Haute and the northern mill towns rolled up heavy wet votes, but the significant phase of the roll call came from rural Indiana, long under the thumb of dry zealots and fanatics.

The rural regions proved increasingly damp, not to say wet. Of the 92 counties in the state, the wets cast

5 YEAR PRISON TERM POSSIBLE FOR EX-OFFICIAL

Christian P. Paschen, former city building commissioner, was found guilty by a jury last night of evading payment of $43,000 in income tax in 1927. The verdict was returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes after the jury had deliberated most of two days. Paschen is liable to a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine, if a motion for a new trial is denied on June 24. He was found not guilty on tax evasion charges for 1928.

This conviction continues the unbroken chain of guilty verdicts which have attended United States Attorney Johnson's war upon hoodlums, politicians, and dishonest contractors who evaded their federal tax.

Break Two Day Deadlock.

The Paschen verdict came three hours after Judge Barnes had called the jurors before him and given them additional instructions. The judge's action was considered unusual, since the instructions had not been requested by the jury.

It was learned from the foreman of the jury, James F. Lynch of Streator, that the vote on twenty preceding ballots had been 8 to 4 for conviction. The first ballot after the additional instructions—and the only one taken—was unanimous for conviction.

The defendant sat chewing gum, with a faint smile upon his face, as the verdict was read. He ran his watch chain through his fingers while his lawyer, Cassius Poust, polled the jury, and the smile did not diminish as each juror, asked if the verdict was his, answered, "It was and is."

"Well, I took it on the chin smiling," said Paschen as he left the courtroom with his brothers, Henry and Jacob Paschen. "We're not licked yet. We're going to keep on fighting."

Defense Attacks Verdict.

Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, one of the prosecutors, hailed the verdict as "a fine victory after a long battle," referring to the fact that the trial lasted five weeks and three days, breaking all records for the duration of income tax cases.

Mr. Poust issued a statement in which he called the verdict "the result of the jury being coerced."

"It was a coerced compromise," he said, "as a result of the court's calling in the jury and giving additional instructions regarding getting together and conceding points to one another. The jury had not said that it could not reach an agreement and it did not ask for further instructions. This was an error." Poust had objected when the instructions were given at 2:30 p. m., but had been overruled.

After the jury had left the courtroom, its work done, Poust called Judge Barnes' attention to the demand of the Union National Indemnity company that it be released from responsibility for Paschen's bond of $25,000, a request made before the verdict was reached.

Bond Company Withdraws.

"This company was paid $500 on March 6, 1931, and another $500 on March 6 this year," said Poust. "We were told the company would stay on the bond until the conclusion of the trial. It has no right to get off now unless it returns the money. This is nothing short of confidence game."

To the company's plea that it could forfeit the bond at any time, Judge Barnes replied that "there seems to be an element of unfairness here. I will seriously consider this in future dealings with this company unless the money is returned. But there is nothing the court can do in this case."

Poust replied that he would file a petition seeking to bar the company from any further dealings in federal cases and Judge Barnes said that he was "prone to consider such a petition."

A new bond for the defendant was then allowed on real estate valued at $100,000 presented by Paschen's brothers.

150 Witnesses Heard.

The case went to trial May 2, with Paschen accused of evading a total tax of $114,000 in 1927 and 1928. More than 150 witnesses took the stand during the presenting of evidence. This was concluded Monday afternoon. Arguments began early Tuesday, extended through the day, and after lengthy instructions, Judge Barnes sent the jury to its room at 10:18 p. m.

Foreman Lynch told reporters that

Peoples Trust to Pay Off and Quit Business

The Peoples Trust and Savings bank, one of Chicago's big downtown banks, situated at Michigan avenue and Washington street, has decided to pay off its depositors in full and liquidate. The bank is solvent, but a gradual shrinkage in deposits in recent months has made the business unprofitable. Therefore the directors decided yesterday to wind up the bank's affairs, and last night notices were sent out to depositors and stockholders.

"Business conditions are such that the operation of the bank has become unprofitable," President Earle H. Reynolds said in his letter to the depositors. "The directors, therefore, have determined to liquidate the affairs of the bank.

All Depositors to Be Paid.

"Arrangements have been made for the payment in full of all deposits. From and after Friday morning, June 10, 1932, no further deposits will be accepted and no further loans will be made. All depositors, at their convenience, will arrange for the withdrawal or transfer of their deposits in full. For this purpose the present banking quarters, 32 North Michigan avenue, will remain open during the usual banking hours. The safe deposit vaults will continue to be operated in the present quarters, with no change in business hours."

Much the same information was sent out to the stockholders in a letter which also said:

"Arrangements have been made to borrow additional funds, secured by a pledge of assets, sufficient to pay all depositors in full, and they have been asked to withdraw or transfer their money at their early convenience. The assets will be liquidated in an orderly way with the coöperation of a liquidating committee appointed by the directors of this bank."

Deposits of the bank now are approximately $17,000,000, whereas they were $22,600,540 on March 30 and were considerably higher two years ago. Total resources were $27,108,437 on March 30. The bank has capital stock of $2,500,000, surplus of $1,000,000, and undivided profits of $550,713.

It was said in La Salle street that the bank is thoroughly solvent and in an unusually liquid position. However, like practically all banks, all of its assets cannot be converted at once into cash and the directors arranged a loan in order to pay off all depositors in full. It is understood this loan was made by the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, whose chairman is George M. Reynolds, father of President Reynolds of the Peoples Trust.

Directors of Bank.

The directors of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank include a number of well known business men and bankers. They are P. D. Armour, George M. Reynolds, Herman Waldeck, Joseph T. Ryerson, Charles W. Seabury, E. P. Waud, Rush C. Butler, Robert B. Upham, Earle H. Reynolds, Robert J. Graf, Cyrus McCormick, Donald B. Douglas, Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, Lester Armour, and John A. Holabird.

The Peoples Trust and Savings bank is one of the handsome edifices in Michigan avenue. It is a 20 story structure, an additional five stories having been added in 1923 at a reported cost of $1,000,000. However, the banking house and fixtures are carried at only $333,518 in the bank's annual report for 1931. The building is owned by the Michigan Boulevard Building company.

The bank was organized in 1910.

MANY OF STATE LEADERS FROWN ON COMPROMISE

Rumors Afloat on Vice Presidency.

President Hoover and Secretary Mills confer in Washington on economy planks for the Republican platform. Mills denies reparations and war debts situation were among the subjects discussed. Hoover indicates willingness to run on resubmission plank. Page 3.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Hoover scouts among the early arrivals for the opening of the Republican national convention next Tuesday discovered yesterday that the sentiment among national committeemen and other state leaders on the prohibition question is much wetter than that voiced by leaders of congress in last week's conferences with James R. Garfield, who is slated to become chairman of the committee on resolutions.

Those conferences in Washington, which wound up last Sunday, produced a compromise plank providing for the resubmission of the eighteenth amendment for repeal, retention, or revision. This was said to be satisfactory to the elder statesmen of the senate and to be acceptable to President Hoover.

State Leaders Want Repeal.

But now the advance men looking the actual battleground over have learned that many of the state chieftains who will control much of the voting done on the platform are more inclined to insist upon a plank for the repeal of the Volstead act and the dry amendment.

On top of private admissions to this effect by some of the scouts it was reported that Chairman-Designate Garfield had reached Chicago and had held a number of secret conferences in the Congress hotel and had come to the same conclusion.

The report of Mr. Garfield's arrival, however, proved erroneous. According to the best information obtainable he was still in Cleveland last night and will not arrive in Chicago before tomorrow or Sunday. In Cleveland he was quoted as saying that "there can be no agreement on a prohibition plank before the convention." He said that several planks were under consideration.

Committee Work Lags.

The canvassing of the wet and dry situation by the early arrivals who are expected to report back to Washington formed the chief topic of discussion during the day, chiefly because there was nothing else of live interest happening.

The committee on arrangements met in the morning and found little to do, and in the afternoon the national committee met for a brief session, transacted some routine business, and adjourned until this morning, when it will start hearing from contesting delegations from southern states, none of the contests this year being considered of material importance.

Old timers agreed that on the whole convention headquarters and other hotels were quieter and less interesting than the environs of any preceding national convention only five days before the first call to order. The few delegates and alternates on the job found plenty of time on their hands for sightseeing and other recreation.

Dawes Mentioned, Coolidge Also.

Despite the confidence of the big men of the party that the convention will be a Hoover-Curtis walkaway, the headquarters talk turned to a second choice for the vice presidency. There was a slight rumble of dissatisfaction over the prospect of Vice President Curtis' renomination and some whispered war talk against him. The two names heard most frequently in talk of a "revolt" against him were those of Gen. Charles G. Dawes and Calvin Coolidge, part of the conversation dealing with a possible movement to draft Coolidge. But older heads agreed there was no chance of either of these two men considering the office.

But wherever two or more convention participants gathered together it was a rarity when the subject of prohibition was not raised. Efforts to learn just what the scouts had reported back to Washington as the result of the day's interviewing proved futile, but it was believed they at least had been in touch with some one who had reported the findings to the White House.

SUITCASE BANK GIVES HARRY A SHOCKING TIME

When the Washington Park National bank closed a year ago Harry Olsen, a locomotive engineer, had $2,700 on deposit. When a reorganization plan fell through the engineer lost confidence in all banks and withdrew from a solvent bank in the neighborhood the $4,000 remaining of his savings.

On the theory that an obvious hiding place is the best, Olsen tossed the big roll of currency into an old suitcase, which he shoved behind a clothes rack in the vestibule of his home at 7352 Yale avenue. There it remained gathering dust until yesterday.

During the afternoon Olsen called at the roundhouse looking for a train run. Finding none open he returned home, fell into a swoon and then telephoned the Englewood police. The house had been ransacked and the suitcase was gone.

The police were fumbling futilely for a clew and Olsen was vowing to drown himself in the lake when his wife, Agnes, lifted him from despair.

"I couldn't bear the worry of having all that money around," she told police. "While Harry was out I turned the house topsy-turvy and took the suitcase downtown. I put the money in a safety deposit vault and dropped the suitcase at a hotel."

HEARS UNCLE SAM HARD UP; OFFERS TO CANCEL BONUS!

Boston, Mass., June 9.—[Special.]—"Please, sir, I want to cancel my bonus."

The official on duty at the counter of the United States Veterans' bureau today looked up in amazement at the modestly dressed veteran who was speaking. After hours of hearing demands for more bonus money, more compensation and more attention, the weary official was not sure he had heard correctly. "You really want to cancel your bonus?" he asked.

"Yes, sir."

"Why? Aren't you entitled to it?"

"O, yes, sir, but I read in the papers that the government is hard up and I thought maybe they needed the money more than I did."

This wasn't in regulations, so the man on the job scratched his head a few minutes and then excused himself to ask the advice of William Blake, manager of the bureau.

Oddly enough Mr. Blake was not surprised. "I've had such requests before," he said, "and the answer is he can't do it. You cannot waive your right against the government. The money will be set aside for him whether he takes it or not. The best thing for him to do is to take the money and pass it on to some one else if he doesn't need it himself."

Royal C. Vilas Kills Self at Country Home

Royal C. Vilas, financier and sportsman, stood in front of a dresser mirror in the bedroom of his country home on Golf road, just west of the Glenview Country club, yesterday and shot himself in the temple. Mr. Vilas, who was 56 years old, is believed to have died instantly.

His bride, Myrtle Hoglund Vilas, 27 years old, who had been his secretary until their marriage a week ago, was picking flowers in the garden. About a half hour after he fired the shot she tiptoed upstairs, believing he was taking a nap, and found the body.

On the dresser was a letter, on which was written: "To my wife—this letter explains everything and there is enough for the children. I don't want to write any more."

Reveals Financial Troubles.

The letter, according to Coroner Frank J. Walsh, stated that Mr. Vilas' financial difficulties were such that at least five years would be needed to straighten them out. The letter directed that the Northern Trust company be designated trustee of his estate and that 25 per cent of his $310,000 insurance be given outright to Mrs. Vilas, the rest to be divided between his son, Royal Jr., 22 years old, now at home, and his daughter, Virginia, 27 years old, who is motoring in the south.

Mrs. Vilas and the servants told the coroner that Mr. Vilas went to the city yesterday morning and spent some time at his bank. He returned home shortly before noon, retiring to his bedroom after lowering the windows and drawing the shades. His death is believed to have occurred about 2 p. m.

Upon finding the body Mrs. Vilas summoned a Park Ridge physician and notified her husband's brother, L. H. Vilas, president of the Pyle-National company, 310 South Michigan avenue, manufacturers of locomotive headlights, a company which his father founded. Royal Vilas was chairman of the board until a year ago. The brother said Mr. Vilas had been in ill health.

His Third Marriage.

Mr. Vilas' recent marriage was his third. His first wife, Mary Armstrong Vilas, prominent in society and in charity work, divorced him on Jan. 18, 1921. She named Mrs. Edna Vance of Houston, Tex. Mr. Vilas gave her $15,000 cash and $150,000 insurance. Eighteen months later he married Mrs. Vance. They were divorced last January.

On June 15, 1926, the first Mrs. Vilas ended her life in her home at 230 Delaware place. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide while despondent over ill health.

Besides L. H. Vilas, Royal Vilas leaves another brother, Jack, sportsman and aviator, now living in the south. A third brother, Ward A. Vilas, was found dead of an overdose of a sedative in his room at the Plaza hotel on Feb. 13, 1920, shortly after his wife had sued for divorce.

U. S. COAST GUARD CAPTURES CUBAN REBEL LEADERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 9.—The full staff of the revolutionary expedition which was reported en route from Honduras to Cuba was captured on board the Cuban motor schooner Ferrer II. today in United States territorial waters off Tampa by a United States coast guard cutter. Among those aboard the Cuban boat was Dr. Odao Pérez, a graduate of Loyola university, Chicago, and a former interne of Douglas hospital in Chicago.

The cutter mistook the vessel for a rum runner, but after a search found it carried arms and ammunition. The prisoners, now en route to Tampa, must answer charges of violating the United States neutrality laws.

BRITISH POLICE GIVEN RIGHT TO WHIP 'BAD BOYS'

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 9.—Whipping by constables of children found guilty of indictable offenses is provided for in an amendment to the juvenile bill passed today by the house of lords.

The amendment calls for the presence of a police officer of higher rank at the whipping and permits the child's parents or guardian to witness the punishment.

During the discussion, a speaker declared that many of the peers present had doubtless benefited from whippings while they were in public school.

Virgil Kirkland Denied Parole by Indiana Board

Pendleton, Ind., June 10 [Friday].—(AP)—Virgil Kirkland of Gary, serving one to ten years in Indiana reformatory for the slaying of Arlene Draves, Gary schoolgirl, was denied a parole by the board of trustees of the penal institution early today.

vention leaders and state chieftains stand is said to be the second half of Garfield's first task. When it was learned that congress would remain in session over the convention period, the elder statesmen at the capital who have been such a power in former conventions—particularly the senatorial group—feared they would lose all voice in the drafting of the platform and the plan of having Mr. Garfield act as a sort of liaison man between congress and the convention was evolved.

He finished his Washington job last Sunday at the conference held at the Congressional Country club where the resubmission plank was agreed upon. Now he will take that plank up with important state leaders as fast as they arrive and, according to apparently authoritative reports, will find them much wetter than the elder statesmen in the senate chamber.

Fess Keeps Out of Fight.

And so far as the old time militant drys in the party are concerned, they are showing little tendency to fight back against the demand which goes all the way for repeal. For example, Chairman Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, who arrived in a cloak of silence Wednesday night, refused repeated opportunities, although he recently was predicting a bone-dry platform, to hoist the battle flag of prohibition.

"It is a well known fact that I am politically and personally dry," he said, "but I am not a member of any of the committees of this convention and shall have nothing to say about a dry plank. I have no desire to control the action of the convention in any respect."

France Urges Repeal.

But in the meantime the battlesome wets were continuing to make themselves heard. Not the least of these was Joseph I. France, former senator from Maryland, who entered his name in the presidential primaries of nine states—many of them merely of an "advisory" nature—and now asserts that President Hoover cannot be renominated.

"This talk of resubmission is hypocrisy," he said at the Congress hotel. "What the party needs is positive leadership. For the party to say we don't know what to do about it and to say that it will let the people decide in some vague sort of way is the worst kind of weakness.

"I am confident the convention will favor repeal of the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment. With that true the nominee must be a wet. I not only voted against the amendment but predicted the evil results that have followed in its wake."

Brown Silent on Issue.

Walter F. Brown, postmaster general, who is said to be one of the advisers who persuaded President Hoover to submit to the so-called Moses plank for resubmission, declined to enter into any prolonged discussion of the subject.

"It's impossible to forecast what the convention will do about it," he said.

Robert H. Lucas, executive director for the national committee, was only slightly more communicative.

"From what I have heard here," he said, "I believe the plank will be for a referendum of the people. Whatever has been said or done up to this time is tentative. However, the Rockefeller letter apparently is having a strong influence. It is the most important statement so far on this subject."

Sees a Wet Platform.

Garrett Kinney, state director of finance, was the first important delegate from downstate Illinois seen around the committee headquarters and he was outspoken on the prohibition question.

"I feel sure the convention will adopt a wet platform just as our state convention did," he said. "It is folly to think of straddling on this question. There are no more drys left."

And all the while the leaders of the big anti-dry organizations are going ahead with their plans to attract the attention of the convention to their demands for repeal. The headquarters of the United Repeal council will be opened soon in the Blackstone hotel. It will be in charge of Henry Curran, head of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

He is expected in Chicago today or tomorrow and probably will be joined soon by Pierre S. du Pont, president of the council, and by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, president of the Woman's National Organization for Prohibition Reform.

The dry forces also are mobilizing, and will start their four day meeting tonight at the Third Presbyterian church, Ashland and Ogden avenues, the speaker being F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league. Alonzo E. Wilson will preside. There will be two or three sessions a day until Monday evening, the night before the Republican convention opens.

'HOOVER—WE ARE HERE,' IS G. O. P. WOMEN'S SLOGAN

Feminine Notables Ready for Busy Days.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

"Mr. Hoover—we are here!" was the unspoken slogan yesterday around Congress hotel headquarters of the women of the G. O. P. Things began to hum on the mezzanine floor there about mid-morning, with the simultaneous arrival in Chicago of feminine leaders whose party prominence transcends state lines.

No one would discuss the absorbing topic of a possible wet plank in the Republican platform. But everybody wanted to talk about Mr. Hoover and what a good candidate he's going to be this fall.

Powder Puffs in Hiding.

Nobody in the entire, busy brigade flourished a powder puff all day long, yet everybody looked serene and smart. Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of Louisville, Ky., generalissimo of the feminine forces in her capacity as vice chairman of the Republican national committee, wore her traveling ensemble of navy blue cloth dress and coat, with a Watteau type of navy straw, wide brimmed hat, for interviews at the Drake in the morning, photographs at the Congress in the afternoon, and the official gathering of the chieftains of the national committee thereafter.

Mrs. Ellis T. Yost of Huntington, W. Va., who was the cynosure of all the activity by virtue of her active direction of the women during Mrs. Hert's two year illness, was summery and cool in a green linen frock, with a beige topcoat and brown straw chapeau.

Busy Day for Mrs. Baur.

Darting in and out with sheaves of papers and important errands, Mrs. Jacob Baur was in her element and a chic navy and white costume. A saucy flowered turban topped her long white blouse and navy skirt. As national committeewoman from Illinois and head of the Woman's National Republican club, her duties for the next several days are apt to be arduous.

A flurry at the elevators signaled the appearance of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant United States attorney general. She was surrounded in a twinkling by the reporters, one and all popping questions at her about her opinion on the Eighteenth amendment. But Mabel was wary though definite.

"Since my retirement from public office," she told them crisply, "I have made it a rule not to give out a statement on prohibition. You understand that I have my personal convictions. During my tenure of office I strove to fulfill my obligations toward the existing legislation. When I retired to private practice as an attorney I resolved that my opinion would never again become the subject of public controversy. I have stood by that resolve. That is all I have to say."

Dodge Dry Law Quiz.

Both Mrs. Hert and Mrs. Yost dodged the reportorial quiz on the prohibition topic. Their concern, they maintained, is for the Republican party as a whole. Mrs. Yost is one of the firmest supporters of the Volstead act in the nation.

Both these Republican leaders were exultant over the statistics that reveal a substantial gain in feminine representation at the impending convention over all others in history. Mrs. Yost cites the available figures for 1932 as totaling 383 at the present time, exclusive of the Indiana and Idaho groups, who will boost it considerably. There are 92 delegates and 291 alternates as the list stands.

Only 334 at Kansas City.

There were 120 delegates and 277 alternates, 397 altogether, in 1924 at Cleveland. At Kansas City in 1928, where a scrap was scheduled, there were less because the men refused to give up their seats with such a prospect. The delegates numbered 70 there and the alternates 264, adding up to 334 in all.

Mrs. Karl Templeton of 540 Brompton place reported yesterday that Mrs. Helena Skeels of Isle La Motte, Vt., a delegate, vice chairman of the Republican state committee there, had been unconscious since Sunday evening, when her home was struck by lightning, and would be unable to attend. She is a veteran in politics and woman's suffrage.

Mrs. Harry Lincoln MacGregor of Evanston, one of the busiest persons around the headquarters of the women's division yesterday, was born just across the street from President Hoover's home in West Branch, Ia., and has been a lifelong friend of his family. "Though he's six years older than I am," she adds with a smile.

Women Back Job Relief.

Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters, will arrive in Chicago this morning for a luncheon conference with members of the Illinois and Cook county leagues preliminary to the convention. She is expected to make a statement of the planks her organization hopes to have the Republican forces accept, dealing specifically with the depression and unemployment.

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair and Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, both prominent in Democratic ranks throughout the country, will arrive in Chicago today or tomorrow to report the Republican assembly for national perodicals.

STADIUM TO BE READY TODAY FOR OPENING OF G. O. P. CONVENTION

The Chicago Stadium will be ready today for the opening of the Republican national convention. Last night 300 workmen completed the task of adjusting convention garb on the structure which will house 22,700 notables, delegates, alternates, newspapermen and visitors beginning Tuesday morning.

Among the last details to be completed were the speakers' platform and the press stands immediately in front of the platform. A dozen loudspeakers were hoisted above the platform and ten others were placed at ends of the hall to make every word from the platform audible in the most remote corners. The last of the bunting, flags, and shields also were hung.

Below the convention floor workmen completed the erection of offices for newspapers. On the same level telegraph companies completed wiring to handle newspaper copy. The last of the decorations will be finished during the day.

The demand for tickets continued brisk at the headquarters of the Chicago Citizens' committee, 208 South La Salle street. It is expected that all tickets will be sold during the day.

TRADE LEADERS TO HONOR DOAK AT LUNCHEON

Fifty leaders in politics, the railroad world, and civic affairs will honor Secretary of Labor William N. Doak at a luncheon on Monday in the Palmer house. The luncheon is sponsored by Walter L. McMenimen, former member of the railroad labor board. Secretary Doak is vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and McMenimen formerly served as representative of the organization.

WILLIAM N. DOAK.

Invitations to the luncheon have been accepted by Gov. Emmerson, Mayor Cermak, Rufus Dawes, R. L. Randolph, Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the Chicago citizens committee; W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad; Ralph Budd, president of the C. B. & Q.; L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central; D. A. Crawford, president of the Pullman company, and George F. Getz, president, Globe Coal company.

Others who have accepted are William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Senator Glenn, Judge Henry Horner, United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, J. E. Gorman, president of the Rock Island lines; J. J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad; Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western; H. A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé.

COMMITTEEMEN SHUN DRY ISSUE IN G. O. P. MEETING

But Dakotan Says All Is Harmony.

"It will be a tame convention; they're so harmonious it's painful."

Such was the opinion voiced by S. X. Way, publisher and Republican national committeeman from South Dakota, who has attended the quadrennial Republican session since 1892, as he looked over a meeting of the national committee in the Florentine room of the Congress hotel yesterday. His opinion was reflected in the demeanor of the men and women who sat listlessly and talked little. Greetings were exchanged as familiar faces were encountered, but it was a subdued gathering and many sat alone.

Mr. Way, who was a member of the credentials committee that submitted a minority report in 1912 and launched Theodore Roosevelt's Bull Moose campaign, based his prediction of tameness on the solid Hoover backing, but declined an opinion on the possibility of a wet and dry squabble.

Solid for Hoover, He Says.

Despite the widespread feeling that the Republicans are certain to go wet, this is a forbidden subject among most of the committeemen. The general attitude was expressed by M. L. Requa, committeeman from California, who is credited with being Hoover's mouthpiece in that state.

"We're solid for Hoover and that's all we'll say," declared Mr. Requa.

If the physical evidences are an indication of the prohibition sentiment, the committeemen are at least personally dry, for there was not a whisky breath on the mezzanine floor and nobody mentioned a drink. Old timers said this was unusual, even for committeemen and national party officers. Things will liven up a bit when more of the state delegations get in and install themselves in the various hotels, but the depression will restrain them and gay parties will be few, in the opinion of the veterans. The state delegations are late this year, to save on hotel bills.

Before and after the committee meeting the mezzanine floor teemed with several hundred men and women, but they seemed to be milling about aimlessly. The only sign of activity was in the offices of the chairman vice chairmen and lesser functionaries, who, barricaded behind three secretaries, seemed to be most busy evading people.

Hopes for Modification.

Col. Henry Anderson of Virginia, who, as a member of the Wickersham commission, was the author of the famous Anderson plan for modification of the dry laws, was the center of much attention upon his arrival yesterday. Col. Anderson voiced his personal hopes for a definite modification plank, but said all conjectures on what the outcome will be were futile. Col. Anderson will speak at the Union League club at noon today on "Facing the Economic Problem."

Notable among the missing so far is William S. Vare, powerful Pennsylvania Republican chieftain, and it was reported he will not show up this year. Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of the Pennsylvania state committee, arrived carrying a proxy for National Committeeman Jay Cooke, and explained that in his state existed the paradox of a dry state committee and a wet delegation.

Important arrivals yesterday included James Francis Burke, general counsel of the national committee; Walter F. Brown, postmaster general and one of President Hoover's counselors; Ernest L. Jahncke, assistant secretary of the navy and national committeeman from Louisiana; Daniel E. Pomeroy of New Jersey, a vice chairman of the national committee; and Robert H. Lucas of Kentucky, executive director of the national committee.

Absent from the Florentine room and from the whole mezzanine floor with its twenty or more offices, was a portrait of President Hoover. The only decoration in the assembly room of the committee's first preliminary meeting was an American flag above the speaker's table.

NAME COMMITTEE ON ENTERTAINMENT FOR CONVENTIONS

Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the citizens' committee in charge of local arrangements for the Republican and Democratic national conventions, announced the makeup yesterday of a committee charged with receiving and entertaining distinguished guests to the two meetings.

Ernest R. Graham of the architectural firm of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, was appointed chairman. The vice chairmen are George E. Scott and Fred A. Poor. Gov. Emmerson, Mayor Cermak, Senator Glenn, and Senator Lewis are honorary chairmen.

The personnel of the committee is as follows:

Arthur Andersen	Francis J. Lewis
Capt. Homer Berry	Judge Walter C. Lindley
Francis X. Busch	Frank O. Lowden
Rush C. Butler	P. J. Lucey
E. Boening	John C. Lewe
Claude A. Barnett	S. H. Mudge
Augustus A. Carpenter	Mark Morton
James G. Condon	Frank J. McNichols
George Cook	Emmett McGrath
Hon. E. F. Dunne	N. W. MacChesney
George Dixon	Justin F. McCarthy
Ning Eley	John S. Miller
Walter Eckhart	Paul H. Mueller
Max Epstein	Charles P. Megan
Michael J. Flynn	Ira Nelson Morris
Walter Fisher	P. A. Nash
Charles F. Glore	Henry J. Patten
David B. Gann	H. E. Poronto
Chas. B. Goodspeed	Edward L. Ryerson Jr.
Martin Harding	Andrew J. Ryan
Carter H. Harrison	Dr. Carl G. Roberts
Harry B. Hurd	Alfred Shaw
Henry Hars	Clayton Smith
Patrick H. Joyce	Ernest J. Stevens
Walter Jacobs	E. G. Seubert
Noble B. Judah	Orville Taylor
Victor H. Keane	Floyd E. Thompson
Judge Otto Kerner	Edgar B. Tolman
Weymouth Kirkland	F. J. Tomczak
Roy D. Keehn	David Taber
George H. Kiefer	Ezra Warner
Louis B. Kuppenheimer	Judge J. H. Wilkerson
Dr. Ernest L. Klein	John P. Wilson
W. G. Lerch	W. M. Walker

"We are not afraid our guests will not have a good time," said Chairman Hurley, "but we want to help them in every way possible."

PRAYER SERVICES PLANNED DURING 2 CONVENTIONS

While the national conventions are in session in the Stadium prayer meetings will be held each day in the First Congregational church just off Union park, where prayers will be offered for the delegates. Plans for the prayer sessions were announced last night by Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, Mass., general chairman of the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement, at the Palmer house.

What will happen if this federation of organizations pledged to uphold the eighteenth amendment is forced to choose between an avowedly wet presidential candidate and one dry running on a wet platform, Mrs. Peabody refused to discuss. But she intimated that the topic had been considered by her group, which she asserted represents a total membership of twelve million women.

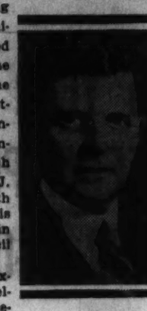
If necessity forces a choice, Mrs. Peabody admitted, "we have our own plans." She would not admit whether she implied a third candidate.

A "loyalty luncheon" is to be held Monday at the naval armory in Grant park to introduce the presidents of many affiliated organizations, including the W. C. T. U., Y. W. C. A., King's Daughters, General Federation of Women's Clubs, and others. Miss Jane Addams and Amos Alonzo Stagg will be among the speakers.

HOSTS ARRANGE HEARTY WELCOME FOR DELEGATES

Name Committees to Help Entertain Visitors.

A wide variety of events for the delegates to the national political conventions during their visits to Chicago was planned yesterday at the meeting of the citizens' committee on entertainment. The committee of which President E. J. Kelly of the south park board is chairman, met in the city council chambers.



E. J. KELLY. [Smith Photo.]

"We must extend a hearty welcome to the delegates, to make them believe that they selected the best place for their conventions when Chicago was chosen," said Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the citizens' committee, which brought the conventions to Chicago.

Subcommittees Are Named.

Nine subcommittees were appointed to arrange various entertainments and to keep the delegates advised of them. One group will arrange a midnight show, with an all-star cast of stage and radio performers, for the delegates to each convention. On the Monday evening preceding the opening of each convention delegates will be taken to the Hall of Science of the Century of Progress exposition for a preview of the 1933 World's Fair. An entertainment will be staged there.

In addition to motor boat races, water acrobatics, life saving exhibition and fireworks entertainment, will include a concert by the Mundy choristers and jubilee singers, under the direction of James A. Mundy, who for two years has been one of the Negro directors of the colored chorus at the Chicago and Music Festival concert held in Soldiers' field. The concert will be given at 8:30 o'clock.

Guest Cards for Delegates.

Arrangements will be made to get guests cards for the delegates on golf courses about Chicago, for their admission free to baseball games and race tracks during one day of each convention, and for illumination of loop buildings throughout the convention period. Other sports events will include indoor polo at the 124th Field Artillery armory in Washington park and soccer games in Soldiers' field.

A subcommittee on publicity and information will see that the delegates are informed as to where to find the various entertainments arranged for them. Packing companies have arranged special tours of the stockyards, and the University of Chicago will open its campus to the visitors. Directions for reaching these spots, as well as the Field museum, Art institute, Aquarium, Planetarium, and other permanent points of interest in the city will be included in the information lists.

CRUSADERS FIGHT FOR TEMPERANCE, CHIEF TELLS BAR

Likens Code to That of Saloon's Foes.

Crusaders seeking repeal of the national prohibition laws have virtually the same purposes as did those responsible for bringing about prohibition, Fred G. Clark, national commander of the organization, said yesterday at a luncheon of the Chicago Bar association.

FRED G. CLARK.

"I assure you, gentlemen, that the Crusaders view this problem of prohibition without rancor," Mr. Clark said. "Regardless of our opposition to the 18th amendment, it does not for one moment mean that we are opposed to the Idealism that placed the 18th amendment on the statute books.

"Millions of the flower of American manhood and womanhood gave years of unselfish effort, in a spirit of genuine self-sacrifice, in an attempt to make this country a better place for future generations to live in. We cannot be fair in approaching the subject of prohibition unless we recognize the nobility of purpose back of the legions of men and women who sincerely fought for a sober nation through the instrumentality of the dry law.

Calls Dry Law a Failure.

"In the past generation prohibition has been given a fair trial, not alone in the United States. It has been thoroughly tried by a jury of twelve countries, and this tribunal of nations has brought back the unanimous verdict of 'failure.'

"As Crusaders we call on those who formerly supported the 18th amendment to compare the code of principles they fought for 15 years ago with the code we are fighting for now. In 1913 prohibition leaders declared that the six cardinal principles dictating the cause of the prohibition movement were.

"1. The abolition of the saloon.

"2. The elimination of wholesale corruption between the legal liquor traffic and politics.

"3. The decrease of jail population and automatic decrease of police forces and courts.

"4. The removal of the temptation of drink among the youth of this country.

"5. The ending of widespread drunkenness.

Cites Crusaders' Code.

"The Crusaders have virtually the same code now. They are working for: 1.—the abolition of the speakeasy and the bootlegger and the prevention of the return of the old saloon. 2—the elimination of wholesale corruption between the illicit liquor traffic and politics; 3—the decrease of jail population; 4—the removal of the temptation to drink among the youth of this country; 5—for an end of widespread drunkenness, and 6—for drastic reduction of the nation's drink bill."

DELEGATE SEAT CONTESTS WILL BE HEARD TODAY

G. O. P. to Settle Disputes in Six Dixie States.

Hearings on delegate contests for seats in the Republican national convention will open this morning. The matter continued at yesterday's session of the national committee when Chairman Simeon D. Fess announced that contesting delegations had not completed appeals for official recognition.

The contests are internal quarrels in the delegations of Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. The outcome will have no effect on the voting at the convention, since the contestants from each of the states are pledged for President Hoover.

Recall Patronage Scandals.

The principal contests are in Mississippi and South Carolina. In their fight for recognition the contestants of these states will hark back to 1929. In that year, following the inauguration of President Hoover, there was an outcry throughout the country with charges that postoffice jobs and other patronage in the south were being sold.

President Hoover directed Postmaster General Walter F. Brown to act as referee. Brown in effect deposed several national committeemen by designating persons not officially connected with the party organization to handle patronage in the states.

Among the committeemen so deposed were Joseph W. Tolbert of South Carolina, a veteran who has won the name of "Tieless Joe" by never wearing a necktie, and Perry W. Howard, colored, of Mississippi. Federal recognition was given to J. C. Hambright in South Carolina and to Lamont Rowlands in Mississippi.

Both Sides Hold Conventions.

At the opening of the 1932 campaign the two committeemen, as well as Hambright and Rowlands, held state conventions and each chose delegates. Tolbert and Howard contend they were duly elected by their states and recognized by the 1928 convention and cannot be deposed.

The contests in the other states do not involve this principle. A controversy in the Georgia delegation, where a contesting colored delegation is opposing what the committee regards as a regular slate, is expected to be smoothed over. The Georgia contest will be the first to be heard.

HOOVER, MILLS CONFER ON NEW G. O. P. PLANKS

One Expected to Pledge National Economy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Further conferences on the makeup of the Republican party platform were held at the White House today although participants denied that the resubmission plank formula agreed upon by President Hoover and party chieftains had been discussed.

EMANUEL CELLER. [Acme Photo.]

Following a conference between President Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury Mills it was learned that the administration has decided to include a strong plank on national economy in government in the platform on which Mr. Hoover expects to go to the country for reelection. The exact phraseology of this plank was not made public, although indications were it would contain a pledge to effect economies through reorganization of the government and through strict economies.

Debt Situation Uncertain.

Other phases of the national financial situation were discussed by the President and Mr. Mills, although the cabinet member denied that the reparations and war debts situation had come into the conversation. Indications were that the plank concerning foreign relations will not be overly strong on collection of the war debts and the general reparations and war debt situation is now in such a state of flux due to the approaching Lausanne conference that the administration probably will not want to tie its hands too far by declaring against any reduction of the debts.

As for China it was disclosed that the administration will recommend a plank in line with the policies followed by Secretary Stimson during the Manchurian-Shanghai crisis. This would include a reaffirmation of the state department's position that no treaties between Japan and China should be recognized as legal if they violate the Kellogg pact or other international agreements.

Approves Resubmission Plank.

Notwithstanding the White House denial of yesterday that President Hoover has given approval to a resubmission plank or as a matter of fact had ever seen one, the prohibition question with special reference to the White House viewpoint again held the national spotlight. In this connection it was learned definitely that President Hoover has advised party chieftains of his views on prohibition and his willingness to run on a platform pledging the party to resubmission of the 18th amendment to a vote of the people.

From a high source it was learned that on the conclusion of the recent White House conferences participated in by party chieftains President Hoover advised the leaders to go ahead and draw up a prohibition plank now that they knew the sentiment of the country and his views. The President was represented as having told his hearers that they would be making a grave mistake if they denied the people a right to vote on the question of retaining the eighteenth amendment.

Hyde Urges Plank.

It was said today that during the conferences between party leaders and the President on prohibition Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, regarded as a personal dry, had been one of the leaders in urging a resubmission plank.

When the meetings concluded all participants left with the firm conviction President Hoover would accept any reasonable resubmission plank agreed upon, providing it did not bind the party to work to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

As these parleys were under way the hopes of the wets were given another tremendous upward shove by an announcement by Representative Emanuel Celler [Dem., N. Y.] to the effect that he had been informed former President Coolidge would condemn prohibition in a magazine article shortly to be published.

Sees Signs of Revolt.

"You may say 'O, bunk,' but the people of the country are not saying that," asserted Representative Celler. "There are unmistakable signs of a revolt in this country. The newspapers are filled with matters that those who are now dry might very well weigh with the greatest amount of meditation and thought and wisdom.

"I am informed that the former President of the United States, Mr. Coolidge, for example, as dry as ever was a President in the White House, will condemn prohibition in a magazine article, and I ask the gentleman from Texas to take heed."

RASKOB CANCELS $100,000 NOTES OF DEMOCRATS

New York, June 9.—[Special]—John J. Raskob, Democratic national committee chairman, has turned into an outright gift the $100,000 pledge he made to the $1,500,000 "victory fund" drive of the committee, it was learned today.

JOHN J. RASKOB.

A report of the assistant treasurer of the national committee, filed with the clerk of the house of representatives in Washington, revealed that Mr. Raskob had canceled and surrendered two promissory notes of the committee for $50,000 each. The report covers the period from March 1 to May 31.

Deficit of Half Million.

The report showed that the committee still owes Mr. Raskob $120,250 and that the deficit between March 1 and May 31, was reduced from $786,117 to $559,358. Included in the deficit, according to the report, is the sum of $433,767 in notes held by the County Trust Company of New York.

The County Trust company in March filed suits to collect $50,000 and $20,000, respectively, from Timothy J. Mara and Patrick F. Kenny, a Yonkers plumbing contractor, who replied that it was understood they were not to repay the money, merely being among nine friends of Alfred E. Smith, who, in the autumn of 1928, signed a blanket note for $325,000 to cover up "illegal contributions" from the bank to his campaign fund.

The two notes, it was said at the committee's headquarters today, are included in the $433,767 in notes held by the County Trust company. At the time when Messrs. Mara and Kenny made their charges, Mr. Raskob pledged himself to make good on them.

Against its $559,358 deficit on May 31, the party had a cash balance of $117,627, the report showed, and expenditures in the three months totaled $258,026.

Contributions from March 1 to May 31 amounted to $329,158, and the committee on May 31 had $109,235 in unpaid pledges, including a pledge of $75,000 from the Chicago citizens' committee.

The contributions included five of $5,000 each, given by Melvin A. Traylor, Ira Nelson Morris, and Robert P. Carr of Chicago, and R. R. Young and Morton Schwartz of New York.

KING OF BRITAIN CALLS ON KING OF BELGIANS AND FINDS HIM "OUT"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 9.—Two kings, two queens and a war scarred soldier figured in an amusing incident here today. King George and Queen Mary rode up to the Carleton hotel to call on King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians who are on a private visit to London for a few days. No notice had been given of the British rulers' intended visit and they found the king and queen had left on a shopping expedition.

While King George was waiting outside the hotel, he beckoned to William Munsey, a war veteran with his breast adorned with medals and ribbons. "That's a fine breast of medals you have," the king said as the two chatted.

The British rulers then drove away. Ten minutes later the Belgian rulers returned. Learning that King George had just "dropped in," King Albert instructed an equerry to telephone Buckingham palace to extend regrets that they had not been at home. Later he and his queen visited the palace and had luncheon with King George and Queen Mary.

RUTH B. OWEN ADMITS DEFEAT BY FLORIDA WET

Jacksonville, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—Mark Wilcox, who advocates the quickest possible repeal of the eighteenth amendment, has eliminated from congress Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, crusading dry.

With the vote in 338 of the Fourth district's 412 precincts today showing 41,210 for Wilcox to 34,175 for Mrs. Owen, she conceded the Democratic nomination to her opponent and said she would resign Dec. 1, as she did not believe in "lame duck" office holding.

Representative Herbert J. Drane of the First district, who has voted dry but promised a referendum, must enter a second primary with J. Hardin Peterson, runner up, who also favored a referendum.

Representative Tom Yon, dry, must enter a runoff primary in the Third district, probably with Millard Caldwell, a referendum advocate. With 236 of the 283 precincts tabulated, Yon had 14,224 votes, compared with 12,996 for Caldwell and 9,372 for R. O. Patterson, also favoring referendum.

For congressman at large, Mayor John T. Alsop Jr. of Jacksonville, referendum advocate, was leading with 41,994 votes from 893 precincts. W. J. Sears, former congressman from the Fourth district, who had 41,902. Sears favors a referendum.

W. D. Bell, dry, had 24,241 votes. Asher Frank, wet, had 10,715, and Lester Jennings, wet, 17,112.

DRY'S WIFE POSTS $500 BOND FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Bertha Huddleston, attractive wife of the bone dry Representative George Huddleston [Dem., Ala.] was in police court today on a charge of driving while drunk. In court with her was Mark M. Penn, 43 year old salesman, who was charged with drunkenness.

Mrs. Huddleston and her companion were arrested last night after, it is alleged by police, she drove her car into a parked automobile.

Both Mrs. Huddleston and Penn denied they were intoxicated but she was required to give $500 bond and her companion to put up $10 collateral before they were released. Their trial was continued until next week.

JURY LOCKED UP IN M'GEOGHEGAN ROBBERY CASE

After seven hours' deliberation the jury in the case of Dan McGeoghegan, south side hoodlum accused of participating in the $60,000 robbery of the State bank of Clearing, was locked up in a hotel at 11 o'clock last night and ordered by Judge John Prystalski to resume deliberations in the morning. Rumor had the jury divided six to six between conviction and acquittal.

William Dunn, 715 West 43d street, a former court clerk now employed in the stockyards, completed the defense yesterday with further alibi testimony. He corroborated the story that McGeoghegan was attending a funeral at the time the bank was robbed on Dec. 6, 1930.

LET FIRST LADY DRAW FIRST STEIN OF GOOD BEER, DU PONT URGES

New York, June 9.—(AP)—A passing suggestion that the first lady of the land "open the faucet to admit the flow of a supply of well made beer" was made by Pierre S. du Pont, financier, today in a talk on "Prohibition Plainly Put" under auspices of the National Students' federation.

His suggestion followed praise of the administration of liquor control in England.

"The standards of the liquor traffic have been raised so much," he said, "that at the opening of a new and improved public house in London Queen Mary herself drew the first beer sold."

SENATE PASSES ARMY BILL FOR 390 MILLIONS

Cuts Lose as Hot Words Fly on Beer and Bonus.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—The war department supply bill carrying 390 millions for national defense and 100 millions for nonmilitary activities passed the senate late today, after having withstood five separate attempts to trim the appropriations and to eliminate or limit civilian training.

SENATOR BURTON K. WHEELER.

A motion by Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] to send the the bill back to the appropriations committee to undergo a 10 per cent cut was defeated, 22 to 47.

A motion by Senator George W. Norris [radical Rep., Neb.] to cut out the $2,603,624 for citizens' military training camps was defeated, 11 to 45.

A motion by Senator Bronson Cutting [Rad. Rep., N. M.] to limit the C. M. T. C. to strictly military training was defeated, 18 to 36.

2,000 Officers to Stay.

Motions by Senator Lynn J. Frazier [radical Rep., N. D.] to disapprove the committee's restoration of the 2,000 officers stricken out by the house and to withhold funds from nonmilitary schools where R. O. T. C. training is compulsory were defeated, respectively, 16 to 51, and 7 to 43.

Heated debate over the bonus and beer marked the bill's consideration.

Denunciation and counter-denunciation were hurled back and forth across the chambers by Senators Burton K. Wheeler [radical Dem., Mont.] and Gorge H. Moses [Rep., N. H.].

The controversy exploded when Senator Wheeler commended the motion of Senator McKellar to recommit the bill with instructions that the committee cut it 10 per cent, or 39 millions, below the $392,586,146 as approved by the house. The bill, as approved, carries $389,578,513—a cut of $3,007,633.

Wheeler Hints of Bonus.

Senator Wheeler advocated the temporary elimination or curtailment of expenditures for civilian training, such as the National Guard and the citizens' military training camps.

"The country will be asking you," he said, "why you appropriate money for the C. M. T. C., for business men to be fed, feted, and trained, while you refuse to feed and shelter men such as are in this gallery today, men who fought across the water and who are now hungry and in distress.

"I fear for what is going to happen if this policy is continued—if you turn a deaf ear to distressed veterans, yet appropriate money for nonessentials. It is unfair, unjust. And sooner or later you will suffer for it."

From his seat across the chamber Senator Moses leaped up angrily.

"In the early stages of the session," said Senator Moses, "I voted consistently for the motions to instruct the committee on appropriations to reduce each appropriation bill 10 per cent."

He had been ready, he said, "to vote to recommit the war department bill;" then Senator Wheeler had spoken.

"Incentive to Revolution."

"I would cast such a vote," barked Senator Moses, "but for the fact that I regard the remarks offered by the senator from Montana as nothing less than a direct incentive to revolution in this country in saying that he wishes the national defense cut down in order that money may be provided for those who have no right to it whatever.

"Neither the gallery nor any armed camp which may encircle the capitol can have the slightest effect upon my convictions or upon my vote. I believe that lobbyists no matter in what guise they come here should not be fed and sheltered and supported from the federal treasury; that they should take care of themselves; that they should let their cause stand upon its own merits. If we have now come to a time when the senate of the United States, like the Roman senate of old, is to be encircled with legionnaires intent to overthrow the republic and set up a military dictatorship now is the time to resist it.

"I have never yet surrendered to a threat, and I do not intend to begin now."

Wheeler Leaps to Attack.

It was Senator Wheeler's turn to come out of his seat fighting.

"I don't propose to stand idly by and let the senator from New Hampshire put words in my mouth," he shouted. "I offered no threat, and all the senator is trying to do is to stir up sympathy against the men who are here.

"They are asking no more of congress than any other class of persons who come here demanding special favors. I have never heard the senator raise his voice to protest against special favors for citizens if they happened to come from New Hampshire or New England.

"To incite a revolution is the last thing I would want to do. But what I do want to do is to prevent a revolution by seeing to it that the average citizen fares as well as the Wall street bankers and brokers and insurance people.

Once more Senator Moses rose.

"Inveighing against special privilege," he said, "the senator now urges special privilege for those for whom he has pleaded this afternoon."

Bitter Words on Beer.

Equal in vigor to the interchange on the bonus was the renewed demand by Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Mo.] for the legalization and taxation of beer.

Senator Tydings' renewal of his demand that beer be legalized came during the debate on the McKellar motion. He asserted that the cutting down of the economy bill which the senate passed yesterday left 300 millions still to be saved.

"Because you did not have the courage to tax beer," he shouted, "now you're called on to use a broadax on appropriations for the essential activities of government.

"One after the other members of congress who have opposed modification have gone down to defeat. Yet in the face of that congress had the effrontery, the ignorance to burden the people with new taxes.

Senator Tydings announced that when the relief bill comes before the senate he will again bring up his amendment to legalize and tax beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content by weight. By this plan an expected revenue of some 375 millions would be realized.

"Every one knows," Senator Tydings concluded, "that within a year from this hour we'll be voting on the resubmission of the 18th amendment—and we'll be passing it. Why not accept the inevitable now?"

Senator Reed attempted vainly to have army promotions and pay increases exempted from the provisions of the economy bill passed yesterday.

WORLD PARLEY ON ECONOMY APPROVED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—The house rules committee acted unanimously today to give privileged status to the Somers resolution urging the administration to send delegates to a world conference "for the purpose of considering methods for the improvement of general economy and monetary conditions."

A vote by the house is promised early next week. Indications are that the resolution will be adopted.

At the same sitting the house committee ordered preferred status for a resolution by Representative Fulmer [Dem., S. C.] turning over to the American Red Cross 40,000,000 additional bushels of wheat and one million bales of cotton from the grain and cotton stabilization corporations.

Similar privileged status was given to the resolution passed by the senate last week broadening the powers of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to permit loans out of the 250 million dollar agricultural allotment for live stock and poultry raising and the dairy industry this summer and the summer following.

Strenuous efforts were made in the senate to force relief bills ahead of the legislative jam that has been created by piling up appropriation bills.

An effort will be made tomorrow to get unanimous consent to bring the bill of Senator Robert Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], appropriating 300 millions for direct federal aid to the states to help the unemployed, immediately after the conference report on the department of agriculture appropriation is disposed of. The prospect was good for consideration of the Wagner bill tomorrow.

The jam over the appropriation bills was threatened with further complications when Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], introduced a resolution calling for the elimination of all appropriations for permanent improvements from appropriation bills.

HOUSE REJECTS FURLOUGH PLAN TO CUT EXPENSES

Sticks to Own 11 Pct. Pay Slash Scheme.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.] — The economy-in-government battle confronted both branches of congress anew tonight when the house flatly refused to accept President Hoover's plan for furloughs without pay for federal employés, as adopted by the senate, in lieu of the straight 11 per cent salary cut voted by the house.

So far apart are the two houses on the question that Speaker Garner announced an attempt would be made tomorrow to get an agreement from the senate conferees to separate the economy feature from the legislative appropriation bill and consider them separately.

In that event the conferees would take up the legislative bill first and get it out of the way, so it would not be jeopardized if a sudden move got under way for early adjournment to let restive members attend the national conventions. An agreement on the differences in the legislative measure could be reached, it was said, within an hour.

Garner Picks Conferees.

The conferees would then be left free to fight it out on the issue of the President's furlough plan as against the straight pay cut. In the end it appeared probable that the battle would be carried back to the floor of both senate and house, where the division of opinion is close and feeling is high.

Immediately after the senate plan was sent to the house Speaker Garner appointed Representatives Sandlin [La.] and Ludlow [Ind.], Democrats, and Hardy [Colo.], Republican, as conferees on behalf of the house. He had hoped to get an agreement to separate the economy plan immediately so the legislative bill could be completed before adjournment today.

Smoot on Committee.

The senate, however, failed to name its conferees until late and the question went over until tomorrow. The senate committee consists of Senators Jones [Wash.], Hale [Me.], and Smoot [Utah], Republicans, and Bratton [N. M.] and Broussard [La.], Democrats. Of this committee Senator Bratton alone stood out for a pay cut instead of the furlough program.

It was expected that the house conferees would compose the differences in the legislative bill proper, report back to the house their inability to agree on the economy rider, and ask for new house conferees. Speaker Garner then will select five members from the house economy committee to thrash out the problem.

The house is ready to recede on all senate amendments to the legislative bill except two, both affecting veteran employés of the house whose jobs the senate wanted eliminated. House leaders were confident that the senate recede on these points since they affect only the organization of the house.

Would Save Millions.

The furlough plan is equivalent to a pay cut of 8.3 per cent. Under it government employés receiving more than $1,200 a year would be required to accept a furlough of one calendar working month during the coming fiscal year. Twenty-four working days is fixed as a calendar month. No employé would be forced to accept more than five days furlough in one month. Members of the senate and house would sustain a 10 per cent pay cut and legislative employés 8.3 per cent cut instead.

The house plan provided for application of the 11 per cent cut to all salaries above $2,500 a year. Employés receiving that sum or under would not be cut. Those above would deduct $2,500 as exemption and take the cut on all over it. The house plan is estimated to save the government $52,000,000 annually and the senate plan between 100 million and 150 million dollars.

Merchants are Buying Now to Escape Excise Taxation

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Inquiries received at the treasury department indicated that large numbers of wholesalers and retailers are planning to take advantage of a loophole in the new billion dollar tax law and stock up heavily upon commodities hit by the manufacturers' excise taxes before the act becomes effective.

As the law was finally enacted it provided that no tax should be collected on goods in the possession of retailers and wholesalers on June 21, when the act becomes effective. Neither is any tax to be collected on goods where the title has passed from the manufacturer or producer, to the wholesaler or dealer even if the commodities have not yet been shipped. Normally, excise tax sections have carried a floor tax provision which requires payment of the full tax on all goods delivered after the law becomes effective regardless of when they were purchased.

Millions May Be Lost.

Treasury officials today declined to estimate how much revenue would be lost through advance sales by manufacturers to wholesalers and retailers. At the time the bill was passed it was estimated that the excise taxes imposed on furs, gasoline, chewing gum, checks and the many other articles hit by this section would net $450,500,000. It was admitted that many millions would be lost if wholesalers and retailers generally took advantage of the way the act is written to buy large qantities of the articles hit by the tax.

In deciding not to insert a floor tax provision in the bill administration officials, it was said today, were motivated largely by the administrative difficulties such a provision would entail. High treasury officials expressed the opinion that if the law as now written inspired a buying splurge on the part of wholesalers and retailers the good effect this would have on business might well offset the loss to the government.

Gasoline Buying Heavy.

Reports reaching Washington today disclosed that jobbers are purchasing tremendous quantities of gasoline in advance of the date when the excise tax of 1 cent a gallon becomes effective. Large numbers of inquiries from dealers in and manufacturers of tires and tubes, furs, toilet articles, candy, matches, radios and other taxed articles have reached the treasury in the last days. In most instances the treasury has been asked if goods in the hands of dealers on the effective date of the excise taxes are taxable.

Inquirers have been told that if the title to goods has passed from the manufacturer or producers to the retailer or wholesaler on June 21 no tax will be collected on those articles when they are sold. The fact that the wholesaler or retailer does not make the full payment on the goods prior to June 21 will not make the articles taxable. The governing factor is that of whether title to the goods has passed.

Buyers Can Save Now.

Publication of the regulations for the administration of the new tax will disclose that the next few days will be bargain days both for the consumer and for the retailer and wholesaler. The men who wants to buy a new fur coat for his wife or an automobile or any other of the taxed articles will save substantial sums by purchasing them before the new tax is added to the price which the customer pays. The retailer and wholesaler by purchasing now will be able to sell cheaper during the summer, as his goods will not be loaded down with the new excise tax.

One-seventh of New York Residents Getting Charity

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—One out of every seven residents of New York City is being cared for by private or public relief agencies at a cost which has totaled $102,209,500 in the last eighteen months, Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee said tonight in a speech in Brooklyn. Including aid being rendered by the board of education, Mr. McKee said, 1,104,793 persons were being cared for by public or private agencies. The health department has estimated the population of the city at 7,218,223 as of July 1.

MONARCHY IS BEST RULE, SAYS GERMAN CHIEF

But Talk of Restoring It Foolish, He Asserts.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 9.—Baron Wilhelm von Gayl, minister of interior in the feudal Franz von Papen cabinet now in charge of republican Germany, today frankly told the reicharat [national council of German states] that he is a monarchist. He tried to allay the fears of the republicans by adding that the question of the form of government was of minor importance at present, but in the same breath announced the cabinet's determination to revise the constitution.

"I consider a monarchy the best government for a nation in the heart of Europe," he said. "I am forever mindful of the services rendered the nation by the former imperial royal house. But I am convinced that in the present struggle for existence the question of the form of government—a republic or a monarchy—need not be solved, especially not by this government."

"Talk of Monarchy Foolish."

Baron von Gayl prefaced his preference for royalism with the assertion:

"The talk of revision, in the sense of restoring the monarchy, is foolish and harmful. It would seem contemptible if, as a minister, I tried to deny my conviction—which is inbred and strengthened by long years of study."

He assured the representatives of the states that the new government "will not interfere with the self-administration of the states," but that it will hasten a "reform of the constitution."

"It is of vital importance," he said, "particularly in view of the fact that such a reform will simplify and reduce the cost of public administration. The Weimar constitution of 1919 has been since its inception frequently punctured by legislation and it is an unchallenged opinion in the widest circles that the constitution needs to be improved.

"This government has been labeled as reactionary. Well, we shall have to grin and bear it."

Hitler Fined for Contempt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, June 9.—Adolf Hitler, National Socialist chieftain, was fined $238 and threatened with imprisonment for contempt of court here today when he refused to "answer questions of Jewish lawyers."

Hitler was called as a witness in the perjury suit against the publicist, Werner Abel, who charged Hitler with accepting bribes of $125,000 from Italy to abandon his party's demand for the return of Tyrol to Austria.

Flaming with anger, Hitler testified that he had never accepted a cent of foreign money and shouted:

"I won't allow myself or my party to be insulted. I refuse to answer this Jewish lawyer further."

Judge Borrelli's Son Seized for Driving Without License

Bud Borrelli, 22 year old son of Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli, was taken into custody last night by Policeman Douglas Clark of the Pekin Inn station, who discovered that the youth was driving an automobile without state or city license emblems. He was given a ticket commanding his appearance in the South State street court today and was then released.

FAKE CALL LURES POLICE AS GANG HOLDS UP BANK

Bandits Get $8,900 in St. Charles Raid.

Members of a robber gang used a report of a fake airplane crash yesterday to distract police in surrounding towns while they held up the State bank of St. Charles and took $8,900.

LESTER J. NORRIS.

The bandits, four in number, were armed with two submachine guns and a sawed off shotgun. Lester J. Norris, millionaire president of the bank, pursued them in his automobile after they had fled from town, and two airplanes also went up in an attempt to locate them. The only person who sighted them was a farmer near De Kalb who recognized their car by the fact that a rear door had been torn off in their hurry to escape from the bank.

The report of the airplane crash was received at the Lombard police station, 12 miles east of St. Charles and on the direct road between the latter town and Chicago. It was given, Police Chief Hugo Carlson of Lombard said, by a man with a foreign accent and was received just 13 minutes before the bandits entered the bank.

Police Answer Fake Call.

The call was relayed to the police radio station in Chicago and from there to police departments in Wheaton, Villa Park, Glen Ellyn, and Elmhurst. Police from those towns, with deputy sheriffs from Wheaton, set out to seek the fallen plane. The call was made from a public telephone in Elmhurst.

"I am sure that the call was a decoy to lure police while the St. Charles robbers were making their escape," said Chief Carlson.

Three of the robbers entered the bank, the fourth remaining at the wheel of their automobile. When they entered an employé stepped on an alarm which rang a bell in the St. Charles police station, but there was no one in the station at the time.

"This is a stickup," shouted the leader of the gang, who carried the shotgun. "Everybody get in the back."

Overlook $5,000.

One bandit guarded three girls and two men employés. The leader placed his shotgun against the back of B. V. Olson, cashier, and ordered him to open the vault. Olson's fingers trembled and the first time he twirled the dial he failed to use the correct combination. The bandit shifted his shotgun to the back of the cashier's head.

"Better remember this time," he warned Olson.

Olson remembered. The bandits, in their hurry to seize their loot and escape, overlooked a package containing $5,000 in bills.

Norris is a former Chicago cartoonist who married Dellora Angell, a niece of John W. (Bet a Million) Gates and heiress to his $30,000,000 fortune.

AUTO BACKING AROUND CORNER KILLS CHILD, 4

Eighteen Year Old Driver Is Held by Police.

Hand in hand, James Hanstad, 4 years old, 1707 North Kedvale avenue, and his brother, Walter, 5, walked toward their home from a neighborhood grocery yesterday afternoon. At Kedvale and Wabansia avenues James jerked away, ran behind an automobile which was backing around the corner, and was run down.

The driver, Edward Meyers, 18 years old, 1740 North Karlov avenue, took the boy to the Keystone hospital where physicians said he had died instantly. Police held Meyers.

This death and three others in Cook county yesterday raised the 1932 toll to 484. The victims:

Charles Schaefer, 48 years old, 2389 West North avenue. Died at St. Elizabeth's hospital. He was struck at Wabansia and Western avenues earlier in the day. The driver was Anton Detl, 2534 Ardmore avenue.

Mrs. Fannie Chapman, 80 years old, 3712 West 13th street. Died at the Mother Cabrini hospital. She was injured April 4 at Douglas boulevard and Lawndale avenue.

Mrs. Constance Rutkauski, 43 years old, 15327 Myrtle street, Harvey. Killed when the automobile in which she was riding struck a truck backing from a driveway at 14608 South Western avenue. She died at St. Francis' hospital.

Ruth O'Donnell, 18 years old, 5530 Beall street, Hammond, was killed there yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding with Mrs. Kenneth Gragido, also of Hammond, overturned after the brakes jammed.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Howe of Chicago, returning from a honeymoon automobile tour, were injured yesterday near North Platte, Neb., in a collision in which three others also were hurt.

Charles Johnson, 65 years old, 612 Ralston street, Gary, was killed and his son, Nathaniel, 36, was seriously injured last night in a collision with a parked truck at 5th avenue and Ralston street in Gary.

WARNS DENTISTS AGAINST TRICKS OF PROMOTERS

Chicago dentists were warned yesterday by Dr. Howard C. Miller, president of the Chicago Dental society, against involving themselves in any of several coöperative medical and dental promotions which have become active in this area recently. The warning followed reports by several dentists that they had been approached by solicitors purporting to have the indorsement of the dental society with offers to make them "exclusive examiners" in return for investments ranging from $500 to $3,500.

"Some of these organizations may be within the letter of the law," Dr. Miller said, "but the dental profession and the public should be warned against their trick contracts. The hitch is usually in some such phrase as 'limited service.'

"On any legitimate basis, their prices for professional services are so low as to make the whole proposition absurd. Nor are these opportunists, virtually all of them incorporated within the last two or three years, to be confused with legitimate health insurance offered by responsible, recognized companies."

Dr. Miller's statement followed an investigation by the Better Business bureau.

TWO SEIZED AS AUTO THIEVES.

Victor Peterson, 18 years old, 5622 West Madison street, and John Schultz, 17, of 537 South Lavergne avenue, were arrested yesterday and charged with stealing the automobile of William Curran, a Forest Park policeman.

LEGION AUXILIARY SENDS IN $75 FOR HUNGRY CHILDREN

The child welfare committee of the Cook county council of the American Legion auxiliary sent the Hungry School Children's fund a check for $75 yesterday. The money was raised through a "melting pot" especially for the hungry school children of Chicago. Mrs. Emil A. Schlageter is chairman of the committee and Mrs. Claud D. Raber is president of the council, which has 7,000 members.

Other gifts include $12.25 from the Bookhouse for Children, one of the most loyal contributors to the fund. The money each week is collected in small sums from members of the organization. Five dollars each from "A Friend" and the Quadell club, and $2 from Lady Washington Ladies of the G. A. R. brought the day's total to $100.25, and the grand total to $43,240.16. Gifts should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

with two trousers

Why beat around the bush? Old man economy has made this a tough season for our higher priced Camerons!

These thoroughbreds weren't raised to be "show case suits". Behind those easy, trim lines there's a powerful lot of hard wear. And it's got to go to work, right now. Price can't keep such grand suits idle any longer!

We've cut loose—and dropped all the expensive Cameron Worsteds into our fast-moving $20 stocks! Solid colors—imported patterns—English styles—all are going at this one low price! We want 'em on customers' backs, where they'll make a lot more friends than on our clothing racks.

Make a date to be here, today or tomorrow, if you want a really fine suit of clothes—and a sweet saving, to boot!

INDIANA G. O. P. REPEAL PLANK SNAPS DRY YOKE

Vote for Resubmission as "Temperance" Move.

a majority in 47 county delegations. The drys had a majority in 38 counties. Seven counties were evenly divided. In only 19 counties was an entirely dry vote cast. The deciding votes that floated the wet plank through came from regions which a few years ago were bulwarks of the professional drys.

The resolutions committee, composed of twelve leading business and professional men, reported out the repealist plank unanimously. It knocked off two of the horns in the three pronged Garfield-Moses plank framed at Washington Sunday, said to have been given the White House okay.

Discard Modification.

The Garfield-Moses plank, which was sent here supposedly through Senator James E. Watson, who participated in the Sunday Washington conference, advocated action by congress and state conventions to determine whether the 18th should be "retained, modified or repealed." The Indiana plank knocks out the first two words and speaks definitely of submitting the question of repeal. The three prongs were regarded as looking like a straddle.

The Wright bone dry law, repeal of which is called for, is even dryer than the Volstead act. It does not recognize whisky in materia medica, and doctors cannot prescribe spirits for patients without breaking the law. It makes buyer equally culpable with seller. It was one of the first to make a criminal out of an automobile driver who might drive a friend who, unknown to him, had something on the hip.

"Temperance" Plank Starts Row.

The plank calls for repeal of this law and enactment of a state measure that will not go beyond the federal enforcement act.

After Henry W. Marshall, Lafayette publisher, as head of the resolutions committee, finished reading the "temperance" plank, there were yells from the wets and shrieks of "no" from the drys. A roll call was demanded by State Senator Lee J. Hartzell of Fort Wayne, president pro tem of the senate and an ardent dry. State Chairman Ivan C. Morgan, a canner of Austin, and a dry, after whanging away with the gavel straightened things out of a parliamentary tangle, and announced there would be a separate roll call on the wet plank.

Party leaders, their faces beaming, said the vote for the wet plank, which in some states might be regarded as more moist than wet, but which considering Indiana's old reign of dry bigotry is relatively wet indeed, is a vote of redemption for the state G. O. P.

SIGNS UP

GRETA GARBO.

Hollywood, Cal., June 9.—[Special.]—Greta Garbo, movie star, who planned to retire to a Swedish farm, has changed her mind. The closing of a bank in which she was a heavy depositor has induced her to continue in the films at a salary of $15,000 a week.

It was reported that she had signed a contract calling for that amount with Joseph Kennedy, banker and former executive, after refusing to renew her contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer at $8,500 a week.

INDIANA SOLONS DISAGREE ON REPEAL PLANK

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—Indiana's two Republican senators, Watson and Robinson, took opposite views on the prohibition resubmission platform adopted today by the state convention.

Senator Watson, who will run on the platform for reelection this year, indorsed the principle of resubmission, but Robinson declared the platform declaration "unnecessary" and "positively hurtful."

"I have consistently voted dry," said Senator Watson, "because the people of Indiana have been dry. I shall continue to vote dry until the people determine otherwise, but I am profoundly of the belief in the right of the people to determine this or any other question at the polls."

Senator Robinson said: "I think a wet plank wholly unnecessary. In my judgment there was no occasion for going farther than a straight declaration that the Republican platform stands for enforcement of all laws.

"In my opinion the plank adopted today will be hurtful to the party's chances."

Restaurant Men Complain of Competition.

Beer flats and speakeasies, which have returned to the practice of offering free lunch and food price cuts to entice the thirsty, are ruining the restaurant business, James J. Reaney, executive secretary of the Chicago Association of Restaurants, complained yesterday.

Two years ago Mr. Reaney went to the prohibition department offices with a similar complaint. He said speakeasies were bringing restaurant owners into disrepute in that they gave more food for less money, making up the loss on beer and liquor.

Told to Get Evidence.

"I was told to go out and get evidence so that the agents could make raids," Mr. Reaney said. "The association is not an organization of snoopers. We refused to do the agents' work. This closed our only avenue of relief."

Today beer flats in addition to cutting the price of home brew are offering attractive lunches, particularly in factory districts. Where a glass of home brew once sold at 15 cents, a quart bottle of four glasses is now sold at 25 cents.

For the purchase of one quart of beer the customer is entitled to a free lunch and, what is still better, he gets all he can eat. One lunch is offered each day but there are daily changes of menu. Many of the resorts offer:

Monday: roast beef.
Tuesday: beef stew.
Wednesday: ham hocks.
Thursday: corned beef and cabbage.
Friday: fresh fried perch.
Saturday: pigs feet.
Sunday: chicken stew.

Saloon Keepers Hit.

The home brew flats also are making inroads on the profits of the beer syndicate. Saloon owners complain their customers will not pay 25 cents a stein for brewery beer when they can get home brew and a lunch at 25 cents the quart bottle. Many have asked a reduction from the $55 price on a barrel of beer to enable them to sell at 15 cents a stein.

Operators of beer flats are enabled to sell cheaply because they have little or no overhead and there is no assessment of protection money. It is estimated that 1,000 beer flats are in operation on the near north side alone, with the rest of the city holding up in proportion.

La Grange Resident Is Killed by Train Near Home

VIRGINIA STATE DEMOCRATS FOR PROHIBITION TEST

H. F. Byrd Is Indorsed for Presidency.

Richmond, Va., June 9.—(AP)—By an overwhelming majority the Virginia state Democratic convention today adopted a platform containing a resolution favoring submission of the prohibition question to the several states by a method which the national convention may deem best.

The resolution was contained in a platform presented by a committee with United States Senator Carter Glass as its chairman. It also commended to the attention of the national body former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd's plan for the amendment to permit the people to vote directly on the prohibition question.

The platform was adopted after a repeal proposal had been defeated.

At the same time the ex-governor reiterated his Jefferson day declaration favoring a constitutional amendment to permit the voters to express themselves directly on the prohibition question.

His address followed upon a noisy demonstration at the state convention during which a resolution offering him as Virginia's presidential candidate was adopted by acclamation.

Earlier in the day Gov. John Garland Pollard, speaking as temporary chairman and keynoter, expressed his own approval of the Byrd referendum plan.

Less harmonious views were expressed, however, at a stormy session of the resolutions committee of the convention. Former State Senator O. O'Connor Goolrick of Fredericksburg led an unsuccessful fight for a prohibition repeal plank and advised the other members of the committee that he would offer a minority report.

Gov. Pollard, known as an ardent prohibitionist, said he favored the Byrd proposal "because it is fair, because it is expeditious, and because it affords the only plan yet offered by which the Democrats, wet and dry, may get together and present a united front against the reign of special interests with which the Republican party has afflicted this nation.

"I am dry, but I am unwilling for prohibition to exist against the will of the people.

"The principle of majority rule is more sacred to me than any particular method of dealing with the liquor problem. I would not if I could force prohibition on my state or nation against the will of the people."

Former Gov. Byrd's proposal would provide for another amendment to the constitution under which congress, by a two-thirds vote in both houses, could submit repeal or amendment of the eighteenth amendment to the direct vote of the people.

Comparing the Byrd proposal submission to state conventions or state legislatures, Gov. Pollard said the Byrd plan offered the greatest promise of an early decision of the question.

CHICAGO'S HOPE OF FEDERAL LOAN LIES IN CONGRESS

Bankers Decline to Act; Mayor Sends New Plea.

Enlargement by congress of the powers of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to permit it to lend directly to municipalities, seemed yesterday to be the only hope of Chicago's getting a loan to pay back salaries of school teachers and other employés.

Under present rules, the corporation may lend only to banks, Mayor Cermak was advised yesterday in response to his request for a loan of $40,000,000. Corporation officers added that they would be glad to consider an application from Chicago banks for such a loan, to be advanced by the banks to the city, school board, and other governmental bodies.

Bankers Against Plan.

Loop bankers have expressed themselves privately, but positively, as unwilling to be a party to any such application. One of them, who asked that his name be withheld, in explaining their position, said:

"While the actual cash in such a transaction would come from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the loan would, nevertheless, be a direct obligation of the banks. It is just as if some one came to you and asked you to indorse his note. The loop banks already are carrying as large a load of tax warrants as they safely can."

While Senator James Hamilton Lewis and Congressman A. J. Sabath continued their efforts in Washington to have the reconstruction finance act amended to authorize direct loans for relief purposes, Mayor Cermak wrote to the presidents of five loop banks, asking their coöperation in obtaining a loan under existing rules.

Letter to Loan Board.

He sent another letter, with a full statement of the financial needs of the city and school board to R. F. C. headquarters in Washington. He asked the corporation for a loan of $70,000,000, of which $40,000,000 is needed immediately and the remainder will be required within three months. This request, received after the mayor had been informed that the R. F. C. cannot lend directly to the city at present, was regarded as a preliminary either to a loan through banks, if they change their present position, or to a direct loan if the R. F. C. act is amended.

The city, the mayor wrote, needs $73,200,000, of which $35,000,000 is for corporate fund salaries from April 1 to the end of the year, $10,000,000 for unpaid bills, $2,000,000 for pension payments, and $15,200,000 for payment of bond and interest maturities up to and including Jan. 1, 1933.

The school board, the letter said, needs $17,400,000 for salaries now overdue, $12,500,000 for salaries for the rest of the year, $10,000,000 for bills, and $4,800,000 for bond and interest payments, a total of $44,700,000.

The city will show a reduction of its 1932 tax levies by $30,000,000, and other governmental bodies will cut their levies another $20,000,000, the mayor pointed out. It may even be possible to cut the levies by $70,000,000, he said, in which case the city's total tax bill would be reduced from $250,000,000 to $180,000,000.

Washington dispatches last night said that the resolutions introduced by Senator Lewis and Congressman Sabath would amend the R. F. C. act to permit loans to states for relief purposes. These loans eventually would go to cities needing them. Both resolutions have been referred to committees with little chance of any action until after the senate votes on the Wagner two billion dollar "relief" bill.

Babies Greet 500 at Orphanage

Some of the little ones who welcomed the Lay Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul who visited the orphanage yesterday and left behind them gifts that included every article that a child under 4 years of age might wear. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Playette Is Given

Children at St. Vincent's Infant asylum assumed their company manners and their most winning ways yesterday and greeted nearly 500 visitors who had come to the annual baby shower. The shower was sponsored by the Lay Daughters of Charities of St. Vincent de Paul, but the invitation list was extended to the general public.

The visitors were greeted at the door by Sister Camilla, Mother Superior of the asylum. The gifts were then presented and placed on display and included every article a child up to 4 years old might wear. Many of the children received frocks in the latest styles for summer wear with socks and sweaters to match.

The party centered in the auditorium, where there were plenty of flowers, ice cream, and cake, and a playette, "The Village Orchestra," in which some of the orphanage children took part assisted by children from St. Patrick's academy. The Rev. William J. Gorman, fire chaplain, gave a short address.

Among the guests were many who were making their first visit. Several were so well entertained by the small residents that they made arrangements for returning to place applications for adoption.

Machado Slashes Cuban Budget by $10,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, June 9.—President Machado today fixed Cuba's 1932-'33 budget at $50,400,000. The budget, which must secure congressional ratification before July 1, reduces expenditures by $10,000,000, as compared to last year's estimate, which is now in deficit by that amount.

SENATOR DUNLAP SPIKES BOOM FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Will Not Enter Contest, He Indicates.

Returning from Florida last night, State Senator Henry M. Dunlap of Champaign county discouraged his friends from boosting him as an independent candidate for governor in the fall.

Although admitting that he had been urged to run, the dean of the legislature's upper chamber said that no one had the right "to make me a candidate." "I am a Republican," said the senator, "and if I had intended to run for governor I would have entered my name in the April primary."

The senator's stand indicated that there was little possibility of his entering the race as a third major candidate against Judge Henry Horner, the Democratic nominee, and Len Small, Republican.

Long in State Service.

Senator Dunlap's long service in affairs of the state and his record in public office were responsible for the boom in his behalf, according to the announcement made Wednesday by Frank L. Mather, a publicity man, who said that the names of a committee backing the Dunlap candidacy would be made known shortly. Mr. Mather was reported to be conferring with the senator at the latter's large farm near Savoy last night.

Political discussion of the proposed candidate yesterday indicated that the boom was entirely Republican, with no bi-partisan angles. It was apparently inspired by members of that party dissatisfied with the nomination of Len Small.

Recommended by L. V. L.

Senator Dunlap has had the strong recommendation of the Legislative Voters' league during his nine terms in the legislature. His is "a remarkable record of distinguished service," said the latest league bulletin. He was given major credit for the creation of a state police and has always been active in the promotion of the legislative programs of the Illinois Agricultural association. Mrs. Dunlap frequently was seen beside her husband in the senate until her death last winter during the special relief sessions of the legislature.

Bonus Army Camp Insanitary; Washington Fears Epidemic

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—The situation created by the arrival of thousands of bonus marchers in the capital took a more serious turn today with the disclosure by William C. Fowler, health officer, that health conditions at the Anacostia veterans' camp constitute a serious menace to the health of the district. He described conditions as frightful.

The Fowler announcement came on the heels of a good natured but emphatic refusal by the veterans to depart from the capital in trucks furnished by the city. City officials placed trucks at the disposal of the 3,000 veterans now encamped here this morning, but no one volunteered to go home. "We are here to stay all summer if necessary," William W. Waters, elected leader and spokesman for the bonus expeditionary forces, advised police officials.

Dr. Fowler's report on the insanitary conditions existing around the veterans' camp was made public as leaders of the veterans were announcing that another 50,000 veterans would be here within three months to remain until congress voted legislation providing for immediate payment of the bonus.

Little Better Than Sewer.

"The conditions under which the men are living at the Anacostia camp make for the breeding of flies," Dr. Fowler said. "These flies will quickly transmit poisonous germs from open latrines to the men's food. Conditions are ideal for an outbreak of typhoid. The men bathe, wash their clothes and cooking utensils in the eastern branch, which is little better than a sewer.

"The marine corps dispensary will not admit any more bonus marchers after today. A report for June 7 showed that 123 bonus marchers had been treated there for blistered feet, neuritis, body lice, and other ailments, including three cases of heat prostration."

Representative Kent E. Keller [Dem., Ill.] today sought to relieve insanitary conditions in the camps by asking congress to order the war department to supply tents, cots, blankets, and cooking equipment.

Plea Made in Congress.

"No matter how the individual member of congress feels at this time," Mr. Keller said, "nor however much he may resent the pressure which he feels these men are attempting to bring upon him, I cannot conceive of any one who fourteen years ago cheered these men on their way to war could now be so heartless as to deny them protection from disease."

Senator Brookhart [radical Rep., Ia.] introduced a resolution calling upon the secretary of war to furnish army rations to all unemployed veterans in the United States. Senator Blaine [radical Rep., Wis.] wanted the Costigan bill for an appropriation to take care of the bonus marchers immediately reported out of committee, and Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.] pleaded for immediate consideration of the house bonus bill.

The bonus army also carried its fight today direct to the White House. The Rev. James R. Cox of Pittsburgh, who led a hunger march last winter, headed a delegation of veterans who called to deliver a petition to President Hoover and Speaker Garner. They were successful in seeing neither but left petitions anyhow.

Gives $5,000 to Feed Bonus Army.

Detroit, Mich., June 9.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Catholic priest, whose sermons over the air have made him known nationally, tonight announced he will give $5,000 to feed the "bonus army" in Washington. Father Coughlin said he will try to have the money delivered by the Rev. James R. Cox of Pittsburgh, but that if this is impossible he will leave tomorrow for Washington to deliver it in person.

Congressman Lets His Nose Know That He Wants Beer

Representative Melvin J. Maas [Rep., Minn.] passed through Chicago over United Air Lines yesterday wearing a handkerchief in his coat pocket with the slogan "We Want Beer!" embroidered in blue on the white silk. He was en route from St. Paul to Washington, D. C. He said he intends to return to Chicago for the Republican national convention to aid in the campaign for a prohibition repeal plank in the party's platform.

DEPOSED RULER, CLAD AS WOMAN, MARCHES ON KING

Ex-Emperor of Ethiopia Escapes; Masses Army.

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, June 9.—(AP)—Like Napoleon, the former Emperor Lidj Jeassu of Abyssinia has escaped captivity and is gathering an army about him to march on the present ruler, Haile Selassie.

But, unlike Napoleon, Jeassu fled garbed as a woman, it was revealed today, and is awaiting the end of the rainy season in the wilds of Gojjam before he tries to settle his score with Selassie.

Emperor's Troops Desert.

Emperor Haile Selassie announced he had sent his minsiter of war and an army into Gojjam to settle the score now. It is reported, however, that the emperor's soldiers are deserting him in favor of the former ruler.

The present trouble apparently began late in May when Ras Hailou, governor of the province of Gojjam, was arrested for plotting. Presumably Lidj Jeassu escaped then.

The former emperor has been in captivity for 15 years, since he was deposed by Haile Selassie. He had been in custody of an influential noble, the Ras Kassa. The Ras Kassa was a virtual prisoner here today.

Grandson of Menelik.

Reports filtering into the capital had it that a large and influential following is gathering about Lidj Jeassu, who is a grandson of the man who welded Abyssinia into a modern kingdom, Emperor Menelik.

When Menelik died in 1913 Lidj Jeassu succeeded him, but he was deposed when he tried to introduce Mohammedism into a nation that had been Christian for many centuries.

Haile Selassie is already embroiled with the French authorities. The trouble began with an attack by an Abyssinian soldier on an employé of the French railway at Diredawa. The man's wife and child also were said to have been beaten.

ORDERS ARREST OF KIDNAPER OF DAUGHTER

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday issued an attachment for the arrest of Fred J. Read, former cashier of the Central Republic company, an affiliate of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, who kidnaped his 9 year old daughter, Caroline, on May 8. The attachment was issued because Read is $320 arrears in alimony payments. Warrants charging him with kidnaping already have been issued.

Shot Three Times in Pistol Battle with Neighbor

Michael Sebia, 40 years old, 907 South Marshfield avenue, was shot and seriously wounded early this morning in a pistol battle with Joseph Matzone, 55 years old, 712 South Marshfield avenue, in front of the Matzone home. Matzone surrendered to the police. He said that Sebia, intoxicated, fired several bullets at the windows of the house and that he shot in self-defense. Sebia was taken to the county hospital. He was struck in the abdomen, the left arm, and the left leg.

COOK COUNTY MAYORS RIDICULE GARNER'S POSTOFFICE SCHEME

Mayors and presidents of village boards in Cook county yesterday expressed their disapproval of the proposal by Speaker John N. Garner that postoffices be built on a vast scale to relieve unemployment and restore prosperity.

Views expressed by some of the mayors follow:

Frank Bruggeman of Harvey—This building program is one of the biggest jokes ever perpetrated. You might just as well restore prosperity with a scheme to dry up the Sahara desert.

Joseph Schwarz of Homewood—It's ridiculous. We don't need any new postoffice. Besides, it looks like a political scheme of Garner's. I'm opposed to it.

Frank Kasten of Blue Island—I'm against it. We need to get the people back to work, but not by spending tax billions.

Carbon P. Dubbs of Wilmette—We're all opposed to building a $200,000 postoffice we don't need. The council has sent a protest to Washington. The real need is to release frozen credits.

Evanston, through its city council, already has announced it doesn't want a $600,000 Garner postoffice.

ILLINOIS RELIEF WARRANT SALES REACH $4,607,500

The total of state warrants disposed of by five loop banks for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission reached $4,607,500 yesterday with the sale of $120,000 of the notes. The goal is the sale of $6,250,000 of the notes, which will enable relief stations to remain open until Aug. 1, when federal aid is expected. An appeal has been made.

Officials of the Chicago campaign for reëmployment of men and money announced yesterday that pledges for purchases and property improvements now total $3,526,914, and that promises for 1,267 permanent and 10,085 temporary jobs have been obtained.

L. E. Myers, chairman of the Salvation Army board, yesterday appointed a committee of Lewis C. Fritch, Lester Armour, and De Forest Hulburd to inquire whether a united drive for funds will be made this fall by private charities. If the united drive will not be made the committee will lay plans for an independent appeal by the Salvation Army.

Bomb Does $100 Damage to Auto Brakes Station

Damage estimated at about $100 was caused early this morning by the explosion of a bomb which had been tossed from an automobile through a window of the Best Brakes Service station, 6034 Cottage Grove avenue. William Settle, manager of the concern, told the police he knew of no reason for the vandalism. Edward Dietrich, a politician, is owner of the building.

Robbers Tie Woman, Then Steal Her Teeth and $250

Mrs. Julie Juskiewicz, owner of a grocery at 2500 West 46th place, was not wearing her false teeth last night. She had carefully brushed and polished them and put them in a dresser drawer in her bedroom, which is in the rear of the store. Three armed robbers came in and after tying Mrs. Juskiewicz to a bedpost fled with the teeth and $250 which she kept in the drawer with them.

INSULL'S BRITISH UTILITY HOLDINGS FOUND TO BE NIL

Possessed $10,000,000 in Shares at One Time.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 9.—Confidential advices sent to power and electrical supply manufacturers in Great Britain and inspected by THE TRIBUNE correspondent today reveal that Samuel Insull's utility investments in England, which are believed to have reached a post-war total of possibly $10,000,000, are now practically nil.

Bankers and brokers here are far more interested in the 15 to 20 millions of dollars of British money invested in Middle West Utilities company and other Insull holdings than his investments in this country.

Mr. Insull never organized companies in England and figured in British utilities only as a shareholder. It was stated on good authority that $10,000,000 was the maximum figure of his investments at any time. Most of this, it was stated, was withdrawn seven or eight years ago to provide him with capital for his Chicago expansions.

Silent on Personal Affairs.

At the office of Insull, Son & Co., Ltd., the former power magnate's London office, THE TRIBUNE was told that he had no money in England at all. Asked if that authority could be used in Chicago for definitely stating that Insull had no investments here, representatives said: "Of course, we know nothing about his personal affairs."

But British investigations indicate that if he comes back to retire on a pension in this country, where he was born, as was stated in London this morning, it will be as a farmer near Reading in Berkshire.

THE TRIBUNE was informed today that Robert Fleming & Co., big merchant bankers, who have financed almost—if not all—British purchases of Insull securities, hurriedly sent an investigator to Chicago as soon as it was learned that Middle West Utilities were in difficulty.

No Repercussions Expected.

Although Mr. Fleming has flatly refused to discuss Insull affairs, it was learned that no repercussions are expected in England among the investors affected. Insull stock was handled in the London exchange by Kitcat & Aiken, brokers, acting in behalf of the English Insull company, which is not a member of the exchange. Mr. Kitcat and Mr. Fleming are coöperating to protect their clients' interests, but both refuse to discuss Middle West Utilities or Insull affairs.

Mr. Insull, formerly a $5 a week London clerk, was born in Union street, Westminster. He has not told the management on his model farm whether he actually intends to retire there.

"I haven't had a word this year," the farm manager said today. "If he is coming I know nothing about it."

Entrance is Refused.

He refused to say more and entrance to the farm was refused without Mr. Insull's written permission. It is a big place, running half a mile or more in one direction and twice that in the other. It is permanently occupied by a tenant who is chiefly engaged in dairy and poultry farming. The tenant lives in a large farmhouse near the ancient structure which Insull has converted into a modern home. One side of the farm is skirted by a country road, but around the corner on a wide highway an imposing gate opens into Insull's private drive extending for half a mile with fields and patches of woodland on either side.

The farm, which is developed, befits a country gentleman and the grounds are beautifully kept. A staff of a half dozen or more servants is needed to attend to the residence.

The farm is located five miles from Reading near the village of Theale. If he decides to return to his property, Mr. Insull can follow the country lane to a group of a dozen model cottages which he built for laborers working in the nearby town. Four new ones have just been completed and occupied.

LOYALTY OF FRIENDS PROVES CONSOLATION FOR SAMUEL INSULL

Samuel Insull put in his usual day at the offices of the Commonwealth Edison company yesterday. Although he is retiring as head of the three big Chicago utility companies, as well as half a hundred others, he still was busy with details necessary to turning over command.

One unusual feature of Mr. Insull's day was the number of business men and bankers who called and this fact, when commented on, seemed to please him.

"It appears that I still have a considerable number of friends in Chicago," he said with a smile. "I had hoped so, and now I am sure, and adversity proves one's real friends, don't you think?"

Mr. Insull again disclaimed any definite plans for the future, except to repeat that he will take a rest when he has cleared up his work. He said he had not planned where he and Mrs. Insull will go. Otherwise, he declined to discuss his retirement.

Another story of the collapse of fortunes of the Insull family was told in La Salle street. It was that Martin J. Insull, brother of Samuel Insull and president of the Middle West Utilities company, several years ago gave large blocks of securities to his wife and daughter, Mrs. William Rafferty. But these funds, too, it was said, were pledged to buy additional Insull stocks and in the end were wiped out.

9 FACE COURT FOR PICKETING OF INSULL HOME

The fate of nine University of Chicago and Garrett Biblical institute students who picketed the home of Samuel Insull, 1100 Lake Shore drive, three weeks ago, will be decided next Thursday by Judge J. William Brooks of the Boys' court. The youths were arraigned yesterday before Judge Brooks on charges of illegal assembly and the case was continued.

Retired Contractor Is Killed in Gun Accident

Charles T. Ball, 60 years old, retired building contractor, was killed yesterday by the discharge of a shotgun in the bathroom of his home at 1117 East 54th place. The police said his death was an accident. Gun cleaning oil and brushes were found in an adjoining bedroom. Ball's widow, Katherine, said her husband could have had no possible reason for wishing to end his own life.

DEFENDS CLOSED BANK OWNERS AS 'PLAIN IGNORANT'

Trial of Flower Brothers Opens Before Jury.

Alexander Flower, former chairman of the board of the closed Roosevelt Bankers' State bank, and his brother, Sam, former president of the bank, were pictured yesterday as a couple of ignorant men who decided to become bankers. Attorney Lloyd Heth, who is defending them in the Criminal court, where they are on trial for making false statements to the bank examiners, made this plea in their behalf in his opening statement to the jury.

ALEXANDER FLOWER.

Alexander was an uneducated immigrant who started as newsboy and bellhop, he said, then became a tailor and than engaged in the woolen business, where he and his brother made so much money they decided to enter the banking business. The state auditor knew at all times of the condition of their bank, he said.

"Alex Flower knew as much about a bank as you and I do about conducting a grand opera," Heth said in closing.

Former Cashier Testifies.

One of the first witnesses, Louis Frank, former cashier of the bank, testified that the bank had deposits of $1,250,000 and there were 25,000 depositors. The report to the state auditor on June 30, 1930, was made by him, he said, and the Flower brothers read it, approved it, and signed it. Frank then testified that Alexander Flower had personal loans amounting to $109,000 which were not listed in the report. He told of making two false entries by means of which bonds left at the bank for safe keeping were listed as collateral for loans. When he had finished his testimony Judge Philip L. Sullivan adjourned court until today.

Carl A. Mueller, former president of the Laramie State bank, also on trial for making false statements to bank examiners, was a plumber before becoming a banker. He is being tried before Judge George Fred Rush without a jury.

Testimony was given by several persons, including John P. Garner, west park commissioner and former alderman, of signing accommodation notes totaling $139,000 at the request of Mueller.

Protest Bank Sale.

A petition was filed in the Lake county Circuit court yesterday by fourteen members of the depositors' committee of the closed Waukegan State bank objecting to the proposed sale of the bank's assets, scheduled for June 22. The petitioners said they believe that the purchasers of the assets are endeavoring to stop the prosecution of former officials of the bank and State Auditor Nelson, and that two judges of that circuit have knowledge of the deal.

The petitioners asserted that they do not believe a fair price is to be paid. They said a former receiver valued the assets at $1,147,000, and it is their understanding the proposed purchasers—a reorganization committee to form a new bank—are to pay only $750,000.

Glencoe Birds Gain Sanctuary Today, but May Lose a Friend

Most of the residents in Glencoe know Miss Clara Dietz. She taught the science classes in the eighth grade of the Central school there for the last 18 years.

She never married. Flowers and birds and trees were her love, and she was one of those teachers with the ability to instill that love in her pupils. She took her classes into the woods on frequent field trips. It was in connection with those early trips, her friends say, that she originated the phrase, now a familiar slogan of conservationists: "Enjoy, do not destroy."

Dedicate Bird Sanctuary.

About ten years ago Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ravenscroft of Glencoe gave to the village park district a triangular plot of wooded land, three or four acres in extent, at Park avenue and Valley road. It was kept in its natural state.

Miss Dietz took her classes there to plant wild flowers. They built a pool into which water trickles from an artificial spring. Much of the work she did with her own hands. The park board enclosed the ground with a fence that birds might nest safe from prowling cats.

Today the little park is to be dedicated as the Clara M. Dietz bird sanctuary. Mrs. Ravenscroft will unveil a bronze plaque set in a natural granite boulder in the middle of the plot. Members of the woman's club, the garden club and the parent-teacher association of the village, and the children of the seventh and eighth grades in Central school will be there. Mrs. Walter Hughes, president of the Glencoe Woman's club, will read an appreciation of Miss Dietz.

Too Ill to Attend.

Miss Dietz cannot attend the gathering in her honor. Two months ago she had to give up her classes and go to the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn. More recently she came back to the home in Northbrook, where she lives with two sisters.

She is hopelessly ill of a chronic malady. Officials of the telephone company offered to run a special wire to her home that she might listen to the ceremonies today. They were told that it would be useless; that Miss Dietz's vitality is so low that she would be unable to hear what was said.

CHICAGO ENTERS STORY OF MEANS AND MRS. McLEAN

Nurse Tells Ft. Dearborn Hotel Appointment.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—How gangsters were to have met at the Fort Dearborn hotel, Chicago, the 11th of last April and turn over to Gaston Means, the self-styled "super sleuth," the Lindbergh baby in return for $100,000 which he was to bring them from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of Washington was told here today at his trial for larceny and embezzlement of that same money.

MRS. EVALYN WALSH McLEAN. [Acme Photo.]

The Chicago meeting, prosecution witnesses declared, was only one of many fantastic plans which Means promised and later allibied, between March 7, when Mrs. McLean, in hope, gave him the money, until May 5, when in despair she had him arrested.

This Chicago angle to the complicated case was told from the witness stand by Miss Elizabeth Nelson of Baltimore, the trained nurse whom Mrs. McLean had waiting to receive the little Lindbergh child.

It was the ninth of April, according to Miss Nelson, that Means came to the hotel in El Paso where she and Mrs. McLean had been eagerly awaiting the return of the baby; that Means came to her and said, "Somebody had double-crossed somebody," and a new plan was necessary.

Chicago Story is Sprung.

Early that morning Mrs. McLean had left for Washington with orders that the nurse was to receive the kidnaped infant. In the afternoon Miss Nelson testified, Means said to her:

"The Fox [a contact man whom they had all met] wants me to go to Chicago with him at once. He's gonna take a gangster from Texas with him; at the Fort Dearborn hotel we're gonna meet a gangster from the east with $50,000 ransom money given out there. We're gonna go to a bank where the Fox can be identified. Then they'll give me the baby. And I'll wire you."

Again and again during the testimony, as Mrs. McLean, pale and nervous, Father Francis J. Hurney, a Catholic priest and others told of the optimistic promises Means had made them, the witness had been asked, "And did that happen?" Always the reply was "No, it didn't turn out that way."

These promised plans for the return of the baby, which then lay dead in a ditch, included the borrowing of Vice President Curtis' automobile to carry the child, in official secrecy and safety, from Means' home town of Concord, N. C., to Father Hurney's rectory in Washington.

Trusted "Fox's" Honesty.

Means sat in court turning the pages of his small notebook as the witnesses told their stories. But he hunched forward in excitement when his counsel, Attorney T. Morris Wampler, on cross-examination, got Mrs. McLean to admit that she had trusted "Fox's" honesty and had authorized Means to turn over the money to him.

In support of this came the following letter written by Mrs. McLean in Aiken, S. C., March 23. It read:

"This is your authorization to turn over to Neil Williams the $100,000 in your custody."

Means' lawyers, through cross-examination, hammered away to prove Means turned over the money to Fox, and that he was as dismayed as any one at the repeated failures; and that he finally went down to Concord to get the money back.

The story he told Father Hurney, which Father Hurney today told the court, goes like this:

Means hurried down to Concord to get the money, after Mrs. McLean had told him her lawyers knew about it, and that "now the primary consideration is the return of that $100,000" to Father Hurney. Returning home with the money, Means declared, he was driving across the bridge at Alexandria, seven miles from Washington, when a "man with a red lantern stepped into the road, ordered his car to the curb and demanded the money."

Deceived by Word "Eleven."

Father Hurney, to whom Means told the story first, said Means said he protested, but the man with the lantern whispered the mystic "eleven" which was the code number of Mrs. McLean and uttered other convincing phrases of inside information which persuaded Means to hand over the money. This he did and went on home to Washington, arriving there at 4 in the morning. He tried to telephone Mrs. Means, but her number had been changed. He planned to phone Father Hurney that night at 6, but Father Hurney, he himself testified today, went over to the Means home at 4 that afternoon and heard the story.

After that, testimony revealed, came the ultimatum from the McLean lawyers: The money must be back in the law office by 3 p. m., May 2. Means thought that was too short a time; urged Father Hurney to persuade the lawyers to extend the date to May 15, when he assured the priest he'd have "either the money, the baby, or the man." The extension was not granted. Instead, came the arrest on May 5.

Testify to Means' Buying.

Attorney Rover, seeking to prove that Means never turned over any money to Fox, but had kept the $100,000, most of it in $100 bills—himself, put on a series of salesmen to tell of the various purchases Means had made of them after the March 7 payment, and of how he had always paid for those purchases with $100 bills.

FALLS DEAD WHILE MILKING.

Carbondale, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Jim Burke, 50, mother of thirteen children and the last of a family of ten, fell dead of apoplexy while milking at the Burke farm near here late yesterday.

Lawyers to Aid Roosevelt in Sifting Walker Charges

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—Announcing that he would name two prominent attorneys to assist him, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt took his first step today toward determining whether to remove Mayor Walker from office.

GOV. ROOSEVELT.

Samuel Seabury's letter and analysis of the evidence against the mayor sent to Albany were taken up by Mr. Roosevelt today. With the allegations were voluminous minutes of the Hofstadter legislative committee.

Making it plain that he felt formal charges were before him, notwithstanding Mr. Seabury's statement that he was making no request in connection with the material submitted, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"The letter and the document termed 'analysis' constitute charges, of course. I see no reason for quibbling over terms."

The special attorneys, the governor said, would be needed to help sift the Walker data. Their names were withheld for the present, the governor referring to them only as "two eminent lawyers."

Displeased with Seabury.

Meanwhile, developments here and at Albany indicated two things. One was that the governor was highly displeased with Seabury's action in making the data public before it reached him.

The other was that the Walker proceedings, whatever form they may take, will probably not be disposed of before the end of the Democratic national convention, before which Mr. Roosevelt's name will be presented as a candidate for President. On this point, however, the governor asked Albany newspaper correspondents not to speculate.

"You may be wrong," he said.

At another point in his talk with the correspondents Mr. Roosevelt asserted that in so far as the Walker case was concerned, he would pay no attention to the date of the Democratic convention, which begins June 27. He continued with a declaration that he would resent any inference that national politics would have any effect upon his course.

Sees Big Job Ahead.

"The only thing you can say now," Mr. Roosevelt declared, "is that I will read the documents thoroughly. Exactly what procedure will be followed I will not know until that task has been completed. I am going to give it every spare moment while carrying on the official business of the state. You can see how much of it there is and what a job lies ahead."

The last statement was in reference to the transcript forwarded by Mr. Seabury, which filled eight volumes. Some 500,000 words are contained in the eight volumes, but not all of this need necessarily be gone over, since some parts bear on matters other than those advanced by Mr. Seabury as reasons why Mayor Walker is "unfit" for office.

More Charges Forwarded.

Before the governor announced that he regarded the material before him as sufficient for the institution of official proceedings, various moves had been on foot by citizens' organizations of New York City to add a formal demand for removal to Mr. Seabury's letter.

William J. Schieffelin, chairman of the Committee of One Thousand, announced that he had forwarded formal charges against Mayor Walker by registered mail. The charges follow the outline of Mr. Seabury's accusations. Other organizations are expected to send their approval of the Schieffelin charges to the governor.

JUDGE ACQUITS POLICEMAN OF BEATING RIOTER

Policeman John Alm of the West North avenue station was dismissed by Judge Leon Edelman last night on a charge of assaulting Gust Johnson, 1030 North Troy street, who was arrested as a participant in a communist riot at California and North avenues.

The rioting occurred on March 11. Johnson testified that he was not arrested until April 23, when, he said, he was taken to the West North avenue station and there beaten with a blackjack and a rubber hose. Alm denied the charges and eleven of his fellow policemen testified that they had seen no marks of the alleged violence on the prisoner's body.

In the riot Alm was hurled to the ground, deprived of his pistol, and severely beaten by the communists. He asserted that Johnson was one of those who beat him.

The testimony required all afternoon and a part of the evening. Judge Edelman, in making his decision, said that in his opinion Johnson's testimony had been discredited by contradictory statements. The trial of Johnson on a charge of assaulting the policeman is pending.

Ralph Church Loses Fight to Halt Ballot Recount

An effort of Ralph E. Church of Evanston to halt the recount of ballots by which he was nominated Republican candidate for congress in the 10th district failed yesterday when the Supreme court denied a writ of mandamus to direct Circuit Judge Lynch to expunge from his records the contest started by James Simpson Jr. Church was officially declared the nominee with a lead of 73 votes over Simpson, but as a result of the Supreme court ruling a recount of the ballots will begin Monday morning.

PASCHEN GUILTY OF EVADING TAX ON 1927 INCOME

Faces Possible Sentence of 5 Years in Prison.

the first ballot taken, after a brief discussion, showed the jury 7-5 for conviction. The same vote held on the second ballot but on the third, it stood 9-3 for conviction. The fourth ballot showed 8-4 and this continued as the standing for the next 23 ballots, or until Judge Barnes called the twelve men before him for additional instructions. The last ballot, taken almost three hours after this, was unanimous for a guilty verdict.

All Convinced of Guilt.

Juryman Elvin Brumfield of Streator and Edmund Moss of Ottawa said, without identifying those who stood for acquittal, that the minority thought Paschen guilty, but felt he had "been picked on," and that many others were just as guilty of evading taxes.

When the court summoned the jury at 2:30 Judge Barnes first asked if a verdict had been reached.

"No, sir," came Foreman Lynch's prompt answer.

Judge Barnes then began reading from a typewritten sheet.

"In conferring together," the court concluded, "you ought to pay proper respect to each other's opinions and listen, with a disposition to be convinced, to each other's arguments. And, on the one hand, if much the larger number of you are for a conviction, a dissenting juror should consider whether a doubt in his own mind is a reasonable one which makes no impression on the minds of so many men, equally honest, equally intelligent with himself, and who have heard the same evidence with the same attention, with an equal desire to arrive at the truth, and under the sanction of the same oath.

"On the other hand, if a majority are for acquittal, the minority ought seriously to ask themselves, whether they may not reasonably, and ought not to doubt the correctness of a judgment which is not concurred in by most of those with whom they are associated, and distrust the weight of sufficiency of that evidence which fails to carry conviction to the minds of their fellows."

The jury then filed back to its room.

Not Guilty as to 1928.

Paschen was indicted in March, 1930, the government alleging that he had a net income of $282,418.08 in 1927 and owed a tax of $42,001.43 upon it. In his return that year he alleged that he owed no tax at all and that he had suffered a $15,000 loss in his building cleaning and tuck pointing business. In 1928, it was alleged that his net income was $226,250.47 and that he should have paid a tax of $71,313.60. Actually, he paid $818 that year. The jury found him not guilty of evasion that year.

The actual evidence, most of it gathered by special intelligence agents of the internal revenue service—notably Fred Peabody and Horace George—disclosed a hidden Paschen bank account under the name of "A. B. Anderson" in the Foreman National bank. Deposits in this account totaled nearly $400,000. The agents also found evidence that Paschen profited from the operations of three "dummy" companies which did building cleaning and tuckpointing for the city during 1927 and 1928.

Besides Mr. Green, the prosecutors were Assistant United States Attorney Sam Clawson and Assistant Attorney General William J. Froelich. Mr. Poust was aided by Attorneys Frank Neldner and Thomas Hart.

CLOSED BANK TO PAY $150,000.

Benton Harbor, Mich., June 9.—[Special.]—A distribution of 45 per cent dividend to depositors of the Buchanan, Mich., First National bank began today. Receiver H. R. Botkin said $150,000 would be paid out to 1,400 depositors. The bank closed last fall.

E. C. WALLER JR. MUST PAY U. S. $578,378 TAXES

Judge Enters Order Against "Expert."

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday entered a default judgment against Edward C. Waller Jr., a real estate expert for the city under a former Republican administration, for $578,378 in unpaid income tax, interest, and penalties for 1920 and 1921.

The figures on which the government based its claim were revealed in THE TRIBUNE suit against Waller, two other experts, and officials of the city administration. The suit demanded an accounting of huge sums paid the experts in connection with the transformation of South Water street into Wacker drive.

Circuit Judge Hugo M. Friend, in his decision in the suit awarded the city a refund of $2,248,000 in fees paid to the experts. The verdict was set aside by the state Supreme court but the government seized upon the testimony and started income tax action against Waller.

Income Set at $580,326.

Assistant United States Attorney William J. Dulker said that Waller received $325,570 from the city in 1920 and $255,066 in 1921, a total of $580,326. He should have paid $159,030 in 1920 and $96,212 in 1921, a total of $255,243 for the two years, the government held. The balance of the money in the judgment represents interest and penalties, Prosecutor Dulker said.

Waller's father died in January, 1931, leaving an estate of $6,000,000. He did not leave a will and Edward Waller Jr. inherited one-tenth of the estate. This share is tied up by a claim for advances of several hundred thousand dollars made to him by his father, Prosecutor Dulker said. The government will try to collect as much as possible from funds not involved in litigation.

Wife Sues for Divorce.

Waller was recently sued for divorce by his wife, Mrs. Miriam Hall Waller, who charged that her husband had deserted her. Attorneys for the estate appeared in court and filed an intervening petition which contained the charge that as neither of the parties was a resident of Cook county the divorce bill was illegal. The petition set forth that Mrs. Waller lives in California and that Waller no longer lives in Chicago.

Judge Daniel P. Trude in the Circuit court dismissed the intervening petition and held the divorce bill valid. He held that although Waller had traveled widely, his legal residence is still Chicago. A hearing on the divorce is now pending before Judge Trude.

130 Rumanian Lepers Threaten March on Capital

VIENNA, June 9.—(AP)—Dispatches from Bucharest today said 130 lepers in a colony at Tichileati had threatened to march on Bucharest unless they received better food. The situation was said to have arisen because grocers and farmers with long overdue bills against the government have declined to deliver the normal quantity of supplies to the leper colony.

MRS. DELMAINE, BRIDE IN MAY, TAKES OWN LIFE

Lying on a couch with her head close to the gas filled oven of the kitchen stove, Mrs. Catherine Delmaine, 48 years old, was found dead yesterday in her apartment at 425 St. James place.

Mrs. Delmaine quit a career as a professional astrologer in New York, May 27, to marry William T. Delmaine, former actor and for the last twelve years assistant manager of the Actors Equity association in Chicago.

Police learned that Delmaine had not come home the previous night. Mrs. Delmaine left two notes, upbraiding him for his "attentions to other women and for writing all over the country about me." Delmaine was grief-stricken when notified of her death.

ITCHING STOPS WHEN HEALING BEGINS

The first sign of healing in skin eruptions or eczema is when itching stops. That's what you notice when you apply Poslam, the skin starts to heal and there is no more itch. Poslam soothes first, then helps to heal. You will find this out the first time you apply it. Get it at any drug store, 50c.

When you come to the crossroads of DOUBT

Clothes prices are bewildering these days. To know what you're getting for your money is a problem—unless you know your dealer.

Here we have nothing but Rogers Peet suits. Without reservations we can say of our best suits that no better suit cloth is woven—not even for custom tailors.

Every suit at any price is all-wool, hand-tailored and styled for the current season. They were made to sell for $10, $15, or $20 more than our revised price.

$30 to $55 now

Four piece sport suits, that formerly were $65 to $80, are now $35.

And our furnishings are priced down on the same scale.

Yet we still say of everything we sell, "Money back if you want it."

20 YEARS OF ILL HEALTH

Then Mrs. Duke Discovered Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Of her own accord Mrs. Duke sat down and wrote us a glowing tribute to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN:

"I have been constipated all my life, which has been about 20 years, up until last year when I started eating your ALL-BRAN. Since I have been eating it, people tell me I am looking better, and I am sure that I feel a great deal better."—Mrs. L. W. Duke, 210 Hardin Ave., College Park, Ga.

Constipation is usually caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help give them tone. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides both of these dietary necessities, as well as iron for the blood.

Within the body, the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

How much more natural it is to enjoy this delicious cereal than to risk taking pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—serious cases with every meal—for most types of constipation. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

SOCIALIST JUNTA TAKES CONTROL OF CHILE'S BANKS

Central Institution Made State Project.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 9.—The socialistic junta, which now controls Chile's government, today converted the Central Bank of Chile into a state institution. A limit was placed on withdrawals of deposits and the government of Carlo Davila, former ambassador to the United States, requisitioned foreign currencies on deposit.

JUAN ESTEBAN MONTERO.

Juan Esteban Montero, ousted from the presidency by the one day revolution, who has been a refugee at the Argentine embassy since Davila and Col. Marmaduke Grove took control last Saturday, tried to leave the republic today.

Forced Back by Bad Weather.

Montero and his family boarded a plane for Mendoza, Argentina, just across the Andes, but were forced back by bad weather. He was accompanied by Minister of Foreign Affairs Luis Barriga of the new government and an Argentine military attaché. The government has promised the deposed president safe passage from the country. He plans to leave tomorrow. Carlos Ibanez, deposed as president by a student revolt when Montero seized the reins last September, now resides at Mendoza and is regarded as a fugitive from justice by the socialistic republic of Chile.

The Central Bank of Chile was converted into a state bank by decree.

Directors of the Central bank are dismissed by the government, which has announced it will make "all arrangements for the bank's administration hereafter."

The decree was signed by the government junta and Finance Minister Luis LaGarrigue.

In addition, the government has forbidden savings banks from honoring checks drawing more than 1,000 pesos [about $80] except those by business houses for payments of salaries and wages.

First Step Toward Socialism.

"The government is taking a monopoly of all credits toward which end it has assumed control of the Central bank, transforming it into a state bank," Finance Minister La Garrigue said. "This is the first definite step of the Socialist republic's government toward reorganization of the state. The present government is not based on opinions, but on facts."

Carlos Frontaura, Miguel Vergara, and Carlos Keller were appointed as a committee to take charge of the new State Bank of Chile.

The dismissed directors were originally installed under a reorganization plan set up by Prof. E. W. Kemmerer of Princeton university. Eventually the entire monetary system may be linked under the finance ministry governing the state bank, savings, affiliated banks, currency and discounts. The government ordered deposits of foreign currencies turned over to authorities in exchange at the "legal rate" [about 6 cents].

The Santiago stock exchange was reopened today but few transactions were recorded. The Valparaiso exchange remained closed.

The junta, which has decreed a reorganization of the state university on socialist lines, has found stubborn opposition among students who have locked themselves in the buildings refusing to give them up.

El Mercurio, the oldest newspaper in South America, is studying the proposition of the government to socialize newspapers. Employés have demanded that newspapers become socialised. Owners have been asked to express their opinions. Augustin Edwards, principal owner, conferred with a committee of workers today. Col. Maraduke Grove, minister of defense reviewed the national army today. He asked the regiments separately if they agree with the policies of the new government and its ideas and the troops answered affirmatively.

Globe Model Ready

A model of the huge globe representing the world millions of years ago was received by World's Fair officials yesterday. The plans for the exhibit have been prepared by a New York company and are under consideration by the exposition.

The globe will be 100 feet high with a map of the world for its exterior. At the top of the structure it is proposed to have a planetarium in which the sun, moon and stars move through clouds produced by steam. The globe will be a maze of winding stairways from which visitors will see a reproduction of prehistoric vegetation. Animals such as the sabre-toothed tiger and hairy mammoth will be in motion.

Work was rushed yesterday to complete the Seminole Indian village in time for the program which will start tomorrow for the delegates to the Republican national convention. Alligators and cocoanut trees brought from Florida will be included in the setting.

Mrs. Hoover Reviews Sunday School Parade

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—Brooklyn streets were filled this afternoon with 110,000 marching children, with Mrs. Herbert Hoover among thousands of onlookers. Mrs. Hoover, wearing a blue silk dress with black and white collar trimmings, a blue straw hat and blue pumps, arrived at the Pennsylvania station at 6:50 a. m. No one was at the station to greet her. Secret service men permitted only one picture, and forbade interviews.

POLICE WATCH OVER DE VALERA ON BRITISH SOIL

Irish President Nears London for Parley.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 9.—President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State was heavily guarded when he landed on British soil shortly before midnight tonight for a conference with Prime Minister MacDonald in London.

Irish political police armed with revolvers watched over him on the mail boat during the crossing of the Irish sea. When the president boarded an English train at Holyhead he found Scotland Yard detectives patrolling the vestibule of his sleeping car while railway officials and local police guarded the adjoining track. Arrangements were made for the police to keep the platform clear at every station where the train halted on its five and a half hour journey.

In London the importance of tomorrow's conversations has begun to dwindle. The Irish senate's rejection of the bill to abolish the oath of allegiance to the British crown it is felt has all but killed De Valera's measure as an immediate danger. A more crucial problem is the land annuities payment which is due soon, but the impression here is that a complete deadlock exists on this as on the oath issue.

MacDonald Luncheon Guest.

Even if the conference fails, however, it will have a certain value in British eyes as a courtesy visit. Consequently the government is making every effort to receive De Valera with appropriate honors although he will not see King George.

He will be met at the station in the morning by J. H. Thomas, minister of dominions, and then taken to the Hotel Metropole, where the government has reserved rooms for his party. After the conference, which is expected to last only two hours, De Valera will be MacDonald's luncheon guest at Downing street.

In the afternoon he may be taken on a drive around London, which he has not seen since the crucial treaty days of 1921.

Forming National Guard, Report.

LONDON, June 10.—[Friday.]—(AP)—A Dublin dispatch to the Daily Herald said today that President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State was forming a national guard.

Although organized along military lines, it will be an athletic organization, the newspaper said. The members would undergo a brief period of athletic training annually in various centers with military pay.

Several barracks are being converted into gymnasiums for the guard, the dispatch added.

335 More Mexicans Are Returned to Homeland

Mexican poor relief wards numbering 335 were started home last night from East Chicago. They will be taken to Laredo, Tex., at the expense of Lake county, Indiana, and there turned over to Mexican authorities who will transport them to work on agricultural projects in Mexico. More than 1,000 Mexicans have been returned to Mexico from the Indiana steel mills area in two months and 3,000 more are to go.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

AN HONEST RESOLUTION AND A HYPOCRITICAL ONE.

"We demand repeal of the 18th amendment to the federal constitution, and the so-called 'bone dry' laws, enacted throughout a number of years, by the Indiana legislature; and we recommend the enactment of such laws by the federal and state governments for the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages as will actually promote temperance among the people, and at the same time secure for the federal and state treasuries the revenue that now flows into the pockets of the lawless and powerful racketeers and the countless number of bootleggers that defy and befoul our civilization."

The resolution proposed for the Republican national convention:

"We therefore favor the prompt resubmission of the 18th amendment to the people of the several states acting through nonpartisan conventions called for that sole purpose in accordance with the provision of article V. to determine whether that amendment shall be retained, repealed, or modified."

The first of these two resolutions has a purpose and states it. The second is a verbal trick. The first describes a condition, proposes an honest and available remedy, and gives the excellent reasons for it—to promote temperance, stop lawlessness, and provide legitimate revenue in place of the insufficient and hypocritical excises levied on lawless manufacture of prohibited beverages. If the Indiana Republicans who offer this resolution had their way in the national convention the party would be honest. It will not be if it attempts to get by with the second resolution, the one drafted by national Republicans who are attempting to put two faces on one head.

"The prompt resubmission of the eighteenth amendment" is a brave beginning, but it is not intended to get anywhere, as appears when the writers declare that the purpose is to determine whether the eighteenth amendment shall be "retained, repealed, or modified." These are trick words revealing the insincere mind. The proponents of such a resolution are crawfish on a muddy bottom scuttling about to muddy the water and hide.

If the eighteenth amendment is submitted to the people of the states it is returned to them for a simple decision, and the only one they can make in convention or in their legislatures. It is one of repeal or no repeal. They are not permitted to modify the amendment. If a modified amendment is to be acted upon it must be passed by congress and then submitted to them. The Republican trimmers propose to beguile the voters with something they cannot use.

Senator Moses explains that the intention of the resolution is to recommend that the congress elected in November determine whether to submit the repeal of the amendment or the submission of another amendment. Thus the party would not pledge itself to a submission of the repealer. Some other device would satisfy its promises. The explanation is a give-away. An amendment prohibiting the purchase of intoxicants, as well as the manufacture, sale, and transportation, would be a technical fulfillment of this Republican plank.

It is bad enough that the party managers are so timid and submissive that they will not propose and support the repeal of the amendment. It is worse that they should be hypocritical in proposing even that the amendment should be voted upon, although they will not take a stand pro or con.

The resolution proposed for the Republican national convention rings out like a cracked bell. It is a deceit intended to keep the party from burning its fingers, but if persisted in will scorch the hides of the men responsible for it. These leaders, if they are such, must be blind to election returns.

THE KINGFISH HOOKED.

Hooey (call him Kingfish if you can't think up a better word) is finding the going not so good in his own Louisiana. He says he speaks for the people of the state, but they seem to prefer to speak for themselves. They don't fancy the higher taxes which Hooey insists upon imposing upon them for their own good and they want retrenchment in state expenditures which Hooey is withholding, also for their own good, or so he says. They told Hooey what they thought of him and his policies to his face at a public hearing on the tax proposals and he didn't like it. He shrieked in anger.

Hooey is the victim of what the psychologists call infantilism. He is grown up in years, but he still behaves like a small boy. When he doesn't get what he wants he stands on his hind legs and screams. He had the grownups bluffed for a long time, but at last they have decided that they can't put up with his nonsense any longer. They have discovered that the best cure for his disease is to let him yell. They can stand it as long as he can. The treatment has already shown some favorable results in the United States senate and now his own people are contributing to the putting of little Hooey in his place.

The most hopeful thing that has happened in a long time in Louisiana has been the rejection of much of Hooey's tax program by the legislative committees that he thought he controlled. The legislators went along with him as long as they thought it would pay to do so, but now they are becoming aware of the fact that Hooey only thinks he speaks for the people. What the people really want they made abundantly clear at the public hearings on the tax program.

Hooey's Republican prototype, Brookhart, suffered from delusions much like those which rule Hooey's mind. Brookhart also thought he spoke for the people of his state. His education has made considerable progress this week.

THIS WAY TO NATIONAL INSOLVENCY.

If congress adds the bonus bill and the Garner postoffice bill to its headsman's tax bill and to its refusal to reduce government costs the kindly thought will be that the members are feebleminded and did not know what they were doing, but that will not prevent the insolvency of the United States. It may be apparent that out patients of Bedlam passed the bills, but that will not affect the consequences.

The tax bill alone will test the ability of citizens to survive. They may be able to do it. Congress has provided for the equivalent of a house to house search for any money which might go into a revival of business. The money is to be diverted to wasteful public projects and the support of worthless government activities which congress has protected from reduction. When the senate reduced the pitiful economy bill of $238,000,000 to one of $126,000,000 it went almost completely Bedlamite. There remain the bonus bill and the Garner postoffices, neither of which would have been received in a sane assembly. The bonus can destroy the credit of the nation and do the recipients only a temporary good, leaving them with the rest of the country hopelessly in the hole.

The scheme of the Garner postoffices would discredit the common sense of children playing Santa Claus. Men who will consider placing $50,000 federal buildings in $500 villages either intend to ruin the country or they are soft in the head.

RAILROADS AS BARGE OWNERS.

The railroads are alarmed at what they call the menace of the government subsidized waterways and they are justly alarmed. The waterways will of themselves create much new business, but they will also take business away from the railroads at a time when the railroads are already in grave difficulties for lack of freight to move.

The government has recognized the importance of the railroads' solvency in authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to meet their credit needs during the emergency. The government today is in the anomalous position of sustaining the credit of the railroads at the moment when it is undermining that credit through the construction of waterways.

The railroad executives have made the tactical mistake of opposing waterway construction, thereby antagonizing the industrial, agricultural, and commercial interests which see in the water routes both an expansion of their markets and a cheapening of the costs of doing business. The benefits are too great and too certain ever to be surrendered by the public. The waterways are coming; at the moment the probability is that congress will authorize more construction than is justified rather than less.

In justice to the railroads they should be permitted to share in the benefits. The present laws which forbid railroads to operate ship lines which parallel their rails should be repealed. The railroads are in the transportation business and should be permitted to exploit their experience and knowledge of commodity movements to the full. The barge lines and rail lines should be integrated to obtain the maximum usefulness from both, not forced to compete to the detriment of both.

Editorial of the Day

NO FIRE UNDER THE MELTING POT.

[Peoria Transcript.]

The migration tide has turned. The melting pot has gone cold.

Last year, it is announced by the department of labor, the tide of immigration turned to a tide of emigration. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, 280,000 aliens came into this country and 290,000 departed. It is expected that the excess of emigration over immigration will be even greater this year. These figures do not take into account Americans who have emigrated, either—most of them to live in countries where there are no prohibition laws.

The tendency of aliens to leave is noticeable. Particularly is it evident in the industrial centers. Almost every foreign consul tells the same story. Germans, Poles, Lithuanians, Jugo-Slavs, Hungarians, and other central Europeans are seeking to return to the homeland, with their savings. In some cases whole families return. Often children who are American born are taken back. The new pioneering trend is toward Europe rather than toward the new world.

This may mean many things. Reaction to it, too, will be varied. Those suffering from Anglomania will rejoice. Others will grieve at the loss of lusty, adventurous stock. But what the effect will be is a matter of conjecture. Actually, it is too early to dogmatize, perhaps too early to speculate. The trend suggests, however, that the United States has become of age. It is no longer the land of easy money, free land, and soft jobs. The depression has made it a nation for fighters.

Perhaps those who looked with horror upon the flood of immigration before the war can forget their fears. The situation may be taking care of itself. Those who could not make their adjustments are going back. This country is the gainer.

There may come a time, however, when we shall want immigration again. We may even pick immigrants carefully, some day, and pay their way over. The melting pot conception was overworked, but it once described a real situation. Today the American nation is emerging from the preoccupation of pioneer days and is no longer a catch basin for Europe.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

EVERYTHING'S ALL RIGHT! HERE COMES THE CLASS OF '32.

Beloved teachers, dear parents, friends, and classmates: At last, fellow members of the class of 1932, we leave dear old alma mater and for a moment we are standing with reluctant feet where the brook and river meet. But it is only for the moment, because the great world without is waiting for us; it has waited impatiently through many sad and gloomy hours. But at last we are ready. Our great university has led and trained us four long years, until at last we are ready to take up and solve the many questions which have so perplexed mankind of late years.

First, fellow graduates, we must on to Washington! With all the other graduates of our splendid American institutions gathered under the shadow of the glorious dome of the capitol, we must at once tell congress what to do. They have wandered in a terrible nightmare of horrible shapes and sounds long enough. We, classmates, the graduates of the class of 1932, will tell them.

It seems, classmates, that one of the great questions of the hour is money. There does not seem to be enough money in the country. But that question is easily answered. The government mint where money is made works six or eight hours a day. Let us say six hours. Now, by putting on more employés and running at nights, the mint can turn out four times as much money as formerly, so that every man, woman, and child in this great, broad, magnificent land will soon have four times as much money as he, she, or it had before.

The next question which will claim our attention and which is crying aloud to us, the class of 1932, for settlement is the prohibition question. Should the 18th amendment be repealed? Our answer is to repeal it Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday afternoons, but have it in full force and effect on the other days. As for the farmers, their cry for immediate relief would be immediately hushed if every farmer was given another automobile and new tubes for his radio. As for the tariff, we will say that the United States should have a tariff to protect our infant industries, even those which are from seventy-five to a hundred and fifty years old. But we must forbid all foreign nations to impose any tariff restrictions upon goods shipped to them from us.

The country, of course, needs an adequate army and navy, but the size of our present military establishment can be much reduced if all that is retained is parked in Washington, so that there will be at all times a full supply of officers for the Washington tea parties, tennis courts, and bridge games, and to walk around on Pennsylvania avenue in their pretty uniforms, adding color to the Washington scene and entertainment to the visitors from Three Oaks, Mich., and Smith's Corners, Ia.

There are, of course, other questions confronting the country which we must settle, but they may be taken up some rainy afternoon in Washington when it is too stormy to ride around in the sightseeing buses. The amount of money which the government must settle on each of the graduates of 1932 to reward us for lifting the country out of the depression and putting it firmly on its feet can also be arranged down there. But for that reason we must hasten before all the other organizations now pouring into Washington beat us to it. So, members of the class of 1932, hail and farewell!

Rejoice, old world, here come your friends,
The friends who will dare and do;
All of your troubles will now be solved
By the class of '32.

THE CHILDREN'S PLEDGE.

We pledge Thee our blossoming youth
To heed to the words of Thy mouth;
Our hearts shall unfold to Thy truth
As flowers to rain after drouth.

Take our young souls and fashion them fair
To serve Thee in manhood's rich age;
Let our wisdom grow ripe in Thy care

DAVIDA.

BET THAT WAS a mean old Democrat on the top of the bus yesterday morning who turned to the man on the seat with him and said, "Are you going to the Yes Men's convention at the Chicago Stadium next week?" "Oh, yes, yes!" replied the man, "yes, yes, indeed yes, yes!" "Say," said the first man, "the way you talk you must be a Republican delegate."

THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT says that on the first day of this merry month of June each and every one of us in these United States had $43.85 in cash. Hey! treasury department, lissen! The eighty-five cents is all right, but where do you get that forty-three dollars stuff? And that eighty-five cent thing isn't so good considering that one of the dimes was Canadian and another dime was plugged and we had to count in a transfer on the North Clark street car line to enable us to count up the full eighty-five cents.

CONFLICT.

Oh, I want to loaf in the lazy sun,
And I want to sing, and dance, and run.
Almost before day is begun
The sunlight fades and goes.
But the clothes are to iron, and rags to sew,
And dirt to be swept, e'er the daylight go,
And the flesh to be fed,—for the flesh must grow,—
Tho why,—God only knows!

Tasks must come first. They cannot wait.
And when they're done, will it be too late?

MARJORIE F. W.

CURES FOR HABITS.

A CONSIDERABLE part of the letters that come to this department relate to disorders for which the remedy lies in change of habits. Most of those who write such letters want to know of some drug which will cure them.

In most instances drugs offer them nothing. In some cases drugs have a limited and temporary field of usefulness, but in the long run things come back to the necessity of change of habit.

Our habits are the ways in which we do things. They are our grooves, in which we run with least friction to ourselves, and with least thought and attention on our part. We follow them about as automatically and thoughtlessly as birds follow their instincts. In fact, there have been psychologists who have said habits are instinctive.

The sum of the whole matter is that a man changes his habits for himself. Nobody can change them for him. He leans on himself and any effort he makes to lean on others is a failure. He may get suggestions or advice from others, physicians included, but no good will come of it unless he makes the needed changes for and by himself.

Constipation is a habit. We make no particular headway in curing it unless we so regard it. It is a bad habit. The only satisfactory remedy is to substitute a good habit for the bad one. Poor sleeping is a bad habit. The only satisfactory cure for it is to develop a good habit. Good sleeping is an attribute of the body. Poor sleeping is an acquired capacity. Babies sleep easily; they keep awake with difficulty. Man acquires by practice the art of sleeping poorly. He indulges in hatred, anger, jealousies, envies, anxiety, fear, and other violent emotions, and hard thinking when he should be indulging in physical, mental, and emotional relaxation. When he acquires the habit of relaxation as sleeping time comes, he sleeps like a baby. And, in the long run, there is no other cure.

In recent weeks we have read of a drug that is being used to break the opium habit. It is used to remove the appetite, or cell hunger, for the drug. Let us hope that it is successful. But even if it is, it will not be a complete cure. It will still remain true that the cure of habit disorders is up to the addict. The cell hunger of the opium addict is only one part of his abnormality and, at that, one which is acquired rather late in the development of the habit. To remove that appendix, or superstructure, is advisable. But cutting down the trees does not convert a wood into a cultivatable field. The stumps must be grubbed up or removed some other way. Men with drug habits, including the alcohol habit, are not cured until they have grubbed up their stumps.

These are but a few of a long list of disorders that are the result of bad habits. There are many others. They relate to nearly every field. In some, medicines have a minor place. The sufferer is lucky if he does not put too much dependence on them. This is true of all other forms of outside help. Self-help is what counts in the long run when it comes to bad habits. Crutches are useful temporarily, but, finally, a man must walk alone, and that should be his objective.

CLIMATE OF BENEFIT.

A. H. S. writes: Although I understand that it is now generally agreed among doctors that climate has little to do with curing tuberculosis, I cannot help but think that a climate such as that of California would be beneficial and encourage an outdoor life. It is agreed that sunshine is an enemy of the bacillus. Would you deem it advisable for an arrested case to take up residence in California, for no other reason than to prevent a recurrence of the disease?

REPLY:

You have misinterpreted what you heard. Climate is of considerable service in the cure of consumption, but it costs more than most persons can or will pay. It requires considerable money to go to a cure climate and remain idle for a few years. It costs homesickness and loneliness, as well as the trouble and expense of guidance. To most consumptives the aggregate cost outmatches the gain from the climate cure.

There is no question as to the advantages to an arrested case of living in a good climate.

SEE YOUR PHYSICIAN.

Mrs. L. B. L. writes: I have been cured of a slight case of tuberculosis of my left lung, two years this month. I feel fine.

1. Would it be safe to bear a child in the near future?

2. Would the child have any defects because of this illness?

REPLY:

1. It should be, but I think you had better get the opinion of your physician. Since you would be under strain and you are on ice that is none too thick, you should follow rules of right living during your period of expectancy.

2. No.

NO REASON FOR IT.

Mrs. E. J. H. writes: A nurse tells me orange juice at night is not as beneficial as that in the morning. What truth is there in her premise?

REPLY:

I know of no reason why it should be.

YAWNING.

C. J. S. writes: What is the cause and the cure of excessive yawning during the day, for apparently no reason?

REPLY:

The human machine differs from a clock. The latter runs at speed until it runs down. It gives no indication that it is about to run down. When the spring in the human machine is loosely wound, yawning is one way the body has for asking for more drive. When you are disposed to yawn, wind up. In other words, become interested, think more earnestly, work harder. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred that is all that need be done.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 10, 1916.

CHICAGO.—Following two important developments early this morning Republican leaders predicted the nomination of Justice Charles E. Hughes in the Coliseum today, possibly on the first or second ballot taken. These developments were: The peace committee of the Republican and Progressive parties adjourned at 3 o'clock this morning to resume negotiations at 9 o'clock with conditions not unfavorable, according to the Republican conferees, to a fusion agreement on Hughes. Second, Senator Sherman has decided to withdraw as a candidate and throw his strength, representing 56 votes, to Hughes. The Progressive conferees, on emerging from the meeting with the Republicans at the Chicago club, were noncommittal. They said they will talk with Col. Roosevelt before 9 o'clock over the long distance telephone. Hughes' managers said that with the Sherman contingent and other support promised the justice will have more than the 165½ votes which he lacked of a majority on the second roll call in the Republican convention last night when he polled 328½ votes.

CHICAGO.—Close friends of Col. Roosevelt speculated early this morning as to whether he would head a third ticket movement in the probable event of Justice Hughes' nomination in the Republican convention. At the Moose convention at the Auditorium hotel the nomination of Roosevelt is a foregone conclusion unless the colonel himself sends a flat order from Oyster Bay forbidding it.

PETROGRAD.—Five days of furious offensive by the forces of Gen. Brussiloff have crippled their opponents' lines from the Kovel-Sarny railway line to Bukowina, driving them back an average of fifteen miles. In the Lutsk sector the Russians appear to have completely broken through, turning the left flank of the Austrian army and the right flank of the German forces and capturing Lutsk, the center of a number of radiating roads and railways.

PARIS.—The Germans concentrated their attack on a one and one-fifth mile front east and west of Thiaumont farm, northeast of Verdun, and succeeded in penetrating French trenches between the farm and Caillette woods. Two attacks on French positions on Hill 304, to the west of the Meuse, were repulsed.

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor is Alfred S. Romer, professor of vertebrate paleontology.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

What are the major steps in the evolution of man from his most primitive ancestors?

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

Is there a missing link?

ANSWER:

A "missing link" implies a gap in the fossil pedigree of an animal. For many beasts no marked gap exists. A horse or an elephant might take pride in a known unbroken pedigree of millions of years.

But as men we are more interested in our own ancestry, which is much less perfectly known. We belong to an animal group, the primates, which includes the lemurs, monkeys, and apes. Ancestral primates mainly inhabited tropical forests, as do most living forms. We have few fossils from such localities—our collections are mainly from temperate plains regions [such as Wyoming and Mongolia]. Hence our fossil record is imperfect. Even so, it amply confirms the obvious deductions made from living forms—that the primitive lemurs gave rise to monkeys, these to the great apes, and that man arose from an ally of the primitive apes. Some early fossil human types are very apelike; some fossil apes from India might well be human ancestors, but as yet they are too imperfectly known for us to be sure.

Some of the links are weak, but there is no great gap in the story of human ancestors. And year by year new fossil evidence tends further to strengthen the chain.

PRIVATE SERVICE BEGUN.

Chicago, June 3.—[Friend of the People.]—What action can be taken against the owner of a twelve apartment building who persists in dumping all sorts of refuse, such as ashes, cans, garbage, etc., which accumulate in a building of this size? In the past city ash wagons picked up this rubbish, but have passed it up the last few times until now a pile at least five feet high has accumulated and blocks half the alley. This refuse is scattered all over the alley by boys, making it unsafe to drive through with an automobile. It has been my understanding that a building of this size must hire a private scavenger for removal of such rubbish. F. J. P.

Report is made that pursuant to notice on owner of twelve flat building referred to rubbish was removed by private scavenger service. Thereafter owner will have refuse output removed regularly.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

MORTGAGE PAYMENTS.

Chicago, June 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The bank to which we made payments of interest on first mortgage [it acting as agent for the holder] has closed and a receiver appointed. 1. How can I find the name and address of holder of mortgage? The receiver refuses to give me same. 2. Have received notice from the receiver that interest is due in April. I have asked if they have coupon and find they have not, but will write for same. 3. The bank being in receivership, I have not been notified by holder of mortgage that the bank is acting as agent for him. Am I compelled to make payment to him? 4. If I do not pay the receiver and demand to deal direct with holder of mortage, what will happen? W. F.

1. We know of no way to force this information. If your note specifies a place of payment you should make a legal tender at that place and this will cut off the running up of interest and subsequent penalties.

2. We advise you not to pay until the coupon is presented for collection.

3. See No. 2.

THE BONUS MARCHERS.

Chicago, June 4.—The present "bonus march" on Washington, in my opinion, is the most pathetic, arrogant and disloyal exhibition ever staged by so-called ex-service men. It has occurred to me that it might be interesting to check the records of these parasites. I wonder how many of them were volunteers? How many saw active service on land or sea? How many were actually in service more than 90 days? How many have been good, industrious citizens since their discharge?

The government has already been more than generous in its treatment of its former service men. Unless a halt is called, and called quickly, in the treasury gouges of these parasites, the present grave situation can become disastrous.

I am particularly disgusted with the American Legion for its apathetic, passive, weak-kneed attitude. It has prostituted the ideals upon which it was founded and has become a tool of the peanut politician.

I personally have no ax to grind. I served honorably in the navy; was on sea duty, except for two weeks, from July 14, 1917, to Oct. 20, 1919. My bonus amounted to $1,500, and on top of it is the advantage of $10,000 of the cheapest insurance in the world. During the last two years I have lost all I accumulated during the "golden twenties" and last month I lost my job. I want another one and a chance to make back what I lost. If congress really wants to help me and the millions of other service men, like me, let them cut government expense, broaden the tax base by passing the manufacturers' excise tax, straighten out the tariff mess, then adjourn and give business a chance to work out its own salvation. It always has. F. L. C.

PLEA FOR FAIRNESS.

Chicago, June 7.—In most instances THE TRIBUNE has my hearty approval, but today's cartoon rubbed me the wrong way. I fear the cartoonist has the wrong slant on economic conditions of today.

Our boys are not down in Washington on just a lark, but are driven there through poverty. I fail to see that their attitude can be so ridiculous, particularly so when our international bankers lent billions to foreign nations, billions which were made available through the efforts of the doughboy. They are now asking 1½ or 2 billions to aid local conditions, every cent to remain at home.

My attitude is based on a year and a half of privation, no job, but plugging along trusting that things may be bettered. My itemized record of expense is proof of my present frugal living. It would be well for the cartoonist to get a touch of this, for there are millions of us who are out of work, other millions have much smaller incomes. Our thoughts are directed on how to get by and through this depression. Such cartoons as this one drive people to the belief that the present order of things is all wrong. Let's be fair and weigh matters a little more thoroughly.

H. O. HOEPFNER.

WELL DONE.

Chicago, June 7.—I should like to take this opportunity to congratulate THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on its selection of Mr. Orr as cartoonist. His manner of cartooning current issues of the day reflects the democratic and liberal thinking platform of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. His cartoons of June 6 and 7 clearly show his ability to select appropriate subjects and to illustrate them in the correct manner. ALBERT S. LIGHT.

A CLEAN SLATE.

Racine, Wis., June 3.—To secure a new deal, the voters should wipe the slate clean. Every town supervisor, alderman, member of the county board, legislator, congressman, and senator who cannot show a clear record of opposition to increased taxes, log rolling, nepotism, graft, waste, and extravagance should be relegated to private life. Those of our mayors, city commissioners, governors, and other excutives who have not consistently opposed unwise, unjust or excessive taxes and appropriations should go the same way.

WILLIAM D. THOMPSON.

WINDSHIELD WIPERS.

Chicago, June 3.—Why aren't surface cars furnished with windshield wipers for bad weather? This question concerns the safety of thousands of car riders and pedestrians. I ask this question because I narrowly escaped running down an elderly woman Thursday night as she stood in the rain at 73d street and waited in vain for the surface car ahead of me to stop for her. I wouldn't have seen her either if my windshield had been obscured as was the glass that the motorman of that car was trying to see through. W. M. A.

A NICE QUESTION.

Chicago, June 6.—Will the dripping wet Republican party of Illinois support bone-dry Richard Yates for congressman at large? EDW. LOYCE.

BLOOD WILL TELL.

Chicago, June 3.—Your editorial of June 3, "A Blonde from the Golden West," is an insult to the native sons. Cannot you be charitable? Remember we are only three generations from the forty-niners and the dance hall.

A NATIVE SON.

BILLBOARDS.

Chicago, June 4. — A committee appointed by the city council and headed by Ald. Thomas J. Terrell has been attaining desirable results in dressing up the west side for the Republican and Democratic national conventions. The civic and business organizations of the west side have given splendid cooperation in cleaning up their property and arranging for decorations. Every one except the Chicago Stadium corporation seems to be enthusiastic and anxious to help in any possible way. All the good work that is being done is offset, however, by the erection of unsightly advertising billboards by the Stadium people. They will certainly bring unfavorable comment from our guests.

GEORGE JORDAN.

TAXING FARM PROPERTY.

Glenwood, Ill., June 2.—I have read your editorial in today's paper entitled "Paying for the King's Horses and the King's Men" and desire to thank you for the excellent exposition of facts in connection with the taxation of farm property in this county.

JAMES D. WILKIE,
Owner of the 113 acres referred to.

BUNGALOWS RECOMMENDED.

Chicago, June 6.—I would suggest, with all these accidental drops from the tenth and above floors, that the millionaires move into bungalows where the breeze isn't strong. It seems only the poor have intentional drops.

CALLS U. S. FARM BOARD MENACE TO ENTIRE NATION

Prevents Rise in Wheat Prices, Snow Claims.

Salvage Farm Board!

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—Abolition of the farm board and liquidation of its affairs by the secretary of commerce with a view to salvaging as much of the $500,000,000 revolving fund as possible was proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative Britten [Rep., Ill.].

Britten said in a statement that "the creation of the farm board has been a costly experiment and its dissolution is being called for from every state in the Union."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—The heavy cloud of governmental intervention hanging over American grain markets was declared to be responsible for the fact that wheat prices have not advanced with economic conditions in an address made before a massmeeting of business men and farmers by B. W. Snow, vice president of the Federation of American Business here tonight.

B. W. SNOW.

Snow, as a veteran crop and marketing expert, formerly associated with the federal department of agriculture, said that wheat prices would rise 25 to 45 cents a bushel and prove a blessing to the entire nation if it were not for the overhanging menace of the farm board.

One of Series of Meetings.

The meeting here tonight is one of a series called in the corn belt in recent weeks to discuss the effects of government interference in business. Large gatherings previously have been held in Iowa and Indiana, as well as at Bloomington, Peoria and other Illinois cities. The downstate gatherings have been called by the Illinois Farmers Grain Dealers' association, whose members own a majority of all the cooperative farmers elevators in the state.

Snow described three specific directions in which the operation of the farm board in the last three years has been a "positive injury to agriculture."

400 Million Wasted, He Says.

"It has spent wastefully and in complete failure of accomplishing the result intended more than 400 million dollars of the taxpayers' money," Snow charges. "By ill-timed and ill-founded advice proffered American farmers it has caused them to lose hundreds of millions of dollars through withholding their crops from market and carrying the surplus of one year into another.

"For two years it has carried over a wheat surplus and encouraged wheat growers to do likewise. This surplus held over at the beginning of each new crop has been a determining influence in setting a price for the whole of the new crops, and it is largely responsible for the lower prices at which each successive crop has been sold."

"Disrupts Marketing Machinery."

Snow further charged that the farm board has "so disrupted marketing machinery as to discourage investors from purchasing farm products in anticipation of a probable rise in values. If it were not for the menace of farm board operations and the possession by government agencies of about 100 million bushels of wheat, present conditions of prospective crops and prospective world demand would unquestionably result in an immediate advance in wheat prices, possibly 25 to 40 cents a bushel."

Snow pointed out that the winter wheat crop is largely a failure in areas of heaviest production and acreage of spring wheat is much below normal, while crop conditions in Europe suggest reduced yields this year.

"The farm board has violated every economic law of trade, and its present attitude through its holding subsidiaries is responsible for a price range that is not justified by present crop prospects and food demand the world over," Snow declared.

Girls! DON'T REDUCE

Until I tell you of the wonderful new way I discovered in

BATTLE CREEK

YOU eat all you want of delicious foods—take no harmful drugs like thyroid—no nauseating "salts"; no back-breaking exercises—Yet you lose excess fat so fast you can hardly believe the scales—you wear clothes sizes smaller as inches peel off bust, hips, limbs, neck, arms, and face—Oh! it's so wonderful—you'll never realize how thrilled you are going to be until you actually see what it does for you. You feel so peppy—and you look years younger. If you don't win love after this—you are just hopeless, girls.

Here's the recipe—and be sure to cut it out of the paper—You just get yourself a big bottle of BonKora—enough for a month or six weeks. It never costs over a dollar. Eat three square meals a day—four if you prefer—but cut out the starches and fats and eat more of the good strength and tonic foods that the directions in the package tell about.

This BonKora is different from every other treatment you ever heard of. Doctors tell us fat is 66 per cent water anyhow, and this treatment simply makes the fatty parts of your figure throw off enough of the heavy water to make you more nearly NORMAL in weight.

Now let me warn you—when you have reduced your weight and measurements to normal, be satisfied and quit taking BonKora, except occasionally as a conditioner. Don't let yourself become too thin.

BonKora is free from any harmful drugs, is not habit-forming and may be taken by any one according to directions. Remember the name BONKORA—Beware of imitations! Big bottle of BonKora only 98c at all

ROUTS CHINESE

Lieut. Com. Andrew Shepard.

Lafayette, Ind., June 9.—[Special.]—Lieut. Com. Andrew Shepard, U. S. N., son of Prof. George H. Shepard of the Purdue university faculty, was the principal figure in the episode reported from China yesterday in which the U. S. gunboat Oahu put to rout a large force of Chinese soldiers who had attacked the British steamers Wanlou and Kiwao in the upper Yangste river. Lieut. Com. Shepard was in command of the Oahu at the time. His father received a cablegram today from his son saying he was safe after the exchange of gunfire with the Chinese force. Many of the Chinese were killed.

The Oahi fired several rounds at the force and then stood by the steamers during the night. The Chinese were seeking to obtain $110,000 in cash which the two British vessels were carrying.

CHINA TO RENEW TIES WITH RUSSIA; WAR PACT SEEN

Seeks to Offset Japs' Military Aggression.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 10.—[Friday.]—The Chinese government has definitely decided to resume full diplomatic relations with soviet Russia, according to reports from confidential sources at Nanking.

The Chinese government, it was learned, may propose a military alliance with Moscow as a means to offset Japanese military aggression in Manchuria. Wang Ching-wei, head of the executive yuan, has been in Shanghai for several days conferring with local political and commercial interests.

Will Bar Communism.

Prior to his return to Nanking yesterday he announced that the Chinese government definitely had decided on a resumption of relations with Moscow. He said that this did not mean that the alliance would include the introduction in China of Russian communism similar to the situation in 1927, which caused a break in the relations between the two countries and the forcible closing of soviet consulates.

Nanking's decision to resume relations with Russia was made at a meeting of the executive council in Nanking on Tuesday morning, prior to the departure of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, virtual dictator of China, for Hankow in connection with the anti-Red military campaign.

May Compromise with Reds.

Owing to the move to resume relations with Moscow, it is predicted here that there is a possibility that the government may compromise with the communist elements maintaining a so-called republic in Kiangsi province.

The Chinese government yesterday sent a declaration to Moscow announcing that Nanking has refused to recognize the new officials and directors recently appointed by the Japanese controlled Manchurian régime for the Chinese Eastern railway. The declaration said that it is China's intention to hold the Japanese responsible for illegal actions in the state of Manchoukuo.

U. S. GRAIN CORP. ACTS TO UNIFY SALES FORCES

Move to Protect a Weak Wheat Pool Seen.

In preparation for the handling of millions of bushels of the new wheat crop which will be harvested in coming weeks in the southwest, the government financed Farmers' National Grain corporation yesterday took drastic steps to mold into a single force all the farmers' cooperative marketing groups that have joined the farm board organization.

The action was taken in a closed meeting of the corporation's board of directors at its offices at 342 South Dearborn street, adjoining the offices of the government's wheat stabilizing corporation, now carrying some 100 million bushels of grain at the expense of taxpayers.

O. K. Sales Agreement.

The directorate was said to have approved sales agreements between the Farmers' National Grain corporation's subsidiary, the Hall-Baker company of Kansas City, Mo., and at least three of the four farm cooperatives in the southwest for whom it obtained federal farm board loans. Economy was given as the objective in combining the sales forces of all the farm cooperative units.

C. E. Huff, former Kansas minister and now president of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, denied last night that the concentrating of sales effort constituted a merger. Under the sales agreement, he explained, each of the farmers' cooperatives belonging to the national corporation would continue to collect farmers' grain, but would sell it through the central agency or its subsidiary, the Hall-Baker company.

Move to Aid Pool Seen.

Reports from Kansas City indicated that the corporation had taken action at this time in order to take a weak wheat pool under the protecting wing of the farm board. This pool, once said to have marketed the grain of 10,000 Kansas farmers, has been a heavy borrower of farm board funds.

According to dispatches last night representatives of the wheat pool, known as the Kansas Cooperative Wheat Marketing association, were scheduled to appear in District court on June 15 to answer charges by 18 of its farm members, who demanded that it show cause why it should not be placed in receivership.

The complainants contend that the pool borrowed farm board funds without ample security to guarantee payments.

From the same source in Kansas City yesterday came the information that the Farmers' National Grain corporations had been quietly obtaining sales agreements with not only this wheat pool, but the Farmers' Union Jobbing association and the Equity Union Grain corporation, all three with offices in Kansas City.

Reports current in farm organization circles yesterday that an effort might be made by the corporation's directors to oust Huff as president.

ROYALS PLEADS GUILTY TO RAPE; GETS FIVE YEARS

Vernon Royals, 17 year old confessed murderer, yesterday pleaded guilty to the rape of Mrs. Jane Meyers, 53 years old, 5241 Ardmore avenue, and was sentenced to five years in the Joliet penitentiary by Judge James J. Kelly.

VERNON ROYALS.

He will serve the sentence at the completion of the 25 year prison term imposed on him for the murder of Mrs. Agnes Lavander, who was shot to death in the Forest Glen forest preserve in February, 1930.

Royals decided to plead guilty after Judge Kelly had ruled that his confession to the rape of Mrs. Meyers might be introduced in evidence. Royals had testified that police beat him until he signed a false confession.

HARRY FLEISHER, LINDY KIDNAPING SUSPECT, GIVES UP

Underworld Pressure Brought Surrender.

Detroit, Mich., June 9.—[Special.]—Harry Fleisher, long sought for the triple slaying in the Collingwood Manor apartments and later in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, surrendered to the Detroit police department today.

He will be questioned by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey police, or his representative, and by government agents here in connection with a liquor indictment.

Detroit police have sought Fleisher, Purple gang leader, since last Sept. 16, when Joe Lebovitz, Izzy Sutker and Hymie Paul were riddled with bullets in the Collingwood Manor apartments.

Named in Triple Slaying.

The day after the slaying Solly Levine told police the story of the killing, naming Fleisher, Ray Bernstein, Harry Keywell and Irving Milberg as the killers.

The latter three were captured, tried and convicted on the testimony of Levine and are serving life sentences.

Fresh impetus was given to the year old hunt for Fleisher when a radio message addressed to him was broadcast from a New York station in April before the Lindbergh baby was found.

Fleisher, on advice of counsel, refused to answer any questions. "Where did you get that tan, in Canada or Texas?" and "Did you have anything to do with the Lindbergh kidnaping?" the prosecutor asked.

Fleisher merely shrugged his shoulders to each question and said nothing.

He probably will be arraigned Friday. A warrant charging Fleisher with complicity in the Collingwood massacre has been outstanding.

Underworld Forced Surrender.

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—A search for Harry Fleisher, a known kidnaper, was started soon after the Lindbergh baby was taken from his home. New Jersey state police today communicated immediately with Detroit authorities and it was understood two detectives were en route there to question him.

Fleisher's surrender, according to word in New Jersey, was forced by the underworld, seeking to "quiet conditions" disurbed by the nation-wide search for him.

The state police of New Jersey have never disclosed their reasons for suspecting Fleisher.

Loop Parking Hearings End; Committee to Seek Solution

BY HAL FOUST.

The council traffic committee yesterday completed a series of public hearings on a proposed ordinance to permit thirty minute parking in the loop. More merchants testified that limited parking would increase business and more traffic experts testified that the parking would reduce the number of persons entering the loop.

At the close of the day's session Ald. John Massen [48th], chairman of the committee, was authorized to appoint a subcommittee of traffic experts and merchants who will meet next week in an effort to reach an agreement for regulating the use of loop streets for the best interest of the retail stores and of vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

Three witnesses advocating parking as a business aid were Gordon Strong of Gordon Strong & Co., Mrs. Ora H. Snyder, representing retail candy dealers, and C. F. Strodel of Balaban & Katz theaters.

Mr. Strong said no blanket regulation would be satisfactory, since the character of every street is different. Mrs. Snyder said that the candy business suffered from the day that no parking went into effect in 1928, and that a one way system with parking on one side of the street would be the only answer to the loop problem. Mr. Strobel said the parking ban was responsible for the public having lost "loop consciousness."

Leslie Sorenson, city traffic engineer, introduced statistics indicating that automobile travel to the loop, highly regarded by the merchants, has increased 22.5 per cent since parking was banned four years ago, and that the private passenger car was the only agency showing a substantial increase over this period.

Si Mayer, president of the Automobile Club of Illinois, said that folks stopped coming to the loop before parking was banned because of the time required for the trip. He added that parking would delay buses and street cars as well as private cars.

Lieut. David Flynn, head of the police traffic detail, said 200 additional policemen would be required to enforce a thirty minute parking ordinance. George Travis of the Chicago Safety council cited figures that traffic injuries in the loop have dropped 47 per cent and fatalities 70 per cent with no parking, and that the toll for the city as a whole has increased in this time 19.9 per cent for injuries and 19.1 per cent for deaths.

W. J. Sherwood, assistant general manager of the Chicago Motor Coach company, said parking would delay all forms of transportation with the exception of the elevated. He added that the public places a high premium on a few minutes' saving in travel time.

NEW SOVIET RAIL WRECK IS BARED; SCORES KILLED

PETROVSK, Russia, June 9.—(AP)—Another catastrophic wreck on a soviet railroad in which an undetermined number of persons were reported killed on May 15 was revealed publicly for the first time today when 16 railroad employés went on trial charged with responsibility for the accident.

Two crowded passenger trains collided at the Zelonaya station, between Kharkov and Dnieper Petrovsk. Scores of victims were crushed beyond recognition. The prosecutor charged the station master and other employés at Zelonaya were drunk and mixed the signals.

Cloth Flowers Score Hit in Fashion Shops

Ideal Decorations for Summer Frocks.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

COTTON cutters have been busy again, snipping, nipping, and frilling bits of cool, crisp organdy, pique, and lawn into flowers that now bob and beckon in a never ending exhibit in all the shops in town.

Some of these budding Burbanks have done some extraordinary tricks with just a square or two of cotton . . . clever brain children so exquisitely copied in petal and stem and leaf that they could easily deceive the most distinguished botanist.

They have made cottons bloom like roses, carnations, gardenias, and gorgeous big, fluffy peonies, and what is more these flower makers have only used tiny wisps of material, a pair of shears, and ten clever, twisting agile fingers.

Big glorious white roses to pin to your black organdy dance frocks are made of cross bar organdy . . . perfectly huge things with all kinds of allure, any questing bee would instantly dive among their petals for honey; lovely angel skin roses equally expansive as to diameter are very new and intriguing . . . think of the devastating effect you can make with two of these lusterless beauties clipped to the shoulder of a dull canton crêpe dress. These giant blooms are also magically produced in delectable pastel shades of blue, pink, and old rose.

A bumper crop of white peonies is being shown . . . you'll be so fooled with these good looking silky cotton flowers that you'll sniff disappointingly for the usual fresh fragrance . . . the fringed petals have been ingeniously reproduced, all curled round the frilly centers with the wider petals standing guard outside. The only botanical difference is that the leaves are white, pale ghost leaves of the green originals as created by dame nature.

For your tailored suit buttonholes some very thoughtful designer has snipped out life size carnations of crisp plain organdy . . . these go out into the world of fashion in pairs . . . a white flower tied to a blue or a red or else two white . . . the edges are piquantly pointed, so realistically, that surely their spicy perfume is apparent even to the person who never pretends.

Pique gardenias sound as trim as they look . . . they are made of very fine white and soft tinted satiny sheened pique . . . you'll wear them with your gingham and other cotton frocks and summer suits.

And somebody used some tiny scraps of white mesh and evolved some very unusual mesh petaled flowers that simply couldn't be found pictured in any authoritative book on botany, but they are exceptionally good when worn with other mesh accessories for smart summer sports clothes.

The most successful entrants in this new flower show are the yards and yards of white, pink and peach tinted "leis" made of non-wilting organdy . . . the very newest hybrids to wear in garlands, Hawaii fashion, dripping over your new washable or rather cotton evening dresses . . . these exotic night-blooming wonders compete with hyacinth bands, or triangles made of these tiny white flowers, for popular favor . . . for these versatile hyacinth bands can form a yoke or make shoulder straps or belts for the various cotton frocks in your wardrobe, while the leis specialize only in necking.

Men's Garden Club Show Will Open Tomorrow

BY PAUL POTTER.

One of the best arrays of cut flowers seasonal to gardens of the Chicago region in mid June will be opened to the public in Garfield park conservatory tomorrow and Sunday.

The occasion for the display is the annual summer flower show of the Men's Garden club of the Chicago region, of which Oakley V. Morgan of Elmhurst is president. Designed to encourage amateur gardening as well as to give recognition to achievement, no charge is made for exhibitors or the public, and any gardener may enter as many varieties of flowers of his own culture as he desires.

Exhibitors should have their flowers at the conservatory tomorrow morning so that judging may start at 11 a. m. Containers will be furnished for cut flowers. Among the classes of most popular interest are those for each variety of peony, iris, rose, lilies, pyrethrum, delphinium, primulas, poppies, violas, columbine, and daisies.

The member of the garden club receiving the greatest number of points will receive the annual August Koch bronze medal, while another medal is offered the nonmember receiving the most points. A bronze medal is offered for the best peony and the best iris spike shown.

The garden club membership includes more than a hundred business and professional men whose hobby is gardening.

Good Morning!

Here's where you laugh! [At least, here's where I THINK you laugh.]

Take a chance anyhow. Ease into the United Artists' theater and see the gay screen adaptation of "The Butter and Egg Man" which enjoyed success on the stage. You'll find the piece certainly quite the most risible stimulating vehicle the gaping-orificed Joe E. Brown has ever landed. It hands you a laugh at the start and proceeds with speed to become ridiculouser and ridiculouser. [Apologies to Alice.]

Right from the beginning Mr. Brown enters heartily into the spirit of the scenario and generously burlesques his rôle of the Texas yahoo who comes to New York to put $20,000 in bank, and finds himself forty-nine per cent owner of a terrible show called "Her Golden Sin," on which production is just about to be stopped because of lack of funds.

Like an angel from heaven he appears before the avid eyes of the slippery boys, Lehman and Mack—who need him so—and before he can say what is Texan for Jack Robinson—lo, he doesn't need to look for a bank. Also, right off the reel, he falls hard for the comely damsel who pounds a typewriter in the outer office of the snide producing company . . .!

A large amount of water runs under a number of bridges before the finale, which is "different" and ludicrous.

Mr. Brown is really a lot of fun this trip. He has substituted a wild wester "Whoo-oo-oo-pee-ee-ee!" for his overworked seal yelp—and this was a good idea. The manner in which he kids the rôle is just what the rôle needed.

Lew Cody and Robert Greig are adequate as the city slickers. Ginger Rogers gives a notably sincere and pleasing performance as the Damsel of the Keys. Other rôles are intelligently handled.

"The Tenderfoot" has been smartly directed and is, technically, quite admirable. Judging from the laughter which rang through the theater yesterday, audiences are going to take it to their hearts.

See you tomorrow!

Sculptor for Alexandra Memorial Made Knight

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 9.—King George today conferred the Accolade of Knighthood on Alfred Gilbert, veteran sculptor of the Alexandra memorial unveiled yesterday. Only a week ago Gilbert, who is 78, was invited to rejoin the Royal academy, from which he resigned twenty-three years before because of a controversy over his famous statue of Eros in Piccadilly circus. He lived in Belgium seventeen years and returned to London at the king's invitation to complete a memorial of Duke Clarence at Windsor. Thereafter he began his Alexandra.

N. Side Club Is Interesting Study in Boys

Well Known Young Men Are Backers.

BY JUDITH CASS.

HAVE you heard about the new north side club? It's a very interesting one and some of the well known young men of the near north side are members, along with 75 boys who used to belong to gangs, the "Blue Ramblers," the "Larrabee Braves," the "Oak Billiards," and the like, but who now are finding life just as exciting and interesting and far safer in the North Side Boys' club of Chicago with clubrooms at 1203 North Wells street.

How this club came into existence is very interesting. Eighteen months ago Seward park playground—a few blocks west of Lake Shore drive, at Elm and Sedgwick—was a tough spot, and the boy gangs who dominated the neighborhood sometimes went east and made raids on the boys leaving the Latin school, netting coats, knives, money, etc.

Raymond Sayler, a young research student, then completing a scholarship in the department of sociology at the University of Chicago, made a study of this area in conjunction with the Institute of Juvenile Research, and under his direction a new kind of club for the boys was formed. Modest quarters were rented, a flat above a drug store at Wells and Division streets, and three north side women—Mrs. Arthur L. Farwell, Mrs. James B. Herrick and Mrs. George J. Jaeger Jr.—underwrote the rent and light.

Today there are 75 boys in the club, 14 to 18 years of age, and the policeman at Seward park has very little trouble now with destructive boys who wreck the playground apparatus just for fun. Conditions there, according to Sergt. John Leonard, are now as good as in any park in the Lincoln park system.

Boys Provide Own Discipline.

The clubhouse itself has awakened the boys' interest in new activities; they elect their own officers; they keep in shipshape order the reading room, radio room, game room and carpentry room, and craps, poker, smoking, swearing, and thieving have gradually been "frowned down" by the members themselves.

Infractions of the rules are handled by a "kangaroo court," with no acquittals! Every night the club is filled with boys who a few months ago roamed the crowded neighborhood looking for trouble. Strange as this may seem, I am told that this is the first and only boys' club in that entire district!

Now for the part the young men of the near north side are taking in the club. Mr. Sayler's scholarship is ended, and in order to make it possible for him to continue his work a group of young men who are convinced that the club meets a crying need have become members of the club, and are out almost every night securing new memberships among men living just east of the area. And they ask that the new members not only pay the dues but that they really take an interest in the club and meet the boys.

This group, or organization committee, as it calls itself, is arranging all sorts of interesting things for the summer—week-end hikes to the Dunes and forest preserves; visits to newspaper plants, radio studios, stockyards, etc.; two weeks at a summer camp for each of 120 deserving boys; baseball and other competitive sports with other boys' clubs—I'm told that the young men of the committee even plan to play the boys' baseball team themselves some time soon.

Those who are working to obtain new members are John D. Ames, Charles Prentiss Andrews, F. H. Bassett, Donald F. Bowey, George L. Dickson, Harry L. Drake, C. B. Duschane Jr., John J. Finlay, Walter S. Frazier, Darrow B. Fulton, W. Press Hodgkins, Leo L. Hogan, George F. Jaeger Jr., Alexander Kirk, Edward F Mansure, Ballard Moore, John T. Pirie Jr., Kimball Salisbury, Carroll H. Sudler Jr., and Talbott Wegg.

Dorothy Darling Is Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Darling of Kenilworth announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy, to Lieut. George V. Holloman of the United States Army Air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Holloman of Rich Square, N. C.

Miss Darling attended the Roycemore school before entering Ogontz college in Philadelphia. She left Ogontz after two years of study in order to travel, and has spent much of the last two years in Europe. Last winter she was in Arizona, where her family usually spends the cold weather months. She did not make a debut with her contemporaries on the north shore simply because she preferred not to have a formal "coming out."

Lieut. Holloman was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1925 and finished his flying course at Kelly field in Texas in 1928. He is now stationed at Wright field at Dayton, O. The Darlings are not giving a party to announce the engagement, but no doubt there will be some sort of entertainment for Miss Darling and her fiancé when he arrives next week-end to visit them. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Mrs. A. N. Mitchell Visits Parents.

Mrs. Alfred N. Mitchell, the former Mary Elizabeth Couch, arrived yesterday to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Couch, at the "White House in the Woods" at Golf. Mrs. Mitchell's husband, who is in the British civil service in central India, will join his wife when he has a furlough in the fall.

If Miss Ann Elizabeth Walsh and Mrs. Mitchell's brother, Johnson Couch, are married in the autumn, as they hope to be, the date probably will be set so that the Mitchells can be among the guests. The Couch-Mitchell wedding took place on Sept. 9, 1930, in the chapel of St. Luke's Episcopal church in Evanston and was followed by a reception and dinner at the Couch residence.

Novel Set in Department Store Misses Opportunity to Be Good

"A Brilliant Future," anonymous. [Vanguard.] Published yesterday.

LIFE in a huge department store has inspired an anonymous author to writ 312 pages which he or she entitles "A Brilliant Future." The material the author has chosen for his or her (it is difficult to determine) novel, under the hand of a brilliant or even a competent artist, would have led to a dramatic and effective result not at all incomparable to the theme and scheme and success of "Grand Hotel."

The possibilities for petty and great tragedy, for philosophic implication, for a saga of human emotion and activity, are unlimited in subject matter of this sort. That the author could not or would not take advantage of these artistic opportunities is at once unfortunate and disappointing.

Stearns, a minor executive in Ford's department store, burdened with an annoying, if not actually maddening, wife and two children, falls in love with Vivian Mason, buyer in the same store, in every respect a cheap and unlovely person. Their affair progresses along the same general lines of development that characterizes most sordid romances. There are frightful scenes at home, violent scenes with Vivian, who is emotionally too shallow to understand Stearns' love; scenes in the store that imperil the careers of both, and the final expected climax.

Castle, higher up in the financial and managerial scale of Ford's, is a typical example of the spiritual horror and frustration resulting from a weak character. This characterization is by far the best and most convincing in the book. Most of the book centers around these three people, their relations to each other and their conflict with life. The other persons, of whom there are many, who range up and down the social and economic scale, serve as the background of the novel. The author cross-cuts into their lives from time to time, revealing to the reader the personal intimacies and the petty aspirations of the minor clerks in the store.

The description of the store itself, the daily routine, the conflict between the higher executives, the jealousies and backbiting, the details of store life as supposedly seen from the inside—all this furnishes an atmosphere that for the most part appears to be real, though the creation of it is uninspired and uninspiring.

The narrative jogs along somewhat heavily. The interruptions in the direct stream of action impress the reader as dull and prolonged. These interruptions, had they been handled more artistically, would have been brilliant cinematic flashes, as dramatic and exciting as those in "Grand Hotel." The story finally peters out, and then the author, either struck by a sudden moral conscience or impressed with the curious dead inadequacy of the book, blunders into one of the most incredible and careless dénouements that one can imagine.

After pages and pages of slowly molding the main character's life and impressions the author forces him in the space of two or three pages to turn completely about in the most unreal fashion. The result is that the characterization, which the reader was gradually, if only through insistence, beginning to believe in, comes crashing about his ears.

"A Brilliant Future" (one never completely understands why a better title could not have been picked with a little effort) fails to impress largely because the characters remain nothing but unanimated dolls and because the author did not realize the dramatic promise of his material.

Published today are the following books:

"I Cover the Waterfront," by Max Miller [Dutton], deals with a journalist's experiences on a far western waterfront. The book contains interesting pen sketches of people and places, and stories and legends, all touched with a delicate poetic mind.

"That Strange Little Brown Man Gandhi," by Frederick B. Fisher [Long & Smith], contains a vivid portrait of one of the most interesting men in modern times.

CHICAGOAN GIVES 32 YEARS' STUDY TO BAKING BEANS

Now Noted for Best in the Country.

BY ROE FOWLER.

Chicago has a man who has spent thirty-two years learning to bake beans, and the result is that baked beans in Chicago are recognized as superior in flavor and digestibility to any in the country.

Not a little of this achievement is due to the nearness of the Michigan bean fields, which enables Chicago beaneries to get their dried beans "fresh," but certainly much more of it is owing to the persistent efforts of this man, E. W. Rieck, who is the head of a chain of bean dispensing establishments, and has been working for thirty-two years on the problem of cooking this particular legume.

Incidentally, the baked beans served in both of the main competing chains of beaneries are cooked in the same ovens, and a bean that goes into the ovens never knows in which of these beaneries it will end up.

Reheating Changes Flavor.

"But," you say, "there's a difference in the taste of the beans." True enough, but the difference comes about through the different methods of reheating the beans. One of them keeps its beans in a steam table device, while the other insists that the steam injures the flavor. Which is which, and who is right, the individual patrons may decide—and doubtless have ere now.

The main problem is to make the beans digestible, and it is a problem that—once solved—may bob up again. For instance, one year recently the bean crop came in with three sizes mixed. There were large beans, middle sized beans, and little tiny beans. This came about because there was a drought in the middle of the bean season.

The large beans were the ones that had grown last, and had not fully dried out. The middle sized beans were the ones that had grown before the drought, and had followed the normal course of procedure. The tiny beans were those that had grown to maturity during the drought, and had hardly any water.

Must Cook Uniformly.

The cooking problem was to get the beans cooked uniformly. Following the ordinary method of cooking, the large beans broke up and became mushy, while the little beans remained hard and indigestible. The middle sized beans, being normal, cooked all right, but the general batch of beans would be indigestible because of the mixture of the other two kinds.

In solving the problem without separating the beans, the cooks finally found that uniform results could be obtained by putting in less water, and cooking with less heat. The less water prevented the large beans from bumping each other around and breaking up, and the less heat prevented the small ones from baking hard. And that is just one of the many problems that have had to be solved during the thirty-two years of making beans safe for Chicago.

During the war beans were at a premium, and all kinds of beans were shipped in—and were cooked with any kind of meat, and sometimes no meat. The bean business became a madhouse. They even imported beans from Japan to meet the increased demand for this protein food, which was a substitute for meat.

Must Cook on Large Scale.

The process of cooking beans on a large scale—which is the only way they can be thoroughly cooked, according to Mr. Rieck—is a delicate one. The difficulty in digesting beans lies in getting the digestive juices to work on the hulls. For this reason many recipes call for soda to be added to the water to dissolve the resin on the hulls and permit the water to enter the beans. Mr. Rieck's experiments indicate that this is all wrong.

They showed that the water enters the bean through a small hole in the hull, near the sprout. The soda itself, Mr. Rieck has found, is instrumental in retarding digestion, because it neutralizes vital digestive juices. For that reason soda should be left out—and there goes another housewife's myth.

Nor do beans have to be cooked in earthen jars. It has been found that aluminum jars work better and do not impart the flavor of their past occupants. Neither do they crack up so easily, which is an important factor in the handling problem.

The beans are cooked a minimum of 27 hours, in a rotary oven of soapstone plates which keep them at a uniform temperature throughout. The oven is heated for seven hours before the beans are put in, to an exact high temperature, and allowed to cool gradually while the beans cook. This gradual cooling of the oven is highly important, and is the part of the procedure that cannot be duplicated in the home, Mr. Rieck explained.

Before being put in to cook, however, the beans are soaked in cold water for seven hours, and then are scalded for half an hour to take the "beany" smell away and complete the loosening of the hulls. They are then poured into the aluminum jars, exactly measured, with water, exactly measured and of a specified temperature. Then a special blend of ginger, salt, mustard, red pepper, and sugar is added—everything measured exactly.

On top of the beans is placed a special perforated cover, and on top of this cover two pieces of select pork belly, from which the choicest bacon is ordinarily made. The perforated aluminum cover helps hold the beans down, but permits the water to circulate over the pork. This, plus the long cooking, makes the pork extremely tender and the skin becomes jellylike. Over all this a domed aluminum cover is placed, and the steam that rises to the top is condensed and runs down the inside of the jar. If the top were not domed the water would drip on the meat and make it spotty.

Beans thus cooked are digestible, Mr. Rieck declares, and he believes that Chicago may well be proud of its contribution to the science of making beans digestible.

HE MAKES GOOD ON HIS NAME

When the ordinary husband cooks a meal he usually makes a mess of it, but not Don Cook, husband of Evalyn Knapp, movie actress. Don likes his food a certain way, and, in order to make sure he gets it that way, he cooks both for himself and Evalyn. Here is the couple in their home in Hollywood, with Don submitting his culinary wares for the approval of Evalyn. Their pet dog seems to approve also. [Acme Photo.]

Two Good Recipes

(Alveda's Recipes.)

SPICED RHUBARB.

2 pounds sugar.
1 cup vinegar.
1 tablespoon each cinnamon and cloves.
1 teaspoon allspice.

Wash rhubarb, skin, and cut in small pieces. Put in preserving kettle and add remaining ingredients, bring to a boil and let simmer until consistency of jam, about 2½ to 3 hours. Put in jars and seal.

ORANGE MUFFINS.

1 egg.
¾ cup milk.
Grated rind of 1 orange.
¼ cup orange juice.
1½ cups flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream the butter and sugar, add egg and beat well; add milk, orange juice and grated orange rind, then flour and baking powder sifted together. Bake in muffin tins 20 minutes. ALVEDA N.

IF IT'S A PICNIC WHAT IS A PICNIC IT NEEDS CHICKEN

Jellied Is Delicious and Convenient Variation.

Be it ever so pleasant, a picnic is better if the pièce de résistance is chicken.

Have you ever tried jellied chicken? It sounds difficult, but it really is the easiest thing in the world to do. When you prepare it, put it into one of those tall, round containers used for ice cream. It can be made a day early, allowed to congeal in the refrigerator, and transported right in the carton, which has the additional advantage of being easy to pack.

When you are ready to serve, remove the lid, press on the bottom of the carton to force out the loaf, and cut thick or thin slices of the jellied chicken, depending on whether it is to be used in sandwiches or on a plate with salad.

There may be variety in jellied chicken as in most other dishes, so you can have your own special favorite flavor. Here are several ways to prepare it:

Jellied Chicken Bellevue.

1 five pound fowl
1 small onion
1 carrot
2 stalks celery
2 teaspoons gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
Salt and pepper.

Cut up the fowl and add just enough boiling water to cover. Add the vegetables and seasonings. Four tablespoons sherry flavoring and a few chopped pistachio nuts add an unusual flavor. Simmer until meat is tender enough to drop from the bone.

Remove meat from broth, add gelatin that has been soaked in the cold water, and let the stock boil down to half its quantity. Dice, slice, or shred the meat, and over it pour the strained stock. Mix thoroughly, pack into ice cream carton, which has been rinsed with cold water, and chill.

Chinese Chicken Jelly.

1 three pound chicken
1 pound can pineapple tidbits
1 cup blanched almonds, shredded
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons gelatin
¼ cup cold water

Cut up chicken, just cover with boiling water, and simmer until tender. Remove chicken from broth. To the broth add the gelatin, which has been soaked in cold water, and let cook down to one cupful. Add 2 cups pineapple juice and strain carefully. Season with salt and pepper. Pour over the diced meat, pineapple, and shredded nuts. Blend thoroughly and fill into container to chill.

HOUSEWIVES ARE ASKED TO MAKE FOOD INVENTORY

A spring health inventory is recommended for housewives to determine whether the food served on the family table is providing health and "good spirits" for the family. Mrs. Alma Jones, child care and training specialist of Iowa State college, makes the recommendation.

Approximately half of the homemakers' time and half of the wage earners' money are for food," says Mrs. Jones. "With careful selection of food and planning of menus, growth and health for children and health for the adults can be assured, whereas unwise food selection and preparation may lead to sickness."

HOUSEHOLD HINT.

When measuring butter, remember that a pound print is two cups; avoid cleaning a measuring cup by cutting the brick accordingly for quarter or half cups.

READY TO SERVE MEAL ENHANCES SUMMER OUTING

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

A dozen odd years ago everybody started keeping house with can openers. We dug, dumped, or pried our pork and beans, soups, broths, chowders, pickles, sauces, vegetables, and fruits—everything we ever dreamed could be bottled, tinned, or packaged—out of lanky glass jars, smug metal cans, and sturdy paper cartons. We rhapsodized over twenty minute dinners and time budgeting—and in our new can begotten leisure proceeded to take up golf, bridge, and Camp Fire Girls. It was all great fun—and so alluringly modern.

Of course, there was still baking to do. And whacking up cakes, muffins, and pastries did mean rather a hurried dash home from the clubhouse. But we gamely murmured something about the woman's place—and continued to turn out the prescribed quota of soul churning biscuits and leathery gingerbreads, with at least one thumping good cake a week. For, after all, a woman could hardly ask her grocer for pie paste by the pound or cake and muffin batters by the can. Seriously, I mean.

It Is a Speedy Age.

And yet today—fantastic as it would once have seemed—pie by the pound and cake by the can is exactly what we do demand as we dash home from the links to hustle on the evening meal. These and scores of other amazing ready prepared items all set, with but a few simple additions, to be popped into the oven or slammed onto the burner, and baked, boiled, or fried, while we dash about pouring water, cutting butter, and rustling chilly salads out of the refrigerator.

A few of such pleasant time and work savers are to be had in the moist form—actually ready to be baked without a moment's preparation. Those nubby little sour milk biscuits, for instance, that come plump and puffy from sealed tubes. And the various types of flaky pie paste put up in cartons all ready to be rolled out and shunted to a pie tin.

But such damp items require strict refrigeration if one doesn't wish them noisily blowing up or turning sour, so most of the grocer's offerings arrive in powders requiring simply the addition of water (or occasionally milk) to prepare them for baking.

Edible Conveniences.

For instance, have you tried the snappy gingerbread mixtures that come in cans or cartons? Each buy holds just the amount needed to create one big loaf, a two layer cake, or a dozen gingery cup cakes. A cup of water to the can of mixture is the usual proportion. Scrumptious variations, moreover, may be conjured up by the addition of nuts, raisins, and fresh fruits to the prescribed batter.

Or if you hanker for a darkly mysterious devil's food, there's a special mix for that, too. Likewise for spice cakes, white cakes and gold cakes, with a score of pleasant variations for serving each.

Quick breads also demand consideration and a chance to puff up becomingly in our ovens. There are some delicious bran muffin affairs available and cartons of baking powder biscuit preparations, not to mention the versatile mixtures from which, with the proper guidance and proportions of water, may be made waffles, biscuits, ice box biscuits, short cakes, dumplings—simply endless enticers.

Each mixture, of course, contains in dry form the correct proportions of eggs, shortening, milk, flour, baking powder, flavor and sweetening. The water has simply been removed from each of these ingredients, to be returned by us when we're ready to bake.

Pie Crust Ready Made.

Nor yet do the wonders cease. A box of pie crust powder mixed with just the right proportions of water gives us an upper and lower for an eight inch pie with nary a scrap to spare. And fillings—lemon, chocolate, custard, what you will, also come in powder form and need just a good wetting down and sometimes a precooking to be turned into our most smartly ruffled canned crust.

But baked stuffs can't claim all the glory in hustle-up meals. Real old fashioned Irish stews yammer for a generous share. You'll meet them in cans at your grocer's, ready to be heated and served with a puffy canned dumpling or two. Corned beef hash, chop suey, chicken à la king, tamales peppery with chili sauce, sauerkraut canned with your choice of frankfurters or spareribs, and, of course, the pleasantly inevitable triplets—spaghetti, cheese and tomato sauce. These make not a bad start for kitchen languor and the season of golf tournaments.

Even puddings have taken up the carton and tin can vogue and may be found ready to steam, or in powder form needing simply to be cooked with milk and attractively molded.

Melindy Gits Big S'prise

By Edward F. Younger.

Melindy fin' she gotter git up t' de bank t'day,

'Lows dat ef dey willin' t' pay f'r yaller trash,
She gwine git anotheh husban' soon's she kin!

MENUS FOR THE WEEK-END

BY MARY MEADE.

I never intended to talk chicken today, for I had solemnly promised myself a chicken talk splurge about the Fourth of July, when I could get right down to pin feathers and talk up the first fried chicken of the season.

But this spring weather simply demands chicken pie—chicken dumplings—chicken fricassee—you know the names. And I just can't wait for fried chicken dinners to roll around. And, any way, why wait? Right now stewing birds are quite the proper and delightful solution to the problem of perking up jaded appetites.

Bowdy Chicken, Old Southern Style.

Here, we are assured by blue blooded aristocrats of the southlands, we have an epic in cookery. The quintessence of all chicken delicacies! To make it, cut up a stewing bird in the usual manner. Rub the pieces with salt and water. Dip them in a mixture of beaten egg and milk and then in fine corn meal. Now in the bottom of a Dutch oven or heavy baking pot place a large, thick piece of sweet, fat ham. Fry until brown and nearly tender. Remove the ham and add about three tablespoons of pork drippings or three fat slices of bacon, cut fine. When the fat is hot, put in your chicken pieces and brown carefully on all sides. Turn the fire low, cover, and steam without added liquid until nearly tender. At this point, return the ham, cut for serving, and pour over this a cup of black molasses. Add a blade of mace and four whole cloves. Cover again and cook till tender. Fit for a king!

Chicken Fricassee à la Provençale.

Don't go planning anything but a light salad and a cold dessert with cups of your best coffee for accompaniments to this dish—for it's a prince of a dinner all by itself.

Cut up a stewing fowl and boil in a kettle of water until the meat is tender and can be removed from the bones. Remove the bones, being sure to run down every single bone. Also take off the skin. Now place the meat on a generous sized platter and place in the warming oven. Skim off the excess fat from the broth, season, and thicken with flour paste, stirring vigorously. Let the gravy cook ten minutes, then pour it over the chicken. Now place on the plate about this pile of lusciousness your choice of vegetables. There certainly will be parsleyed potato balls scooped out with a vegetable cutter. And carrots, diced or cut in fingers. And if you have small white onions, boiled, of course, use these also in the vegetable border. And last—fat little baking powder biscuits. These, unless you just can't get away from the dumpling habit.

Chicken in Spaghetti Nests.

1 chicken [2-3 cups chopped cooked chicken meat].
1 pound spaghetti, full length.
2 tablespoons butter.
2 tablespoons flour.
¾ cup rich milk.
Seasoning of salt and pepper.
1 egg, well beaten.
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.
½ teaspoon curry powder.

Cook the spaghetti in boiling salted water about ten minutes or until tender. Do not break the pieces. Drain and while hot use it to line a large greased mold, twisting the strands about as evenly as possible. Prepare a sauce of the milk, fat, flour, and seasonings. Cook till thick, then remove from the fire and stir in the egg. Add the chicken, parsley, and curry powder and pour into the center of the mold. Place the mold in a pan of warm water and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] about forty-five minutes.

SARDINE LENDS ITSELF TO MANY PLEASING DISHES

Creamed Small Fish Is Savory Fare.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

"In truth, the warm days have come and the signorina is feeling adventuresome!"

Lorenzo of the expansive smile and the eloquent hands beamed from behind his counter in the food shop which is flanked by the neighborhood drug store and a photographer's studio, half a block from the "L" station on the way home from the office.

"But how did you guess, Lorenzo? Yes, the gossipy old box elder that hangs over the back gate had its myriad ears cocked this morning and was whispering most tantalizingly with gypsy winds back from the south."

"And if one cannot follow the little winds, yet always there are Lorenzo's shelves stocked with the small bottles and tins and jars, each holding a flavor and odor from some far place, is it not true?"

"Bless you, Lorenzo, did any one ever tell you that you have what the novelists call the understanding heart? What tasty adventure are you going to launch us on for tonight's supper?"

Just Placed on Shelves.

"But sardines, of a certainty! Only this morning did I place these upon the shelves." And, with a grand opera gesture after the best manner of a namesake who was called the Magnificent, "Behold! Sardines from Norway, sardines from Lisbon, from Britany, from the Bay of Monterey. You shall choose."

From Norway. Neat little fishing village; whitewashed cottages, prim hedges, beds of yellow tulips and pink hollyhocks. Brittany. Serene blue sea and golden sunlight; a tinkle of church bells and the clatter of wooden shoes on the cobblestones.

Lisbon, and sunset. The friendly bay, a forest of masts; like Joseph's coat of many colors, the sails of the fishing smacks and clippers; ancient chanteys, lusty young voices; tiled roofs of the city on seven hills, azure and orange, emerald and rose; Portuguese fish girls, with the grace of Rebecca, with the soft eyes of Moslem women.

Tries Them All.

And Monterey. The fleet, released from its moorings at dusk, drawing in teeming nets from a starlit Pacific.

Not for the first time did we hesitate in making a selection from among the salable articles at Lorenzo's. As the genial proprietor pointed out, there was but one logical course to pursue. So the fishing industries of Norway, Brittany, Lisbon, and Monterey, each was represented in the packet which we carried home.

For an evening our small kitchen became an international sardine laboratory. At the end of an absorbing hour of experimentation we had discovered that the small fish of our purchase is not wanting in versatility, that in fact it lends itself most pleasingly to a number of appetizing dishes.

Canapes were our first creation—triangles of toast spread with a paste of sardines which were creamed with a little butter, seasoned with lemon juice and paprika, sprinkled with finely chopped parsley, and crowned with half a stuffed olive.

Creamed sardines would be savory fare for either breakfast or supper. The fish from a small can, after they had been drained of oil and the backbones removed, were mashed with a hard boiled egg, four tablespoons of cracker crumbs, and a dash of paprika. The mixture, combined with a cup of cream in which three tablespoons of butter had been melted, was thoroughly heated and served on toast.

Most delectable morsels of all were the sardines that emerged in golden brown coats from a kettle of deep fat. They had been dipped in a simple pancake batter. We served them with a hot sauce Tartare.

Egg, Sardine Salad.

Small sardines on slices of hard boiled egg arranged on crisp lettuce leaves, covered with mayonnaise dressing and garnished with slices of lemon constituted our salad.

GINGERBREAD SIMPLE TO BAKE, INEXPENSIVE, AND IS IT TASTY

Just a whiff as one opens the door, and gingerbread speaks for itself and whets the appetite. A recipe recommended by the home demonstration staff of the University of Minnesota is as follows:

Ingredients: Two eggs, one cup sugar, one cup molasses, half cup of shortening, one cup boiling water, one teaspoonful each of soda and salt, and two and one-half cups of flour.

Cream sugar and shortening, add the beaten eggs, molasses and boiling water. Sift dry ingredients and add to the liquid. Bake in a moderate oven.

REDUCE CALORIES, TAKE OFF WEIGHT AND KEEP CURVES

Starvation Not Needed for Slenderness.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 9.—[Special.]—Fashion authorities have told women that curves again are in style, but many women, and rightly so, continue to want to be slender because they realize that there is a great difference between excess weight and a figure which is slender yet not thin.

This is the report of Olga Brucher, assistant professor of foods and nutrition at Cornell college of home economics of New York state, who says the process of staying healthy and slender is simple.

Fewer Calories Less Weight.

"The formula to become slender is to subtract calories," says Miss Brucher. "Taking calories or heat units from the diet means neither a starvation diet nor unwise reducing which endangers health, but it does mean the selection of proper foods.

"Until the age of 35 it is advisable to be a little over rather than a little under normal weight, since robbing the body of its fat reduces energy and lowers resistance. From 35 on, every woman should beware of gaining. Reducing the calories, however, does not mean reducing amounts of foods because this would involve reducing the necessary elements of minerals, vitamins and proteins."

Health Demands Certain Foods.

Certain foods should be retained in a reducing diet, for health's sake, according to her study. These are milk, at least a pint a day; one egg daily; two or three servings of fruits, fresh or cooked but without sugar or with very little; one small serving of potato and at least two servings of other vegetables, preferably leafy ones; and a small serving of meat.

Six glasses of water comprise an important part of the reducing diet. Eating between meals is barred. Plenty of outdoor exercise and plenty of sleep are two other requirements for health.

STRAWBERRIES! MANY WAYS TO SERVE THEM, TOO

Here Are Three Recipes for Shortcakes.

BY FRANK NORRIS.

Speaking of desserts and pastry, timely topics as summer approaches, the luscious strawberry appears well up in front. Grown extensively in Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Illinois and Michigan, the strawberry enjoys a long and popular run, appearing in shortcakes, tarts, pies, fresh with sugar and cream, and in preserves, jams and jellies.

Strawberry shortcake is the favorite with most of us. Three varieties of cakes are used, sponge cake, the plain cake, or the good old fashioned biscuit dough, sweetened a trifle.

This being June, young housewives will be interested in learning the fundamentals of shortcake—the ingredients and methods of preparing this delectable dainty. Here are three thoroughly tested recipes that will be found helpful:

Sponge Cake Foundation.

1 whole egg.
1 1-3 cups sugar.
2-3 cup hot water.
1½ cups flour.
2-3 tablespoon orange juice.
1-2 teaspoon salt.
1 1-3 teaspoons baking soda.
2-3 tablespoon orange rind.

Beat egg yolks with whole egg together until light and fluffy. Add sugar gradually, beating with rotary egg beater about 10 minutes. When mixture becomes too stiff for egg beater add a little hot water. Sift flour once before measuring. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together and beat in alternately with remaining hot water. Add orange rind and juice and pour into ungreased angel food pan. Time—Bake 50 to 60 minutes.

The Plain Cake.

1 cup of sugar
1 large tablespoon of butter. Cream the two together.
2 eggs.
1 cup milk.
1 1-3 cups flour.
2 tablespoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

After creaming butter and sugar, add milk and eggs. Then sift flour and add baking powder. Stir thoroughly and add vanilla.

1 pint flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
2 teaspoons sugar.
3 teaspoons baking soda.
¼ cup butter, rubbed in.
1 egg well beaten and mixed with 1 cup [illegible] over biscuit pan, bake in quick oven.

To make individual cakes, roll out dough to a thickness of ½ inch. Then cut with biscuit cutter. Place a biscuit in pan and put a tab of butter on top, then put another biscuit on top of the first. Do so with remaining dough and enough cakes can be made for 10 servings.

The strawberries should be crushed, sweetened and allowed to stand one hour, while the cake is being made. Then open the biscuits and spread the crushed berries on top and serve.

Household Hints

Fragments of broken glass are always dangerous. One way to pick them up safely is to spread a wet piece of flannel over the particles and pat lightly. Then burn the cloth.

When crumbing dry bread in the meat grinder, a paper bag on the end of the grinder catches the crumbs and prevents them from being scattered.

Excellent towels for wiping dishes are the small cheap Turkish towels. They absorb moisture and leave no lint.

Dip glass curtains in a little starch and hang them while they are still wet, to save ironing.

Pork, Beef Cheap Meat Buys for Coming Week-end

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago states:

"Smoked pork products and pot roast of beef represent unusually attractive meat buys over the coming week-end. Smoked picnics, smoked hams, and bacon are being offered at the present time at low price levels."

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Dear Mr. Donahue:

As we look back over the 57 years since the inception of this store, we realize that our consistent use of the advertising columns of the Tribune has been well rewarded.

*Our sales records disclose very convincing proof of the effectiveness of the Tribune and we feel fortunate that a paper of such tremendous advertising force is ever alert and ready to serve us.

*"Our sales records disclose very convincing proof of the effectiveness of the Tribune"

WHEN A NEWSPAPER provides everything you need to get maximum sales—isn't it the best "buy" you can make?

The Tribune is THE paper in Chicago.. and make no mistake about it!

THE FAIR, a leading State St. store, made no mistake! When they decided to make a special drive for business in 1932 they determined to use full page advertisements and . . .

They chose the Daily Tribune!

For example . . . the Daily Tribune goes into 61% of all the homes in Chicago, but in the above average and average buying districts, in which is 62% of the city's population, it provides sixty-eight percent coverage!

That THE FAIR is sure Tribune advertising space is a wise investment is demonstrated by their having used the Tribune consistently for 57 years.

Consider what all this means to you! THE FAIR is right on the ground . . . they know from long practical experience just how to reach the homes of Chicago and sell goods!

And selling goods is your objective!

Let us give you the whole Tribune story . . . including many other "success stories" that further prove the Tribune's dominance!

Although the exercises were held last Saturday, Wednesday was the last day of the school year at Miss Porter's.

Around the first of next month Mrs. John Jay Abbott will go east for a lengthy visit with her sister and brother-in-law, Judge and Mrs. Edward A. Washburne, who have a beautiful estate near Batavia, N. Y.

When she departs the Abbott residence on South Michigan avenue will be closed and Mr. Abbott will go out to the Chicago Golf club. He hopes to get away later in the season for a few weeks at Batavia. Mrs. Abbott has not decided whether she will go to Europe in the late summer, but if she does go she says it will be just for a brief visit in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Murry Nelson of 44 East Elm street will go east in July to visit their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Wheelwright, and the little Wheelwrights at Cohasset, Mass., and their son and his family at Wellesley Hills, Mass.

The time of their return is indefinite but it is quite likely they will be tempted to stay the whole summer, for they will be loath to leave their young grandchildren. Miss Phoebe Nelson, who has been teaching school near Boston, will spend the early part of the summer at a camp in northern Maine before joining her family in Massachusetts.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Connors left yesterday for New York after a visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Connors of Lake Forest. The elder couple, who spent the winter in Pasadena, are going to visit another son, Philip J. Connors, at Essex house in New York before going to Lake Placid for the summer.

Betsy Needham Graduates Today.

Miss Betsy Needham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice H. Needham of East Division street, is the only Chicagoan being graduated from the Madeira school in Washington today. Mrs. Needham is in Washington for the occasion, and from there she and her daughter will go to Greenwich, Conn., for a visit before going to the Hotchkiss school in Salisbury, Conn., to pick up John Needham, who is finishing his second year there. Mr. Needham will meet his family in Salisbury and they will motor to Quebec before returning to their summer place at Castle Park, Mich.

Mrs. Marcus D. Richards and her three little daughters will depart a week from Saturday to spend the summer at Biddeford Pool, Me. Mr. Richards will go east a little later in the season.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Bartholomay Jelke have returned to their apartment at the Delmonico in New York after a stay of several weeks in Chicago.

Mrs. Carey Orr, Mrs. Ross J. Beatty, Mrs. Daniel Peterkin, Mrs. George Woodruff, Mrs. Charles A. Tilt, Mrs. John F. Farrar, Miss Nellie V. Walker, and Mrs. John Irving Shaw will be hostesses this afternoon at the opening of the spring exhibition of the Chicago School of Sculpture from 4 to 6 o'clock at Tobey's gallery.

The Country Club of Evanston invites its members to a party tonight in the following manner:

"No big words, just pulenty of action and a great party at the merree countree clubbers eighth frolic, probressive contract bridge, 8:30, dancing, 9.30, forget the stock market, aunt lizzie's fallen arches, that unbalanced budget [personal and national], college board exams, junior's well gnawed finger nailes, and strengthen that revamped taffeta and those shrunken flannels for a real tear, friday, june tenth's the date."

Sails Tomorrow

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey is sailing tomorrow with her daughter, Miss Louise Dewey, for England where Miss Dewey is to be presented at court on June 24. Nothing less than a presentation at court would have persuaded Mrs. Dewey to leave Chicago before the Republican convention, but she expects to be back by the time the Republican forces are ready to start campaigning, about the middle of August. This picture of Mrs. Dewey was taken recently at the races. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Tells Nurses Character Is Greatest Goal

Minister Addresses Class of St. Luke's.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Nearly 100 young women who last night received diplomas from St. Luke's Hospital Training school were told that they need not be ashamed if their ultimate hope was to abandon their profession for marriage and the rearing of children.

The Rev. Alfred Newbery, rector of the Church of the Atonement, addressing the graduates in commencement exercises in St. James' church, Wabash avenue and Huron streets, said that their profession was one with a glorious tradition of heroism.

"Do not be ashamed to confess that your dominant idea in having entered the profession of nursing was and is to earn a living," he said. "Neither be ashamed if it is an abiding hope that you will some time abandon this profession to make a home. These are legitimate aims, necessary and praiseworthy.

"Your important accomplishment, however, is the making of some kind of personality. The one task which cannot be evaded is the creation of a character with which you can face life unafraid. The practice and routine of nursing embody a principle fundamental to character achievement—the technique which swallows drudgery."

Charles H. Schweppe, president, board of trustees, St. Luke's hospital, conferred the diplomas. The class was presented by Mrs. Ada Reitz Crocker, director of nursing.

The annual commencement concert of the De Paul university school of music will be given tonight in the De Paul auditorium, Webster and Sheffield avenues.

The 22d annual interfraternity sing, in which 26 fraternities and their alumni will march in turn about the court fountain, will be held tomorrow night at the University of Chicago. Commencement exercises will be held Tuesday in the university chapel, with 896 students being awarded certificates and degrees. Today's events for alumni begin with a breakfast in Judson court and close with an evening program in Mandel hall at which the University Symphony orchestra will play.

One hundred and fifty-four members of the class of 1932 yesterday received the bachelor of science degree in the engineering and architectural departments of the Armour Institute of Technology. Commencement exercises were held in the Armour assembly hall, 3300 Federal street.

In the engineering departments Max James Schinke, 9632 Parnell avenue, was honor man of all sections, taking highest honors in electrical engineering. Architectural honors went to Raymond A. Peterson, 2441 Berteau avenue, who received the American Institute of Architecture medal for the highest four year record.

Class day exercises were held in the Northwestern university school of law in the afternoon, when Guy Thompson, St. Louis, president of the American Bar association, delivered the annual Coif address. New members into the Order of the Coif, national honorary legal fraternity, were installed. He later addressed an annual alumni meeting and dinner at the Chicago Bar association.

The annual illumination night program will be held on the Evanston campus of Northwestern tonight, to be followed tomorrow by a parade and class reunions. A special program is scheduled for the class of 1882 for its golden anniversary.

The most "prosperous appearing" alumnus as well as the oldest alumnus, the one who made the longest journey to attend the reunion, the youngest son or daughter of an alumnus entered for advance registration in the university and the alumnus with the largest family will receive prizes at the annual luncheon to follow the parade tomorrow.

De Paul university will award the honorary degree of doctor of laws at the convocation Monday afternoon to the Rev. Daniel F. Cunningham, superintendent of Catholic schools in the Chicago diocese.

Undergraduates of the kindergarten department of the Chicago Normal college gave a tea for the graduates of the college at the Brookwood lodge in Palos Park in the afternoon. One hundred attended.

Dr. Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art institute, will deliver the commencement address, speaking on "Art as a Career," at the annual graduation exercises of the School of the Art Institute at 11 o'clock this morning in the Goodman theater. One hundred and seven students will be graduated. The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, will give the invocation.

A supper dance will be given tomorrow night by members of the senior class of Lewis Institute in the Flamingo room of the New Bismarck hotel.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

ARMAGH, Ireland, June 9.—Protestants today commemorated the 1,500th anniversary of the coming of St. Patrick, which the Catholics celebrated a few weeks ago.

Probably never in all the centuries of its existence has there been so notable a gathering of the church in Ireland. The occasion was marked by an impressive service at the cathedral founded by St. Patrick.

The governor of Northern Ireland was present and no fewer than five primates.

MISS LOUISE MARJORIE KNOWLES.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Knowles of 1517 Fargo avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Louise, to Neil Edward Simpson of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Simpson of Madison, Wis. Miss Knowles attended Northwestern university and Mr. Simpson the University of Wisconsin. The wedding will take place in July.

Doris Advises Wife to Win Mother-in-Law

It's Best Way to Overcome Mate's Complex.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"How would you treat a case like this: My husband has a mother complex. Nothing is too good for his mother. The budget is not taxed, but savings are little and we need so many things. His wife's wishes and suggestions are politely ignored. I am subjected to cutting remarks uncalled for and am merely tolerated by his parent.

"I am the wife. I have been married four years. Once or twice I felt the spirit of jealousy but overcame that silliness. I don't suffer terribly with this problem, but the unfairness of it is hard to take. Once I indulged in an outburst of temper but was promptly called to task. If I am indifferent to the parent's lack of culture, he sulks. Is there any campaign I can plan to straighten this out?

"Mrs. X."

You have the campaign started in the decent way you present your problem. You frankly recognize the mother-son bonds. You are fair about the financial presentation.

And you want to cooperate on a campaign to make things more agreeable all round. In other words, you have the character to face an issue and ask what can be done about it.

In life most of us find ourselves up against some barrier to the ideally perfect state of affairs. If we can't attack the barrier directly, then we simply have to get around it some other way. You feel you need things. You're young. Why not work for these extras as so many other women are doing? Or are they really so important? Isn't their importance magnified through your version of injustice being done you?

Possessions so often are like that. They are wanted fiercely because of the barrier to their access. The most successful campaign against unseemly mother-in-law influence is to win the older woman over by making a friend of her. You may have to do a lot of self-forgetting to accomplish it. But if you love the man she loves, too, it's the only way.

Events on the Stage

SHAKESPEARE'S "Troilus and Cressida," handsomely staged and brilliantly cast, is being acted in New York this week for the first time, so far as records show, in the history of the American theater. The Players' club, which presents a classic of English drama once a year for a week's performance, is sponsoring this interesting contribution to Shakespearean tradition.

Henry Herbert, director of the production, condensed Shakespeare's five acts into three and cut out most of the long speeches of the text. Otis Skinner has the rich rôle of Thersites; Edith Barrett is the Cressida; Jerome Lawler the Troilus, and Eugene Powers the Pandarus.

The New York critics have discovered in the play all the structural faults that Shakespearean commentators have been pointing out for several centuries. However, according to J. Brooks Atkinson of the Times, it is "visually one of the Players' finest productions."

This is the play in which Shakespeare made the immortal utterance: "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin." It is also the play with the famous speech that begins: Time hath, my lord, a wallet at his back Wherein he puts alms for oblivion.

"Troilus and Cressida" deserves kindly attention from the modernists because it was apparently written by Shakespeare as an "experiment." He treated the Greeks and Trojans of his story as if they were contemporary characters. Certain bright minds of the present, among them George Bernard Shaw and Robert Sherwood, have done exactly the same thing and been much applauded for their cleverness.

"Counsellor-at-Law" will move from the Erlanger to the Selwyn theater next Sunday night to begin its nineteenth week in Chicago.

Thornton Wilder, novelist and member of the University of Chicago faculty, is translating Andre Obey's play, "The Rape of Lucrece," from the French for Katharine Cornell's use next season. He also has a commission to adapt a Hungarian comedy called "Klari," which Gilbert Miller will stage, probably with Helen Hayes as its star. C. C.

Sudden Love

By ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn young life between the office where she is an inefficient typist and a dismal home. The widowed Mrs. Sully loves her children blindly, but doesn't know how to direct their spiritual or physical needs. Lew, a year older than Esmee, is mingling in bad company. Jimmy Consadine, a crook lawyer, forces Lew, whom he has in his power, to introduce his sister. Lew warns her she'll make trouble unless she keeps away from Jimmy. Esmee is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unmanageable lover. But when she meets Michael Marriott, a dissipated young playwright, imbued with the futility of life, it's love at first sight and she feels Michael's need of her is real. Esmee is late keeping a dinner engagement with Michael because of Jimmy, who threatens trouble. When she gets to Michael's apartment she is met by Arthur Twining, Michael's roommate, and Mrs. Cowley, Michael's sister, but no Michael. Returning home she finds him waiting for her. He'd been drinking heavily. Esmee takes him home in a cab, but he has no key and can't get in. In desperation she takes him to a hotel and registers as his wife. When she calls the hotel next morning she learns Michael has checked out. That evening Claire Cowley invites Esmee to dinner and tells her that Michael is engaged. But when Michael calls Esmee goes to see him. He tells her his engagement is broken, that he can't live without her and wants to marry her. Esmee tries unsuccessfully to break with Jimmy. He accuses her of double crossing him and threatens to have Lew sent to jail. Esmee drives out to the country with him on Sunday. He promises freedom for Lew if she will spend the week-end with him and forces her to accompany him to a roadhouse where his word is law. Michael, who has trailed Jimmy's car, breaks in and rescues her.

SOMBRE IMAGES.

"It's my car," Michael said, "but the chauffeur isn't. He's Claire's."

He helped Esmee into the car, spoke quietly to Pyne, and then got in beside her.

"Esmee, darling, I've brought a flask along. Don't you think a spot of whisky——?"

"No!" she said with her old vehemence. "No, thank you, Michael . . . I just feel I couldn't even stand the smell of whisky or anything to drink ever again."

"All right, Es darling."

"But why don't you, Michael?"

"Sworn off," he said.

"But I didn't mean—I didn't think you meant you'd never——"

"You see," he explained, "my motto is everything to excess. No moderation. I've got to be either a teetotaller or a bum. And one's as easy for me as the other."

She was aware of the trees and her dear Michael's arms about her.

"Michael . . ." she began.

"Yes, Esmee? Yes, my little darling girl?"

"N—nothing . . ." she said. "Only—I guess I'm—tired, Michael . . ."

"Put your head down on my shoulder, darling."

"Some one'd see, Michael!"

"Let them see!"

She rested her head on his shoulder, and he put his arm about her and held her close.

"Going to take me home now, Michael, aren't you?"

"Going to take you to Claire's, darling."

"No, Michael! O, no! I can't go there!"

"Darling, I told Pyne to drive around for a while until you felt better . . ."

"I can't go to Claire's! O, please, no, Michael!"

"Darling, you can't go home. There's no one there to look after you if that fellow comes and makes trouble."

"Then please, Michael, somewhere else—a hotel, or something . . ."

Darling," he said sadly, "that other time I was nothing but a drunken beast. But, you see, I'm not drunk now. And I'm afraid——"

She raised her weary head and looked into his face and saw that light in his eyes, that ardor . . . She began to cry.

"Well, then, are all men the same?" she asked herself.

And she so wanted Michael to be different. She wanted him to be a knight or a saint. She wanted from him, in her exhaustion and grief, the tender affection of a brother.

As always he understood her.

"I'm sorry I said that!" he cried. "I'll go anywhere you want, Esmee. I'll be any way you want. I'll leave you at a hotel. I'm only keeping my arm around you to steady you, darling, so that you can rest better. You know, don't you, little darling Esmee . . .' Don't cry! Pyne!"

"Sir?" said Pyne.

"No!" said Esmee. "We'd better go to Claire's, Michael dear."

But she could not stop her tears. She was so afraid that all men were alike. She could foresee nothing but storm, violence, passion in her life—and she wanted days, months, years of tranquility.

"Nothing, Pyne!" said Michael. "Only, can't you find one of those lanes, you know, some place to park—where it is quiet. Miss Sully's tired."

"Want to take a stroll, Esmee?" asked Michael.

She said yes, but it was not true. She was a poor walker at any time, in her flimsy cheap shoes. She tired so easily. They sat down on a fallen log, with their arms about each other, in the sunflecked shade of a grove of delicate white birches. Michael talked about the time when they should be married.

"I'm going to take you to Europe," he said. "Paris in the spring and then a week or two in London . . . Esmee, you have the loveliest mouth. A little shadow in the corners like a Murillo Madonna . . . Put your hand over my eyes. I want to know if I can still see you . . . The line of your cheek that's like a child's—and your dark brows . . ."

"I'm not being nice to my dear Michael!" thought Esmee. "He couldn't—no one could know—how just finished I feel . . ."

She raised her head and kissed him on the cheek. He returned the kiss, on her forehead, with a sort of hasty gentleness and she closed her eyes. She was aware of the budding trees rustling overhead, of her dear Michael's arm about her . . .

She opened her eyes with a violent start.

"What is it, darling?" he asked.

"Just nothing, Michael," she answered, trying to keep from him any sign of the terror that had sprung at her.

"I'll swear to God you'll die for it . . ."

That was what Jimmy had said to Michael. And he had meant it He would send some one to kill Michael . . . and Lew . . . Back came the old picture of Lew in a stone cell with his young head in his hands.

She hated this little glade now. It had grown dark and sombre.

She had done this. She had destroyed her lover and her brother. And if she had had wit, coolness, resource she would have avoided this. She had not managed Jimmy. If Michael had not come . . .

"Now what can I do?" she thought. "Ring up Jimmy? Pretend I'm going back to him, so that he'll let Michael alone . . .?"

She could not pretend to Jimmy because he would not believe her.

Then must Michael die, and Lew go to his ruin? For her?

"No!" she thought in a panic. "I will go back to him, and I will marry him. I'll ring him up and tell him so this evening—before anything can happen . . ."

And what would that do to Michael? She thought of him, deserted, betrayed, without an explanation, for manifestly if she told him her reason for going back to Jimmy he would stop her, he would come and take her away again. Or try to take her away.

"I swear to God you'll die for this . . ."

Michael to die—now? In all his youth, with all his promise? She flung her arm about Michael's neck and kissed him with a desperate passion.

"I love you, my darling Michael . . . I love you so . . . You don't know . . ."

"Flint to tinder her fervor was to his.

"God, Esmee! You've come alive!" he said.

"Michael!" she whispered. "Let's not go to Claire's . . . Michael—let's go somewhere all by ourselves."

"Shut up, darling!" he said. "No! I won't!"

"Just for dinner, Michael . . . Please, Michael! Some darling, cozy place, all by ourselves."

He hesitated. But Michael was no mystery to her as Jimmy was. She could manage Michael, and she had no scruples. She wanted a little time with Michael, one little happy hour. Then she would have to go back to Jimmy, and not see him ever again. Not even explain.

"You see, darling," said Michael. "I think, on your account, it would be better if we went to Claire's before dinner. I mean——"

He looked down into her soft gray eyes. Her lips were parted, there was the loveliest color in her cheeks.

"Esmee!" he said. "It's not legal to look like that . . ."

"Please, Michael!"

She clung to him so. The little glade seemed to her dank and sombre and frightening now.

"I think there are snakes here," she said apprehensively. "Let's go away, Michael. Let's have a darling, quiet little dinner all by ourselves."

"And then you'll go to Claire's, darling. And I'll start making arrangements at once. I don't know what you do, but Claire will. I suppose I see a clergyman, and we get a license. Very likely we can get the thing arranged for Monday or Tuesday."

George Cohan Enjoying Life in Hollywood

Offers an Act with His Japanese Valet.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 9.—While he is marking time in story conferences, front office huddles and other pastimes waiting to start acting in "The Phantom President" for Paramount, George M. Cohan is having a few chuckles on the rank and file of movieland.

Cohan was accompanied here from New York by a Japanese boy, M. Hirano, whom he introduces as "Mike." Besides being Cohan's valet, companion, and house boy, "Mike" had a dead pan and a sense of humor which works well in a routine he and his boss have evolved.

Meeting a new comer around Hollywood, Cohan manages to turn the subject to Mike's dexterity as a juggler. As the story expands, Mike becomes one of the greatest jugglers of history. To add the touch of corroboration Cohan turns from time to time to ask Mike, "Isn't that so, Mike?" Without batting an eye, Mike will grin, incline in a slight bow, as we have come to believe all well conducted Japanese young men always do, and will say something deprecatory.

When the build-up has reached its height some one always veers to somebody's suggestion that Mike do some juggling.

Incidentally, wherever Cohan goes "Mike" goes. Even when the film bosses ask Mr. Cohan to come into their offices for a conference over plans for the picture "Mike" files in a footstep or two behind his boss and stands unobtrusively somewhere along the wall until the conference is over, or his boss asks him a question.

But Cohan does a lot more than clown around the studios.

He has no preconceived ideas about the films. He isn't here expecting to tell men who have spent years of it how to improve their business.

"I made three pictures before. That was in 1916. They were 'Broadway Jones,' 'Hit the Trail Holiday,' and 'Seven Keys to Baldpate' and I made all three of them within seventy days at the old 56th street New York studio, so that you can see I was working so hurriedly I had no chance to get a clear idea of what it was about. They would make the middle scenes first and the first scenes last. And I never knew what I was doing. I would ask, 'What is this bit of action?' And the director would tell me it was a scene from near the end of act 2 and I concluded I was stage minded and not motion picture minded."

Cohan evidently still leans to this impression, but said, "Paramount wants me and got me here and I'm going to try to learn about it and do something good."

He is under contract to act in—not to write in, or help direct—"The Phantom President," in which he makes up for a sort of dual rôle, a character whom politicians decide they will groom for the presidency, "who expresses personality in one characterization and is an ice water kind of a guy in the another." Cohan plays both. In one characterization he must play a spieler in an old time Indian medicine show. He thinks he will like that. The story is sort of fantastic. It pokes fun he said at political manipulation. Norman Taurog will direct it, and Jimmy Durante has been cast in it. So far, no actress has been cast for any feminine rôle.

Mainbocher Designs Stunning Evening Frock That's Both Plain and Printed

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—If you are wavering between the choice of a plain or printed evening frock for this summer, girls, you can have your cake and eat it, too. Mainbocher has designed a frock that combines the virtues of being both plain and printed.

The sketch today shows you this two in one frock that smart Parisiennes are ordering for summer nights. The large sketch pictures the back of this dress, which is in white chiffon. The point of the décolleté reaches to the waistlines. There are two scarfs, starting from the shoulders, which gradually widen and descend to the floor. These scarfs are held in at the waistline by a narrow chiffon belt. They are in printed chiffon of multicolored stripes—in orange, dark blue, and white.

The small sketch shows the front of the frock, with its modest décolleté. This dress molds the body through the waist and hips and falls into gentle fullness near the knees.

You might remove these full length printed panels when fall comes along and still have a charming frock.

Sculptor Finishes Model for Ericson Association

Oskar J. W. Hansen, Norwegian sculptor, has just completed a plaster model of the medal which is to be emblematic of membership in the Leif Ericson Memorial association. Hansen, working in conjunction with the Norwegian National league, will erect a Leif Ericson memorial in Grant park on a site to be donated by the south park commissioners.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Castleross, and Sir Ion Hamilton Benn, who were at the Ritz-Carlton, sailed on the Aquitania.

Mrs. Kenneth M. Spence and children will join Mrs. Spence's father, John R. Dunlap, at Saranack inn, Saranac, N. Y.

Mrs. J. Griswold Webb and Miss Leila Webb arrived from Hyde Park, N. Y., and are at the Hotel Pierre.

Miss Polly Ingalls has joined her grandmother, Mrs. Daniel H. Holmek, at the St. Regis.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Ballard have taken the George Murnene home at Brookville, L. I., for the summer.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Thad H. Brown, wife of the federal radio commissioner, left today for Cleveland, where she will be the guest over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Hanna, with whom she will motor to Chicago the first of the week.

Miss Caroline Hyde, daughter of the secretary of agriculture and Mrs. Hyde, went to New York today to visit Miss Gene Kincheloe, daughter of Judge and Mrs. David H. Kincheloe, formerly of Kentucky. Miss Hyde will join her parents in Washington the end of the week and accompany them to Chicago Monday to attend the convention next week.

ALBERT BOUCHE
INVITES YOU TO THE VILLA VENICE
● America's Smartest Theater Restaurant, where you mingle with Chicago's smart set.
● You may walk among the 50,000 fresh blooming plants in the eight acres of beautiful formal Venetian gardens, where the latest European illumination art transforms it nightly to romantic Venice.
● You may listen to the delightful chanting of the gondoliers as you drift lazily in one of the many imported Venetian gondolas on the iridescent Des Plaines.
● Mr. Bouche presents his own creation — "Trip from Paris to Riviera" and "Carnaval Espanol" with a company of 35 personally selected by him from the far parts of the Old World—three times nightly!
9—MIDNIGHT—AND 2:30
when Bouche's Villa Venice becomes the theater, and, as Charles Collins said last year, "Bouche's revue belongs to the theater arts." No legitimate stage production was ever put on that is as marvelous, and Mr. Bouche asks your opinion.
● Don't fail to see the world's finest show place and the beautiful production "Carnaval Espanol," Bouche's opening creation; a Garden of Roses with twelve beautiful jardinieres and four dancers costumed in cellophane and garlanded with roses.
● The fantasy of music for this production also created by Mr. Bouche.
NO COVER CHARGE
to dinner guests arriving before 10 p. m. any day. For guests arriving after 10 p. m., cover charge of $2 per person.
● Please make your reservations, phone Wheeling 6.
● The Villa Venice is available for luncheon and bridge every afternoon to the discriminating at moderate prices. The Villa Venice, Miami Beach, also under the personal direction of Mr. Albert Bouche.

Faces Can Do Quick Change Act, Each Day

Skin Loveliness Depends on Internal Order.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

On day you view your handsome face in the mirror and you're willing to agree with yourself that it's a pretty good face—bearing up remarkably well considering all it has been through. The skin looks clear, the eyes bright, and lines not noticeable, if present at all.

Then, of a blue Monday you take another look. Same face, same eyes, same mouth, same past written into them all. With a difference! The mirror isn't clouded—but the face looks that way. So do the eyes. The mouth looks anything but sweet and happy. The face looks every day its years, or so it seems to you, which is just as bad as having it look so.

Faces are like that after they reach a certain age. Every day does not register a hit with the owner. Unless you are a person of most complacent temperament and self-interested you consider devotion to your face and self the one and only duty of your life, it is normally bound to have its cloudy days and its bright.

However, there are few women, if any, afforded the luxury of continual self-devotion. And even this system of beauty care is not recommended, since the self-centeredness behind such actions would wipe the soul out of a face completely. And in spite of our righteous faith in cream and lotion, there is more to beauty than that. However, it was not of soul beauty we wanted to speak today. Rather of the physical state behind the window dressing, as we shall call the local care.

Why is a complexion clear, eyes sparkling, mouth happy looking one day and a day later these charms are replaced with a dark and cloudy skin and expression? Ten to one the digestion is off, the tongue is coated, the body feels heavy, logey. A good cleansing treatment is needed on the inside. Clarity of skin and brilliancy of eye color depend primarily on internal cleanliness and no amount of outside scrubbing will work the beauty magic that internal orderliness does.

In this capacity women are notoriously remiss. Anyway, now you know why your favorite brand of cream isn't working its old magic. You've expecting too much of it. Give it a hand with a general internal cleansing.

Hospital Benefit.

A luncheon to benefit the Dorothy Kahn solarium on the roof of Sarah Morris hospital will be held tomorrow at the Copeland hotel. Miss Etta Schreiber is in charge.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Offers White Dresses.

"I read your appeal for clothes for graduation and would like to help a little. I have two very pretty white crêpe dresses, one would fit a girl of about 14 and the other a girl graduating from high school. I think it is size 16. I shall be glad to give them.

"L. W."

So generous was the response to that appeal for suits and dresses for commencement we were able to fill all the requests we had on hand.

Popular Blue and White Printed Silk Suggested for Warm Weather Model

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

A small patterned silk crêpe in the popular blue and white coloring made the original of this model. The one-sided rever, ending in a bow, and the bias cut of the bodice, accented by button trim, with a similar idea at the front of the skirt, give a lovely, slender appearance. Printed and plain silk crêpes will be suitable.

The pattern, 2749, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Honor U. of I. Bandsmen.

Urbana, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—Members of the University of Illinois concert band were honored at a dinner tonight, and during the event 19 seniors were awarded medals and 33 others who have served a year with the organization were awarded pennant keys. Prof. A. A. Harding, director, presented the awards.

Child Ruled by Mother Lacks Self Assurance

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Here is a letter of special interest:

"My daughter, who is 8 years old and in the third grade of school, gets good grades in everything but reading. She does her silent reading well [that is, reading silently and telling the story]. She answers her questions about the story all right, but when she gets up to do her oral reading she has trouble.

"The teacher tells me she lacks confidence in herself. Now, she didn't say whether it was a lack of confidence because she thought she couldn't read, or whether she possesses that lack of confidence in her ability to do all things.

"I think perhaps I dominate her life too much, trying to mold her into my conception of a perfect child."

This mother has, herself, put her finger exactly on the cause of the trouble. In the intense desire to have our children grow up to be fine men and women, too many of us try to make them perfect all along the way.

A child must lack self-confidence when she is controlled too much. In desiring to have a model child you have probably made her think too much about herself, her manners, her habits, and whether what she is doing is right or wrong. And so when she does do something it seems mostly wrong! The reading is only one symptom of her lack of confidence, I should say.

What she needs is a general letting go, a chance for spontaneous, easy behavior without thought of possible criticism or advice. Be interested in her interests, but try to ignore what she does and how she acts. Let her have lots of very free outdoor play, and don't watch her every move.

We have booklets on brief but excellent reading for mothers.

Chicagoans Sail Today on Little Flower Journey

A group of Chicagoans will sail tomorrow from New York for the annual Little Flower Pilgrimage, sponsored by the Carmelite Fathers at 5413 Dante avenue. After attending the Eucharistic congress in Dublin the party will go to Lisieux, France, to visit the home of the Little Flower. The Rev. Fideles Paulding of Niagara Falls, Ont., is chaplain of the group.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bowers of Oak Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Claire, to William C. Block Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Block of Oak Park. Miss Bowers was graduated from the University of Wisconsin and is a member of Kappa Delta sorority. Mr. Block attended the University of Illinois and is a member of Tau Delta Tau fraternity.

SAVE 375 miles to Europe

Chicago to Europe is 375 miles less...via the St. Lawrence Seaway. No wonder it's economical. You spend 2 days between French-Canadian coastlines...only 5 to 4 days open sea according towessel. No wonder it's interesting, and smooth going. You have your choice of distinguished liners...the "Empresses," the four "Duchesses," Cabin liners. Compare the rates, from home back home.

372 COLLEGE ATHLETES BEGIN OLYMPIC TESTS TODAY

OHIO STATE, 67 OTHER SCHOOLS EYE TEAM TITLE

Stagg Field Scene of Two Day Meet.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Three hundred and seventy-two athletes from 68 colleges and universities will compete this afternoon at Stagg field in the preliminaries of the 11th annual National Collegiate track and field meet. The first three to place in each of the events will enter the American Olympic finals at Stanford university July 15 and 16. Today's preliminaries will start at 3 o'clock. Admission today is 50 cents.

DON BENNETT.

Southern California will not defend its team title. The Trojans are pointing for the intercollegiate track meet which has been shifted to Berkeley, Cal., July 1 and 2. Southern California nosed out Stanford for the eastern title last year and then competed at Stagg field, scoring 77 1-7 points. Ohio State was second with 31 1-7 points, the Stanford squad returning to California immediately after the eastern meet.

Other Preliminaries Tomorrow.

Preliminaries are scheduled this afternoon in all track events except the one and two mile runs. They include the 400 meter hurdles, an Olympic event not included customarily on the N. C. A. A. schedule. Trials will be held in five field events, the pole vault and high jump being reserved for tomorrow. In the field trials is the hop, step, and jump, another Olympic event.

There are no reserved seats today. Reserved seats tomorrow for the finals are $1.50, while general admission will be $1. All proceeds will be donated to the American Olympic fund.

The time schedule for today's preliminaries follows:

TRACK EVENTS.

3 p. m.—120 yard high hurdles.
3:20—100 yard dash.
3:40—440 yard run.
3:55—220 yard dash.
4:15—220 yard low hurdles.
4:30—Half mile run.
5—400 meter hurdles.

FIELD EVENTS.

3 p. m.—Shot put.
3:30—Discus throw.
4—Broad jump and hammer throw.
4:30—Javelin throw.
5—Hop, step and jump.

Fifteen Olympic Events Here.

There are 24 Olympic track and field events. The N. C. A. A. meet will qualify for the American Olympic finals in 15 events. Since the metric system is used there is not an exact comparison in distances. The Olympic track events which can be compared are 100 meter, 200 meter, and 400 meter dashes; 800 meter run, which corresponds closely to the half mile or 880 yards; the 110 meter high hurdles and the 400 meter hurdles. The longer runs, 5,000, 10,000, and 15,000 meters, have no counterpart in today's meet. Neither do the 56 pound weight and the three Olympic relays, 400 meters, 1,600 meters, and 3,000 meters.

The 100 yard dash brings together a field which includes stars from all sections of the country except the east and west coasts. Three men stand out. They are Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette university, who has a mark of 9 5-10 seconds; George Smutney of Nebraska, winner of the Big Six title at 9 7-10 seconds, and Don Bennett of Ohio State, who won the Big Ten dash in 9 5-10 seconds.

Many Better 10 Seconds.

Others who have bettered 10 seconds are Peyton Glass, Oklahoma Aggies, 1931 winner at the Drake relays, when he defeated Eddie Tolan

Lewis Foils Mat Villain in First Act

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Long Island, N. Y., June 9.—The Madison Square Garden firm's big depression was formally consecrated to the ideals of clean sport, chivalry, and innocent amusement this evening with a wrestling match between Ed [Strangler] Lewis and Richard Shikat, the German, both of whom have held the heavyweight championship of the world one or more times. Lewis threw Shikat after an hour and six minutes of enthusiastic yowling, growling, and face slapping, to the intense satisfaction of a true, believing attendance of 20,000.

Lewis thus acquired the official, recognized logical contendership or runner up position in the state of New York and efforts will be made to match him for a bout with Jim Londos, also to be held in the Garden's depression before the summer is over. Londos is supposed to be the present champion.

Shikat, who had handled Lewis in an uncouth and inconsiderate manner for a long time, suddenly succumbed to a violent series of affronts. Lewis seized him by the neck, whirled him about, and let him fly. He seemed ill when he landed. Lewis seized him by the neck several times more and, with the whirling windup of an Olympic hammer thrower, threw him away until presently Shikat lay quiet. Lewis then turned him over.

The entertainment was the first produced in the Garden's new dish or hollow in Long Island City, a plant built primarily to house the Schmeling-Sharkey prize fight of June 21, and Jack Curley, who promoted the savage contests on behalf of himself and the milk fund, estimated the receipts at about $45,000.

It had been predicted that this bout would be strictly sincere, but it developed very much the same as most of the dramatic productions which have been presented in the last couple of years, and the patrons therefore enjoyed excellent entertainment. Lewis suffered horribly for an hour, then rose in a surge of righteousness and slammed the sinister party down to a defeat which appeased the anger of all present. This is the old formula and it seems best not to tamper with proven methods.

The customers discovered themselves encamped in a vast dimple gouged out of the Long Island clay, not very deep and with the tailings or scrapings or whatever it is that the miners call their divots, banked in a circle forming the rim of the dish. The ramps and the floor were lightly buttered with a smear of some black, gummy material which had set like the plaster on a wedding cake. The benches, salvaged from the Schmeling-Stribling bout at Cleveland last summer, were placed in gently rising tiers.

Outside the plant the scene was still pretty untidy with the waste and leavings from the construction job, and there were the familiar catch nickel booths and crates for the soft drink and hot dog trade. The road is wide at this point and, although the automobile traffic was heavy in the early evening, there was room enough and the flow went on and on with no long interruptions. Anticipating world wide interest in the prizefight of June 21, the Garden firm had erected the usual tower about twenty yards from the ring for the moving picture machines, and the wrestlers were all instructed to emit their quacks, meows and barks in rather more voice than usual, so as to reach and register on the sound tracks of the films that far away.

The wrestlers obliged with a tremendous volume and Leon Pinetzki, the shower bath nightingale, won the manager's prize, a set of platinum acoustics, with his imitation of fifteen dry congressmen singing "Sweet Adeline" at a national convention.

Lewis entered the pen with the fur shaved from his chest and with much of the down gone from his skull. He is an elderly athlete now, probably much older than the forty years that he has confessed, and his dome has been chafed against many a coarse canvas weave in the hundreds of bouts he has wrestled in his twenty odd years of earnest striving and innocent larking all over the North American

SARAZEN EQUALS COURSE RECORD IN BRITISH OPEN

69 Gives Him 139 and Three Stroke Lead.

Sarazen's Card

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANDWICH, June 9. — Gene Sarazen's record equaling card of 69 for the second round of the British open golf tournament today follows:

Out	443	424	455—35

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SANDWICH, England, June 9.—Gene Sarazen placed himself three strokes ahead the nearest of his competitors in the second round of the British open championship today by a spectacular round of 69, which equaled the record for the Prince's course. His aggregate of 139 is the best score ever recorded for two opening rounds of the British open championship and today was unapproached by any other American.

Percy Alliss, now a resident of England after several years of living in Berlin, is Sarazen's most dangerous opponent. He ran smoothly until the las. four holes, finishing with another 71 and making his total 142. At the 144 mark, close at hand should misfortune overtake Alliss, are Archie Compston with a 74 and 70, Charles A. Whitcombe, 71 and 73, and W. H. Davies, 71 and 73.

Other Americans Far Behind.

The ideal weather gave no inspiration to the others. Tommy Armour, MacDonald Smith and Walter Pursey are far down the list.

Armour was saved by his wonderfully straight iron play to the pin when his putting touch seemed to have forsaken him and by one lone long putt on the last green returned a 70, giving him an aggregate of 145.

MacDonald Smith blew up at the first hole, where he took a 7, driving his ball hard into the face of a sand-trap and taking 3 to get out. His 76 gave him an aggregate of 147.

Robert Sweeney had all the spectators excited when they heard that the young Oxonian had reached the turn in a record 33 on 342, 454, 443. It was a flash in the pan. After reaching the twelfth green in four under 4s, he cracked and averaged 5s for the last six holes. His rounds of 74 today and unlucky 78 yesterday, however, give promise for the future.

Sixty-four leaders will play two more rounds tomorrow with the winner being the best aggregate of the four rounds.

Few among the gallery watching Sarazen's first nine expected him to shoot anything better than a 74. He topped his second drive into a bunker, played a miserable tee shot at the third and was off the fairway with his drive at the fourth, but his remarkable recoveries, which left him one putt on each of the second and third greens, kept him one under 4s. He hit a fine spoon shot within eight feet of the pin on the short fifth and holed out for a 2.

Gene Is Some Chipper.

He half topped an iron and overran the green at the sixth, where he had a scrambled 4, and he overran the green on the seventh, but got a four by chipping dead. He was in the rough with his second at the eighth, where he had a 5, and at the ninth was over the green with his second and was short with his chip.

He found the rough at the twelfth, only to produce a perfect mashie shot from a deep grassy lie to the edge of the green, and at the fourteenth he started a string of 3s.

Gene Sarazen, United States	70	69	139
Percy Alliss, England	71	71	142
Archie Compston, England	74	70	144
C. A. Whitcombe, England	71	73	144
W. H. Davies, England	71	73	144
Tommy Armour, United States	75	70	145
Arthur Havers, England	71	74	145
Fred Robson, England	71	74	145
A. J. Lacey, England	73	73	146
MacDonald Smith, United States	71	76	147
Ernest Kenyon, Ireland	73	74	147
Cedric Sayner, England	74	74	148
Abe Mitchell, England	71	77	148
T. A. Torrence, England	75	73	148
A. H. Padgham, England	72	76	148
A. J. Isherwood, England	75	74	149
Lester Hartley, England	73	76	149
W. B. Smith, England	74	75	149
Herbert Jolley, England	74	75	149
Syd Easterbrook, England	75	74	149

A COOKING, FIGHTING GOB

Don't Fight the Navy—You Might Encounter Dvonch

From Chicago to the Yang-tse Kiang and back, or eight years in the United States navy, might be an excellent title for a story about Duffy Dvonch.

Who is Duffy Dvonch? You may remember him as the 194 pound amateur heavyweight who punched himself out of the semi-finals of the Golden Gloves tournament at the Stadium last March, when he broke his right hand beating Walter Karpinski of Grand Rapids, Mich.

You may have cause to remember him as the heavyweight member of the Chicagoland team which fights the champions of Germany at Soldiers' field July 26. Duffy will have that job, provided he can prove he's better than Adam Smith, the 1932 Golden Gloves champion, and other heavyweights chosen to go in training for the international fights.

Impressive Return to Ring.

No one can deny Duffy's ability with the gloves. The Chicago team lost a valuable fighter when Duffy's injury forced him from competition.

Dvonch returned to boxing Tuesday night at Pep Kerwin's Western avenue stadium. Although he hadn't fought since March, Duffy soon found the range against Walter Alex, and in the third round, after knocking Alex down for a nine count, dropped him for keeps with a smashing left hook to the jaw.

But to return to the story of Dvonch's eight years in the navy. Back in 1919 Duffy signed for the life of a sailor. He had to stretch his age somewhat to do it, but he was bitten by the desire to see the world. So Duffy slipped away from West 24th street, and about the next word Steve and Mary Dvonch, his parents, had from him, Duffy was off the coast of China on the U. S. S. Delaware. That's where Duffy learned about the Yang-tse river.

Duffy Replaces Gabriel.

That first hitch as a gob served Dvonch with an even break in luck. It marked the elimination of his first name, Gabriel, and the substitution of Duffy. In fact, Duffy had to think a minute, the other night, to remember he ever was called Gabriel. And the youngster also went the limit in personal decoration. He wishes he hadn't now, but a couple of tattoo experts needled Duffy's torso until only a few patches of white remain.

Duffy returned to shore after two years, but in 1926 he signed on again, and he's still in Uncle Sam's navy. Smart lad, too, for he advanced his rating from signalman to ship's cook, which now nets him $79.20 a month, not to mention that he's learned to turn out a lot of fine eats, which would land him a chef's job nearly anywhere.

Duffy has been places since 1926. First on the U. S. S. Idaho for four months and then back to China on the Choumont. Then came a year on the submarine S-37 before he was transferred to the Isabel. In 1929 Duffy landed on the U. S. S. West Virginia, where he began his boxing career. By this time Duffy was a husky lad, tough as salt water and work can make a fellow. And it didn't take him long to punch his way to the interdivisional heavyweight title.

Loses Only Two Bouts.

Duffy represented the West Virginia in the battle fleet boxing tournament, and reached the semi-finals before he lost a decision. Incidentally, that licking was his first, and he has been whipped only once since then.

Last June Duffy was sent to the Great Lakes for his first spell of shore duty, and about the first thing he did was look around his home town for a chance to fight. The Opal A. A., in his old neighborhood, took him in charge and Duffy was entered in the Central A. A. U. outdoor championships at the Northwest Stadium. Duffy won the title, and in so doing defeated Adam Smith.

Then came the Golden Gloves bouts last winter, and Duffy seemed headed for a title when he broke his hand. He came through his bout Tuesday night without hurting his hand, and next Wednesday he will be on a card at Great Lakes which has been planned to raise funds for the navy relief. Duffy gets special permission to carry on his boxing from Commissary Officer Humphrey at Great Lakes. Mr. Humphrey will tell you Duffy is a great scrapper, and it may be he believes that he will follow that other ex-gob, Jack Sharkey, when and if he becomes a professional.

SULLIVAN A HERO AND OTHERWISE AS SOX LOSE, 6-5

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox yesterday spotted the Washington Senators to a 6 to 1 lead on a lot of dreamy eyed baseball in the early innings and then sought to overtake the enemy. They almost succeeded, but the sad ending saw the Sox the losers, 6 to 5.

Billy Sullivan, only two days in the starting lineup, due to the requirements of his curriculum at Notre Dame, had a perfect day at bat with two doubles, two singles, and a walk. Bill was so elated at the outset of his series of accomplishments that his happiness gummed up his perception. But his brain cleared after the second inning, and he became the main works in two of the three rallies with which the Sox later frightened the visitors.

Dont' Feel Hurt, Arthur.

The Senators made their six runs in the second, third and fifth innings off Rookie Art Smith, but a homer by West in the third was the only one they would have made had Arthur's associates played anything like heads up baseball. The enemy did not come close to scoring off Gregory, Faber or Daglia, who pieced out the last four innings.

After the Sox had thoroughly thrown down Smith in his first big league start they got very busy against Prof. Monte Weaver and Fred Marberry, the professor's successor, who protected Monte's ninth win of the year.

The Sox might have made a million runs but for some ornery defensive effort by Ossie Bluege, who pulled down the balloon by starting a double play at the peak of things in the sixth and did the same thing over again at a most unfortunate moment in the seventh. The third rally, launched by Sullivan's second double in the ninth and carried on by Blue's single, might have done business but for Reynolds' pert catch of Selph's drive, which had seemed a double designed to tie the score.

Billy Doubles and Dozes.

The Sox in the first inning scored the first run of the game and might have got more had not Sullivan indulged in the first of a pair of campus reveries, both more or less excusable because they were predicated on joy. Funk opened the Sox offensive with a double to right center and scored when Sullivan doubled to left center.

Prof. Weaver then heard Bill booming the Notre Dame Victory March from a spot some place between second and third and decided a throw to second during the height of a crescendo might catch the young man with his mind off his base running. The professor, whose fort is mathe-

TALKING IT OVER

BY ARCH WARD.

WHEN the delegates to the national convention assemble to discuss the nation's ills they ought to give some attention to the goings on in major league baseball.

It may be a sad commentary on public intelligence, but it seems that more people are interested in the deals between the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds than care whether or not it was tomato juice in the bottle that Amelia Putnam flew to Ireland.

Before the political pilgrims adopt their platforms these questions ought to be considered:

1. Why did the Cardinals trade Hafey to Cincinnati without giving the Cubs, who also wanted him, a chance to bid? Maybe Chicago would have paid twice as much as the Reds.

2. Why was it that when the Cardinals needed a third baseman Cincinnati obliged by forwarding Hendrick?

3. Why were Douthit and High, who, it was hoped, would supply the punch the Reds wanted, sent to Cincinnati?

4. Why was Hendrick returned to Cincinnati a few weeks after arriving in St. Louis?

5. Why was Benny Frey, who from time to time has worried the Cubs, sent back to Cincinnati after a short stay in St. Louis, to which club he was traded in the Hafey deal?

6. Is it just an unfortunate coincidence that the Cardinals won 20 of 22 games from the Reds last year and have won eight out of nine this season?

7. Why is it that Cincinnati doesn't fold up like that against other clubs in the league?

As Gaar Williams might say: "Something ought to be done about this."

No team has prepared more thoroughly for a test of strength than the amateur boxing champions of Germany who will invade Soldiers' field July 26 to meet the best fighting men Chicagoland can present.

Hundreds of boys have been battling for a place on the German teams for several months. Sectional meets were conducted in every province of the fatherland. Winners fought it out in Munich for the national titles.

We would be inclined to accept a team of champions as the best that could be obtained. But that didn't satisfy officials of the German Amateur Boxing association. They arranged international contests with European countries to observe how their representatives performed under fire.

Two or three changes were made in the team after the bouts with Italy, England, and Hungary. There may be still more. Two additional matches, one tomorrow night and another June 18, will determine the personnel of the party that will sail for Chicago about July 10.

The resignation of John McGraw as manager of the Giants and the ousting of Wilbert Robinson as leader of the Dodgers leave Connie Mack the lone survivor of the old guard in major league baseball. Baseball wouldn't be baseball without one of the trio carrying on.

Mack, who is approaching his 70th birthday, told us last summer he had no idea of retiring. He is now engaged in striving to reach a goal attained by no other man in baseball—four consecutive American league championships.

SENATORS TAKE COFFMAN, GIVE BROWNS FISCHER

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—Clark Griffith has acquired Dick Coffman, St. Louis Browns right hander, in hopes of strengthening the Washington Senators' pitching staff.

Carl Fischer, southpaw hurler of three seasons' service with the Washington club, plus an unannounced sum of money, was the price announced here tonight that Griffith paid to bring Coffman back to the team with which he started his big league career in 1927.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 9.—Hack Wilson finally had a day for himself, so if he was seen parading around town atop a horse cab this evening he could be excused. All that he did today was to explode homer No. 11 with the bases full and a single to drive in another Brooklyn teammate. The runs that the pudgy ex-Chicago notable propelled homeward were more than sufficient to defeat the first place Cubs, 5 to 2, in the third of the series.

HACK WILSON.

There was just a touch of regret to the whole affair for the one time hero of the National league, but he didn't mind. To wreak his vengeance on the team that turned him out he was forced to make his old nocturnal companion, Pat Malone, the victim. Pat was serving when Wilson let loose with his devastating homer in the first inning, but it might not have happened if the big Cub right hander hadn't become careless while fretting over letting an easy bunt escape him. The bunt is what loaded the bases.

Pat's U. K. After the Storm.

There wasn't a chance to charge Malone with being careless after Wilson had delievered what proved the knockout punch. Pat immediately began cutting loose with all the tricks in his pitching repertoire. Every Dodger appearing at the plate was treated to a bean ball as a matter of warning. Even Wilson himself had to grovel in the dust a few times. The method was effective; that is indicated by the fact that after the first inning and until he was removed for a pinch hitter at the end of the seventh Malone surrendered only two hits. Jakie May succeeded him and yielded Brooklyn its fifth run.

The box score furnishes ample evidence that the Cubs were no howling sensations as hitters against Van Lingle Mungo, who did a good job of celebrating his twenty-first birthday. Only one wearer of Chicago flannels could annoy the young man. That was Gabby Hartnett, who uncorked a homer to score both Cub runs, and a double which resulted in nothing. Hartnett also came close to tearing an arm off Mungo with another drive which was flagged. It was Mungo's turn in the ninth. Hartnett was punctured on the arm by a bean ball after two were out. Mungo, of course, got the idea for this from Malone, so the Cubs were hardly in position to complain.

Dan Taylor Starts Trouble.

LONDOS THROWS GARIBALDI, BUT THAT ISN'T HALF

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The butler, the chauffeur, the village oaf who finds the body at the end of the first act, and players of lesser rôles in the al fresco wrestling drama produced by Dr. John Krone at Wrigley field last night confounded the experts and entertained nigh onto 9,000 victims of the pastime by completely stealing the show from the hero and the villain, as done by James Londos and Gino Garibaldi, respectively.

It should not be charged against the artist that is Londos that his genius is beginning to fade, for the dean of the sounding boards delivered his lines according to the script, but received almost no support from Garibaldi. Gino gave an adequate performance, but it did not touch the efforts of others who have filled the heavy rôle in Dr. Krone's productions. The curtain came at the end of 43 minutes and 5 seconds, when Londos, after having brought his audience to the edges of their seats, came through with one of his usual climaxes, a body slam.

Steinke, Dusek Wow 'Em.

The histrionics displayed by the more unimportant members of the cast during this first Chicago revival of grappling in baseball parks since the Gotch-Hackenschmidt debacle of 1911 kept the crowd in an uproar for the greater portion of the evening, and a couple of them were forced to take several curtain calls. The most notable of these was the stirring scene enacted by Hans Steinke and Rudy Dusek, which was a case of a Great Dane ritzing a terrier until the latter reached over and bit him on the jowls. This portion of the play went the full time limit of 30 minutes, but Referee Thiry awarded the decision to Dusek, the terrier in the act.

Rudy displayed such virtuosity in doing Londos' rowing act that there is some question as to whether or not James will make the crew next season. And Hans laid them in the aisles when, with one of Rudy's feet in his ribs and the other in his ear, he asked Thiry coyly, "Is this allowed?" and was told that it was.

Another pair of sterling performances was contributed by James McMillen, who was trained for the art in the University of Illinois football line, and Milo Steinborn, the old piano juggler from Germany. Milo did very well, but James stole the scene with his old trick, the flying tackle, accompanied by a body slam, in twelve minutes.

O'Shocker Act Great Stuff.

It remained for Pat O'Shocker, who resembles his name, and the petulant juvenile, George Zaharias, to stop the show, however. They did so well in their thirty minute draw that it is being planned to withdraw them from the regular cast and send them out on the two a day in a special skit.

Jim Clinkstock, one of the vanishing Americans, and the handsome Paul Harper from Texas also obliged with a number in which they demonstrated that they will go far if given the proper rôles.

Lewis Foils Mat Villain in First Act

continent. The brisket shave presumably was a measure of precaution, for Lewis with his fur on presents a temptation to a careless rival to grab a handful of rough and yank it out by the roots.

They had been wrestling about twenty minutes, floundering with great abandon, when both went to the floor with a pronounced crash and, after some thrashing and yowling, settled down to see which was who. Shikat discovered Lewis' legs were squeezing his skull with gentle persistency, but a ringside customer caught the attention of Gunboat Smith, the referee, and remarked in a conversational voice, "I think that is phony, Gunner, he put his head in there himself."

"That is all right," the Gunner replied politely, "I don't think it amounts to anything."

This free intimacy between the patrons, the wrestlers, and the referee is one of the charms of the wrestling business. The boys converse informally when they are at grips, and sometimes find time to answer little idle questions of the patrons in a genial, even informative, way. The standard expression of anguish this evening seemed to be something like "Hot-Cha," repeated over and over, but Lewis, when Shikat was taking illegal liberties with his Adam's apple, turned his head a little and said, "No kidding now; cut that out!"

Lewis broke into a gentle ooze after about ten minutes, but he is fat with several chins and a big barrel and this fishy exudation is a protective device which has enabled him to slip many an embryo hold. Shikat, on the other hand, is tall, lean, athletic, and dry, but of a cynical nature, and is always at odds with the customers, the referee, and the rules. Shikat is the villain of the act when he is on the stage and the customers were howling "Foul" and "Throw the Bum out of there" before they had gone twenty minutes. But Shikat showed his lower teeth in a malevolent leer for Lewis, the Gunner and the right minded element, and continued his malpractices in flagrant disregard of all that is good and wholesome in sport.

Once he kicked Lewis in the center as they lay entwined and when the patrons "Hey, Gunner, look at that dirty foul," the Gunner came hopping across from a neutral corner. "What did he do?" he said.

At that, however, there was an agonized "Yow" from Lewis, half smothered by Shikat's big right palm as the German hit him a resounding spank on his features.

THE OLD CABLE CARS.

We took down the old album
From the spare closet shelf,
We giggled and chuckled,
Just Mom and myself.
The old-fashioned tin types
Gave us some jolly old jars
Of the days when we rode
On the old cable cars.

They didn't go fast,
Speed wasn't their dish;
Now I ride a bus
On the bullyvard "Mish."
Down the road of memories
The album has stars,
I saw Carter Harrison
Ride the old cable cars.

We had no moving pictures,
Parks were quite few,
A lad with his sweetie
Did the best that he knew—
He bought her some gumdrops,
For himself two cigars,
Then took an overland trip
On the old cable cars.

The world's on the fritz,
Too much speed was the cause,
Living the "ritz"
With hypocrisy's laws.
We were much better off
In the days of the bars,
Let's bring them back
With the old cable cars. J. M. J.

Jack and Lena.

Former Champion Jack Dempsey and Lina Basquette, film actress, are credited with plans to take the road in a musical revue this fall. Jack Dempsey always was a good showman. He was the greatest drawing card in all pugilistic history while champion because in the ring he gave what spectators paid to see—fighting.

Long past his fistic prime, Dempsey this last year staged an exhibition tour which grossed $800,000, according to reports. This was during a period of depression when champions were fighting for much smaller purses than formerly.

There have been rumors of romance between Jack and Miss Basquette. Perhaps that is part of the ballyhoo. Romance is good box office stuff. We still think Jack a wise showman. If he and Lina visit Chicago, even The Wake will wish to see their musical revue.

BUNKER HILL ON TOP AS LEAGUE STARTS SERIES

Bunker Hill's team took the lead yesterday in the opening series of the Northwest Golf league at Park Ridge, scoring 22½ points out of a possible 27 in its match against Medinah. The league is composed of six man teams from the following clubs: Edgewater, Park Ridge, Kildeer, Westward Ho, Ridgemoor, Rolling Green, Medinah, and Bunker Hill. In other matches yesterday, Park Ridge defeated Edgewater, 16½ to 10½; Kildeer won from Westward Ho, 20 to 7, and Ridgemoor, the defending champions, lost to Rolling Green, 18 to 9. Kildeer is thus second to Bunker Hill, since the team title is decided on the basis of total points scored, and Rolling Green is third.

It wasn't the veteran Chick Evans' fault that Edgewater lost to the home club's team, for he came home with a 75, the best medal score of the day. He was followed by Art Sweet of Ridgemoor, 76; George Fairbairn and Tom Robbins of Park Ridge, 76; Martin Hon of Bunker Hill, 76, and the latter's partner, Bob Crowe, 77.

U.S. Davis Cup Team Leads Brazil, 2 to 0

Forest Hills, N. Y., June 9.—[Special.]—The United States drew another step nearer the world's tennis championship today when it scored a clean sweep in the opening day's matches of the Davis cup American zone final series with Brazil. Wilmer Allison, the tall blond Texan, and Frank Shields triumphing over their opponents.

Shields scored the first American victory after a hard battle with Ricardo Pernambuco, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3, 8-6, while Allison found little trouble in defeating Nelson Cruz, star of the invading team, after the second set when Cruz fell and injured his elbow. The scores were 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

Pernambuco's play against Shields surprised the gallery as the match started. It was one victory the United States expected, but the Brazilian displayed good tennis and captured the second set. In the final set Pernambuco rallied. Four of the last five games were carried to deuce.

The gallery applauded almost constantly as Pernambuco jumped from one side of the court to the other and sent the ball flying over the net.

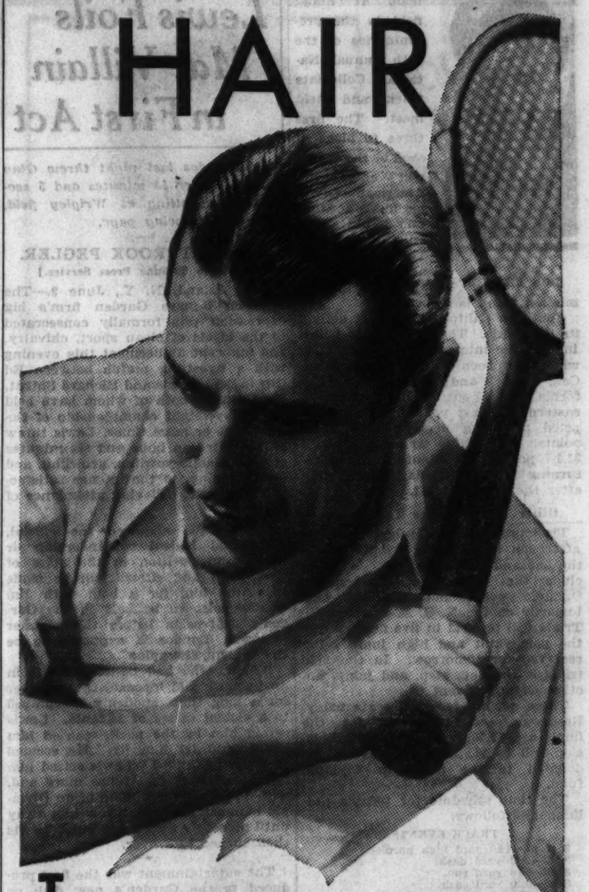
We say this with utmost sincerity. We know of no single particular, no matter how small, in which we could improve this top quality lubricant. It is simply the best that scientific skill and utmost care can produce. 100% pure paraffin base. Minus wax, water, and carbon. A truly safe and longer-lasting lubricant. A great value at the price: 30¢ a quart.

[NOTE TO TENNIS FANS]

Summer Sun is Hard on Your HAIR



THE hot sun is hot stuff for health. But give it half a chance, you tennis players, and what it won't do to your hair!

It'll bleach it. Parch it. Rob it of its natural oils. Make it brittle—and the very deuce to keep in place. And what the sun doesn't do, your shower-bath will!

All of which goes for golfers, too, and swimmers, and all outdoor men. Everyone—under the sun's rays—needs the protection of Vitalis.

A 60-second workout with that pure, vegetable oil preparation makes all the difference. Massaged into the scalp, Vitalis renews the oils that nourish the hair. Circulation quickens. Dryness disappears—and with it all trace of loose dandruff, that ugly forerunner of falling hair.

The 60-Second Workout does it . .

OTT'S 2 HOMERS GIVE GIANTS 3-2 WIN OVER REDS

Second Clout in Sixth Is Victory Margin.

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Due principally to the home run hitting feats of Melvin Ott, the New York Giants today won their fifth game in seven starts since Bill Terry became manager, turning back the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 2.

For the second time in three games against the Reds, Ott provided the winning runs by hitting two homers in a game and the pair of four baggers brought his total for the season up to 11. Mel hit his first homer in the second inning just after George Grantham had parked one of Jim Mooney's offerings in the grand stand. Then after the Reds had gained a 2-2 tie in the fifth, Ott again hit for the circuit in the sixth and won the game.

These three homers were about the only important hits in a mound duel between Mooney and Owen Carroll. Mooney, hurling his first complete game of the season, gave only four hits while Carroll yielded one more. Mooney, however, handed out six walks. Score:

CARDS BEAT BRAVES, 2-1.

Boston, Mass., June 9.—(AP)—Bob Brown, the Boston Braves' 20 year old pitching sensation, suffered his first defeat of the season today, as the St. Louis Cardinals gained their second consecutive victory of the series, 2 to 1.

The veteran Jess Haines held the Braves to five hits, three of which were bunched in the ninth, for their only score. In that session, the tribe filled the bases with none out, on hits by Knothe, Urbanski, and Leach. Knothe scored after Worthington's long fly and the other runners died on base.

PIRATES BEAT PHILS, 4-3.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 9.—(AP)—French's relief pitching, coupled with timely hitting by the Pirates and the failure of the Phils to drive in runs with men on bases, enabled Pittsburgh to defeat the Phillies, 4 to 3, today.

The Phils outhit the Pirates, 12 to 7. Swetonic started for the Pirates, but retired for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Brame, who relieved Swetonic, yielded two hits, but French replaced him and prevented the Phils from scoring.

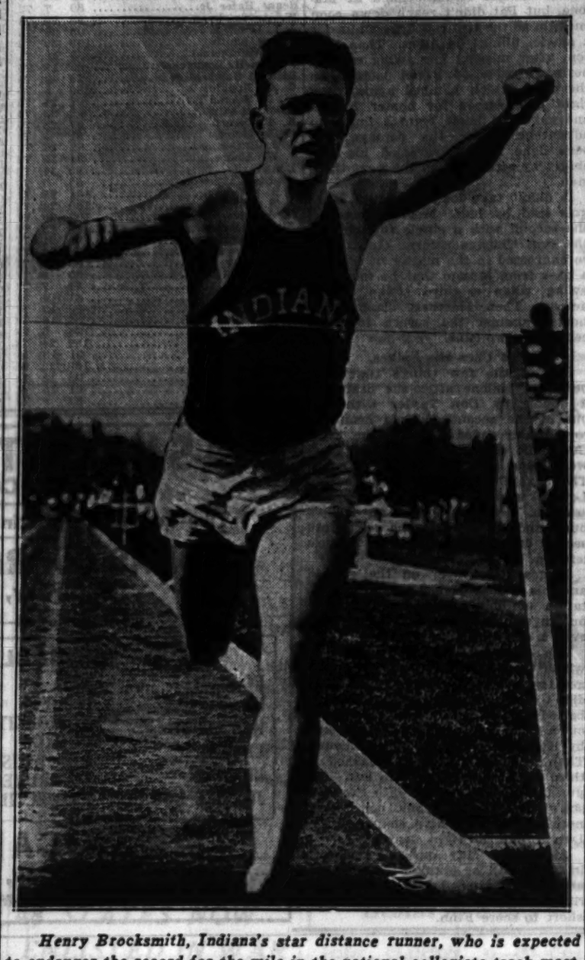
SHOOTING AT A RECORD



Henry Brocksmith, Indiana's star distance runner, who is expected to endanger the record for the mile in the national collegiate track meet. Preliminaries will be held today at Stagg field with finals tomorrow.

of Michigan; Johnson, Illinois State Normal; Pierce, North Dakota; Renwick, Michigan; Lafayette, Michigan State; Harry Newby, St. Olaf, the champion of Minnesota; Burns, Butler; Schatte, Michigan State Normal, Ypsilanti; Burnett, Mississippi; Peebles, Thornton Junior college, Harvey, Ill., and Charles Farmer, North Carolina. Farmer competed in the feature 100 yard race at the British Empire-United States meet at Soldiers' field in 1930. Metcalfe, then recently graduated from Tilden Tech, was the winner.

Ohio State ranks a slight favorite over Michigan, the Western conference champion, to win the meet. Michigan took the Big Ten games when Jack Keller failed to finish the low hurdle race because of a pulled muscle. The Wolverines' team strength may suffer from added competition while Bennett and Keller are at the top in their four events.

Iowa, which never has finished below sixth place, hopes to do as well. Indiana, led by Henry Brocksmith, must be included in the title race.

Points will be scored in all events except the hop, step, and jump, and the 400 meter hurdles. Six places will count on the scale of 10 for first, 8, 6, 4, 2, and 1 for the remaining positions.

Ex-Maroons Lose to Varsity Squad, 10 to 1

Two home runs clouted by varsity men in the third inning of the annual battle between the current and the ex-Maroon baseball players yesterday at Greenwood field convinced Fred Clark, who once pitched for the Giants, that he is not the hurler he once was. The varsity won the game, 10 to 1.

Hit Walker for Homers.

Pat Page Sr., who pitched against his son in the last two innings, and Ted Curtis were the only alumni pitchers who stopped the varsity team. Walker, now Lindblom coach, was removed from the mound on homers by Capt. Frank Howard and Wilkins. J. P. Sullivan, '05, who succeeded him, couldn't find the plate. In the field for the alumni was Harold J. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institute of Economics in Washington, who flied out once.

The game preceded the 29th annual banquet for winners of the "C," which was held in Hutchinson commons. A crowd of 275 heard talks by Dean Henry Gordon Gale and Dr. A. R. E. Wyant, who won their letters 40 years ago, and Paul Davis, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, who won the first letter ever awarded in collegiate gymnastics.

At Last! Tigers Break Yank Jinx Over West with 5-4 Win

Detroit, Mich., June 9.—(AP)—Vic Sorrell, ace of the Tigers' pitching staff, today broke the spell the New York Yankees have held over the western clubs of the American league, and with considerable aid from the hitting department, he sent Detroit back into third place with a 5 to 4 victory over the Yanks.

It was the first game the Yanks have lost in 12 starts against the western teams, and the triumph put the Tigers a half game ahead of the defeated Philadelphia Athletics, who were third, and a few points above the Cleveland Indians.

Sorrell received official credit for the victory, but he failed to complete the game. The Tigers did all their scoring and made all their 11 hits off Danny MacFayden, the bespectacled pitcher from Boston, who was making his debut as a Yankee.

Olympic running stars will be among the contestants in the National A. A. U. 15 mile run which will start at the north end of Soldiers' field tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The favorites in the meet are Juan Carlos Zabala of Argentina and Paul de Bruyn of Germany.

Zabala, who holds the world's 30 kilometer record, and De Bruyn, who won the Boston marathon recently, will represent their countries in the Olympic games at Los Angeles next month.

Chicago's representatives in the meet include Pat Faherty, Marvin Thomas, Alan Stalnaker, Bruno Bassini, Konrad Wunder, all of Ogden Park, and James Bliss, Schwaben club; William Dryer of the Illinois Athletic club, and Ray McHugh.

MUSKIE FISHERS AWAIT ONTARIO SEASON, JULY 1

BY BOB BECKER.

Now that the May fishermen have returned from the Canadian Lake of the Woods district after battling with big lake trout, scores of enthusiastic muskellunge and bass fishermen are just marking time until July 1 when Ontario opens up on these two great game fish.

After talking with a resident of Emo, Ontario, one of the goings in places for the Lake of Woods country, it looks as if the muskies were going to see a lot of hardware tossed at them this summer. One of the reasons for this outlook is the fact that last summer a fisherman landed a 56½ pound muskie in the southern part of the Lake of the Woods. No 'lunge fisherman will be content to just sit idle and see some one else hold a record like that. If they grow to 56½ pounds, there must be one up there weighing 57 or 58 pounds and the challenge is to hook one just a little bit beyond the record.

Our tip to muskie fishermen who have the time and want to try for prize winner, is to comb the Lake of the Woods waters. One can take an outfit and camp out, or it is possible to stay at a camp and fish nearby waters with an outboard motor to take one around. This year a new road from Emo makes it easier for the motoring fisherman to get close to some of the fishing grounds in the southern part of the Lake of the Woods, although we have a hunch that many fishermen who like to explore new lakes will want to travel beyond the end of the road with tent and canoe before they unlimber the spoons and bucktails.

Bradley's B'ar Hunter Is First by a Nose.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old War Saint bowed his head in defeat at Washington Park yesterday afternoon after winning six straight races.

B'ar Hunter, from Edward R. Bradley's stable, took his measure and beat him by a nose in a desperate finish in the fourth race. The 1 pound which War Saint was giving away to B'ar Hunter might have been the difference.

They came charging down to the finish line only inches apart after War Saint had made the pace most of the way, but old Jimmy Smith on B'ar Hunter was a better rider than Critchfield on War Saint.

So the folks who backed the Bradley horse, which was a favorite at only a little more than even money, put on quite a big celebration while War Saint's backers stood back silently and took their medicine. They knew they had received a gallant run for their money.

Good Scout Fails Backers.

For Good Scout from the Texas stable of the millionaire Waggoners, stepped into the Forest Glen purse, which came third on the program, and was backed with much confidence. She never had been beaten, although she had rolled up only two victories. Yet she was trimmed quite handily in this race by the favorite Nituma, which beat Polyphote by a neck. The best Good Scout could do was third and she was given a most powerful ride by Jockey Eddie Ambrose who saved ground all the way, hugged the rail, but didn't have enough left to get up to the leaders.

Later on in the afternoon Knight's Call, from the Audley farm stable, returned to his very best form and, leading all the way in the sixth, which was a high priced claiming affair, he beat Totem by two lengths with Low Gear, on which there had been a hot tip, running third.

Track Record Trembles.

They were running dangerously close to the track record when Bradley's B'ar Hunter won the Fox Lake purse, for the son of Black Servant reeled off a mile and seventy yards in 1:41 4-5.

The California flyer, Sundot, also came near smashing the seven furlong mark when he beat Sherab handily in the Municipal pier purse by two lengths with Prince Hotspur third. Sundot ran seven furlongs in 1:24 4-5 and didn't have much trouble rolling up the victory. He was an odds on choice and paid $3.74 for a two dollar ticket.

Another Bradley Victory.

There was another Bradley victory later in the afternoon when Board Walker, a daughter of Bagenbaggage slipped into a $1,500 selling plater affair in the last race and won all the way. She didn't have to try very hard to trim the favorite, Last Attempt, by a length after having been three and four lengths in front earlier in the tussle. George Jr. was third, but never threatened the two leaders.

It was the first time in many seasons a Bradley color bearer had run in such cheap company at a Chicago track. Bradley connections backed her, for she was only at $8.90 for a two dollar ticket when the betting ended.

TOP FLIGHT WINS

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—Although Top Flight added the Coaching club American Oaks stakes to her imposing list of victories, the daughter of Dis Done, quoted at 1 to 5 against her nine rivals, did not score as easily as was expected in the feature event of the closing program at Belmont Park this afternoon.

Argosie, one of the rank outsiders, finished second, three parts of a length behind the C. V. Whitney filly and a half length in front of Unique, the early pacemaker. The winner earned $15,100 by her victory and stepped the mile and three-eighths in 2:20 1-5.

A gathering of some 15,000 were on hand to witness the brilliant card.

Glastonbury, 30 to 1 chance in the field of four which contested the mile of the Sir Walter handicap, fifth event, proved a driving winner over The Nut, with Mate third.

Elliott, Rider of Phar Lap, Here for W. S. Kilmer

They are telling new tales about the once mighty Phar Lap out at Washington Park these days.

Jockey Bill Elliott, the Australian who piloted the wonder horse to most of his important victories, reached Washington Park yesterday and will ride some of Willis Sharpe Kilmer's horses there and at Arlington Park.

"What did you do to make Phar Lap run so fast and so far?" was the first question tossed at him.

"Well, he would run a pretty good race in the early part of it," was his answer. "Then I would lean down over his shoulder and shout into his ear, 'Swish, you bloody beggar.' He never failed me. He would have jumped over housetops or run to your bloomin' Rocky mountains after he heard the old war cry."

Elliott's first appearance in silks here will be awaited with interest. He rides English style, straight up in the saddle, and doesn't crouch over his horse's neck unless he wants to whisper "Swish you, bloody beggar," into his mount's ear. His weight is around 130 pounds, so he will have to confine himself to stake engagements in which the weights are high.

Charley Van Meter of Kentucky will begin talking about his colt Red Whisk as soon as you slip him the good right mitt. "He will win all of next year's rich 3 year old stakes sure," says the enthusiastic Mr. Van Meter. Fifteen thousand dollars has been offered for the gelding and Mr. Van Meter wouldn't listen to it.

matics, but who also knows psychology, was right. His throw to Kerr retired Sullivan by a margin of several feet. Blue was called out on strikes and Hodapp filed to West.

The Sox lead vanished in the second. Reynolds and Judge walked. When Sullivan engaged in his second reverie and forgot to watch what the base runners were doing he was charged with an error because he was unable to get himself in a receiving position for Berry's throw, designed to get Reynolds when Carl dashed for third. When the ball got away from Sullivan, Reynolds proceeded home and Judge pulled up at second. Kerr was thrown out by Sullivan, Judge taking third. Bluege fanned and Spencer was given an intentional pass. Weaver singled to right, scoring Judge.

Bluege Drives in Two.

West knocked the ball into the right field stand with one out in the third, after which Reynolds supplied the second out with a tap to Smith. Judge singled to right and went to third when Selph was unable to get back on the grass to catch Kerr's high fly. Kerr reached second on the throw-in. Bluege singled to center, scoring Judge and Kerr. Spencer singled to right, but Bluege was out, Fothergill to Sullivan.

In the fifth Reynolds was safe on the first of Kress' two punts and came home on Judge's triple. Joe was held on third while Smith threw out Kerr, and he was out at the plate, Sullivan to Berry, when he attempted to score on Bluege's tap. Spencer filed to Funk and the Senators' offense success was over for the afternoon.

You See, It's This Way.

And now for that "almost" stuff about which we were telling you.

Hodapp started the sixth with a hit past Bluege, Selph walked, and the bases were full when Myer booted Fothergill's grounder. Kress beat out a slow roller towards Weaver, Hodapp scoring and the bases remaining full. Berry then hit into a double play, Bluege to Myer to Judge, Selph scoring. Appling batted for Gregory and walked, but Funk filed to Reynolds.

Sullivan started the seventh with his third hit, a single to center, and Blue walked. Marberry relieved Weaver. Bluege then grabbed Hodapp's grounder with one hand and started another double play to Myer and Judge. Selph singled to center, scoring Sullivan. Fothergill singled to left, putting Selph on third, and took second when Rice fumbled the ball. So the tying runs were on third and second when Kress came to bat. Marberry completely mystified Red, striking him out on three pitches.

Sullivan Scores in Ninth.

The Sox were washouts in the eighth, but Sullivan led off the ninth with his fourth hit, a double to left. He was permitted to go to third unmolested, and scored on Blue's single to center. Hodapp forced Blue and Reynolds went back fast to pull down Selph's drive. The contest ended with Fothergill's pop to Myer.

NEW YORK STATE SEEKS ECONOMY AX OF EXPERTS

Wants State Departments to Wield It.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—With taxes consuming an estimated thirty cents on every dollar earned in this state, experts have been called into consultation to effect economies in the operations of the state departments, according to information obtained today. A similar economy move although conducted along different lines is being attempted in the neighboring state of New Jersey, which has been finding itself sinking deeper into debt.

A joint legislative committee working in coöperation with the New York state economic council has engaged the engineering firm of Ford, Bacon & Davic, Inc., to make an intensive study of the different bureaus and recommend reductions in state expenses wherever possible.

Meanwhile a conference of business leaders from all parts of the state has been called on June 10 at the Bar association quarters here to discuss means of reducing public expenditures.

Follow Wickersham Advice.

The selection of the engineering firm to study actual operations as well as statistical data was recommended by George W. Wickersham, chairman of the economic council, and Merwin K. Hart, its president. The council, composed of a board of twenty-nine leaders of industry and finance in various sections of the state, will continue to give all possible aid to the general economy investigation being conducted by the legislative committee under the chairmanship of Senator Charles J. Hewitt.

The economy committee, according to its chairman, has no intention to seek evidences of corruption, but will continue delving into state expenditures with a view to reducing the budget until the end of the year.

The state economic council, asked to define its purposes, explained that it was an organization of property owners by counties throughout the state.

Goal is Reduced Taxes.

"The real workers," said Mr. Hart, "whether they work in denim or in offices, whether they lie awake nights planning how to maintain the solvency of their businesses or even to ponder means of finding a job, have got one great interest. That interest is in bringing down the taxes of their state and keeping them down. To this program the council is dedicated."

The statement that government expenses are eating thirty cents out of every earned dollar was made by James F. Bell, president of General Mills, Inc., and a member of the council. Mr. Bell was of the opinion that the government share of the dollar should not exceed ten cents.

"We should insist that expenses be pared down until they approximate ten cents of the dollar," said Mr. Bell. "Back in 1913 the government extracted 8 cents out of every dollar earned. In 1929 its demand had climbed to 15 cents and now it is going to take away more than 30 cents. Everything the government does costs money and we pay the bill."

New Jersey is going about its economy measures without the aid of efficiency experts. Mandatory salary reductions for state employés appears as a distinct possibility, according to measures introduced in its legislature.

48 STATES NOW ENLISTED IN WAR ON TAX EATERS

Rapid Growth of Order Told by President.

Before leaving for New York City yesterday to participate in an eastern tax conference tonight, George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and chairman of the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures, announced that in a week the influence of the national organization has been extended to include each of the forty-eight states.

He also said that representatives of the national organization would face the Republican platform makers here next week and demand that the party convention recognize in its platform that "the limit in taxation has long since passed." A similar demand will be made at the Democratic convention, he said.

Press Eastern Campaign.

Mr. Rossetter is to attend a special meeting of the New York state economic council at the invitation of George W. Wickersham, the chairman. Eastern business leaders are to participate in the conference, at which plans will be discussed to align Atlantic seaboard territory in the movement started at the Chicago tax meeting on June 2 and 3.

In inviting Mr. Rossetter, Mr. Wickersham said New York state has a vital interest in reducing the cost of government, since last year one-seventh of all taxes—federal, state, and local—were collected in New York.

Receive Indorsements.

"Since the program of the Chicago conference was announced last Friday we have been swamped with indorsements from leading business and agricultural groups in every section of the country," Mr. Rossetter said before leaving. "Right now the list of organizations pledged to the campaign total 747, with two or more representatives from each state. This is an increase of more than 200 organizations and ten states since the conference closed.

"In California, thirty cities, through their commercial associations, have joined the campaign. Other Pacific coast states have followed. The same response has been met on the Atlantic seaboard, where our supporters include thirty-three cities in New York, fourteen in New Jersey, seventeen in Massachusetts, and five in Maine.

South Responding.

"Response from the south has almost rivaled that from the middle western states, with Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas, Oklahoma, and the other cotton belt communities outspoken in their intentions to dictate to Washington that the limit in taxation has long since been passed.

"Our big job is the completion of a country-wide organization which will go right down to the taxpayers in each congressional district.

"Until every taxpayer, property owner or not, is made to realize that he is paying dearly for pork barrels and the like, we can be assured of no improvement in the tendency of some officeholders to barter public votes. To attain this end, the 41 members of our national advisory council are already laying the groundwork for campaigns against governmental excesses in their respective areas."

DR. L. D. MOORHEAD AWARDED ITALIAN ORDER OF CROWN

The work of Dr. Louis D. Moorhead as consultant for the board of health in extending the use of toxin-antitoxin as a diphtheria preventive to the Catholic parochial schools of Chicago, which have a large number of pupils of Italian parentage, has won him a decoration from the king of Italy, it was announced yesterday.

The decoration, the cross of a chevalier of the Order of the Crown of Italy, will be conferred by Dr. Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general in Chicago, at a dinner Monday evening in the Belden-Stratford hotel. Present at the speakers' table will be the Most Rev. B. J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, who will make the address of the evening, and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health.

The drive to immunize children against diphtheria was started last fall in the parochial schools. Dr. Moorhead is dean and professor of surgery in the medical college of Loyola university; chairman of the staff of Mercy hospital, and chief of the medical board of the archdiocese of Chicago. He was made a Knight of St. Gregory at the instance of Cardinal Mundelein a year ago. Dr. A. V. Pertiplio is in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

FAMOUS FRENCH AVIATRIX FOUND DEAD IN ALGERIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALGIERS, Algeria, June 9.—Lena Bernstein, famous French aviatrix, was found dead today in an airfield near Biskra. She had been missing for several days. Although details are lacking, it was reported that she had committed suicide after being thwarted in her ambition to establish a new record for a flight over the Sahara.

Miss Bernstein was born in Leipzig in 1906. She was a naturalized French citizen. In August, 1929, she broke the woman's record for a distance flight in a straight line, traveling 1,358 miles. In 1930 she set an endurance flight record of nearly 36 hours. Both records were broken by Maryse Bastie, another French flyer, and Miss Bernstein went to Africa to regain supremacy.

F. G. BIGELOW, ONCE PRESIDENT OF BANK, DEAD

Milwaukee, Wis., June 9.—[Special.]—Frank Gordon Bigelow, 84, one time president of the American Bankers' association, a bank messenger who had worked his way to the top and then was convicted and imprisoned for embezzlement, will be buried Saturday afternoon from the Forest Home cemetery chapel. He died today in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur H. McGeoch, 2415 East Wyoming place.

His trial and conviction of the embezzlement or more than a million and a half dollars from the First National bank, of which he was president, was one of the sensations of the financial and social world a generation ago.

Speculation in wheat and large losses was the basis of the shortage which was discovered by a bank examiner in 1905. An assistant cashier, who was sentenced with Bigelow to 10 years in the federal penitentiary, had covered the embezzlements with fraudulent entries.

Wealthy associates in the bank made good the financial losses. Large sums of money were brought in by express from Chicago and hauled to the bank in trucks to reassure worried depositors.

Since his release from prison Bigelow had been living in Minneapolis.

SHANNON BLOCKS CAFETERIA PLAN OF UNCLE SAM

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—Representative Shannon's campaign against government competition with private business began today with a running start that kept 15 postoffices from opening new cafeterias.

Shannon, a Missouri Democrat, went to the house floor and was successful in having stricken from the second deficiency bill a provision that would have permitted the opening of the cafeterias. It was eliminate as legislation in an appropriation bill.

Representative Horr [Rep., Wash.] and Charles Halverson, commissioner of finance at Bremerton, Wash., told the Shannon committee earlier that civilians were getting benefits supposed to go only to naval men through the commissary in the Bremerton navy yard.

Then F. J. O'Donnell, official of a Boston shoe factory, testified that the Leavenworth penitentiary plant recently made two thousand pairs of shoes at a cost of $2.60 a pair when his company would have made them on contract for $1.75.

Swimmer Dies After Fall in High School Pool

Joseph Balczeniak, 17 years old, 2325 South Winchester avenue, a student at Harrison High school, died yesterday of a broken back suffered Tuesday when he slipped while diving in the school swimming pool. Balczeniak was executing a back dive when he struck the springboard.

MRS. MARGARET A. PULLMAN, 62, DIES; FUNERAL TODAY

Mrs. Margaret Allan Pullman, 62 years old, 199 Lake Shore drive, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital following an illness of two days. She was the widow of William C. Pullman, a former executive of the Pullman company and nephew of the founder of the company, George M. Pullman.

MRS. MARGARET A. PULLMAN.

Mrs. Pullman's father was the late William A. Pinkerton of the Pinkerton National Detective agency. Her aunt, who survives her, is Mrs. William J. Chalmers of 1100 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Pullman is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John H. McIlvaine; a son, William A. P. Pullman, and a sister, Mrs. J. O. Watkins. Mrs. Pullman became suddenly ill last Tuesday while in the Woman's Athletic club for luncheon. Her close relatives were at her bedside when she died.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today in the Fourth Presbyterian church and burial will be in Graceland cemetery. Mrs. Pullman was widely known in Chicago for her work in the Convalescent Home for Crippled Children. She was a director of the Woman's Athletic club and a member of the Onwentsia and Casino clubs.

Young Man Drowned, Two Saved from Lake

Boyceville, Wis., June 9.—[Special.]—Ludwig Fujko, 22, Connorsville, was drowned in Horseshoe lake, north of here, today. Don Sulliss, 26, Boyceville, was resuscitated after being unconscious for more than an hour, and Mrs. James Chase, also of this place, saved herself by clinging to an overturned boat in which the three, members of a picnic party, were riding when it suddenly capsized. Fujko's body was recovered an hour later.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste, and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Mother of Blanche Ring and Meighan's Wife Dies

New York, June 8.—(AP)—The death of Mrs. Mena Frances Ring, 77, mother of Blanche Ring, the actress, was announced today. She was the widow of James H. Ring, for 30 years principal comedian at the old Boston museum. Mrs. Ring is survived by a son, Cyril, and three daughters, Blanche, Julia, and Frances, all of whom have been on the stage. Blanche is the wife of Charles Winninger and Frances is the wife of Thomas Meighan, the film star.

Retired City Inspector Dies While Visiting Son

William F. Peters, 67 years old, of 1038 North Franklin street, a retired city pavement inspector, died from a heart attack last night while visiting at the home of his son, John F. Peters, 2143 North Lawler avenue, a policeman. He had been employed as a street inspector for thirty-five years, retiring on a disability pension several years ago. His widow, Elizabeth, and the son survive.

Wife Was Fat No Longer Attractive

Lost Husband's Love

The above headlines appeared in a New York newspaper of April 4 in connection with a divorce trial that has attracted wide attention.

"She was a beautiful woman," one witness testified, "but she got fat and is not attractive any more."

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do.

If you are fat how would you like to lose it and at the same time gain in physical charm and acquire a clean, clear skin and eyes that sparkle with buoyant health?

And gain in energy and activity?

Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for 30 days. You can help the action of Kruschen by cutting down on pastry and fatty meats and going light on potatoes. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

Kruschen Salts are a blend of 6 mineral salts most helpful to body health. Best of all, a bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last you 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Ask any druggist for a bottle and start to lose fat today.

It's the safe way to reduce but be sure you get Kruschen—your health comes first. And remember this, if you are not joyfully satisfied with results.—money back.

REPORTS ADS A NECESSITY TO BROADCASTING

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—The radio commission today notified the senate that any plan to eliminate the use of radio facilities for advertising will "destroy the present system of broadcasting."

This was contained in a report presented in response to a resolution by Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.] requesting a summary of the extent of radio advertising and asking whether government operation of broadcasting would be desirable.

Chairman Saltzman and Commissioner Lafount disagreed with a majority opinion that additional legislation would be necessary to limit commercial broadcasting.

TIE EVERYTHING TO MANAGEMENT, SAYS PETTIBONE

Title & Trust Head Talks to Skyscraper Men.

BY AL CHASE.

Efficient, well paid management is the keynote to prosperous and successful building developments and much of the present reorganization grief is due to property owners not paying enough to attract capable executives, according to Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, in an address on "Real Estate Reorganizations" delivered yesterday before the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, in convention at the Drake hotel.

HOLMAN D. PETTIBONE. [Moffett-Russell Photo.]

Mr. Pettibone told the skyscraper men that if the public's cash is to be attracted to new building enterprises good management must be a lure. He pointed out that in the industrial and commercial world financiers regard management as the largest single factor. A salary of $50,000 annually is a common thing in an industrial corporation, whereas a building owner may pay $3,000. You can't get good management for any business enterprise, said Mr. Pettibone, without paying a fair price for it.

Tie Everything to Management.

"Tie everything up to management" was the peroration of Mr. Pettibone's address. "Some of us who have a genuine interest in real estate look to you members of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers to lead the way.

"It's management which will obtain and hold tenants; it's management which will draw money from bankers, mortgage buyers and the public. Having built up your organization to a point of real efficiency, why don't you gentlemen begin to sell the management idea?

"It seems to me that a suitable property manager must be an executive, a salesman and, in addition, have the technical knowledge which can be acquired only by study and experience. So many managers lack one or more of these requisites; so many have entered the field after failing elsewhere. Some have technical information, but never had a creative idea; some lack executive or sales ability.

Plenty of Room at Top.

"You'll not, then, be surprised to hear me say that I've told a number of budding business men fresh from college that there's plenty of room at the top in the property management field, including in that classification residential and transient hotels.

"The representative of a large permanent fund told me recently that he had about concluded to advise the trustees to withdraw from real estate ownership, and that he would put the money into stocks of well managed corporations.

"Pressed for reasons, he said real estate is such a perpetual nuisance; there's no end of troubles about taxes, rentals, maintenance, obsolescence, changing neighborhoods and demands of tenants. I observed that all of those problems and many others confront the corporation manager.

"'But,' he replied, 'the problems don't come to my desk.'

"There you have it. The answer is management. The industrial corporation doesn't carry all of its problems to stockholders; but what it does is to hire good management and pay that management well.

"There's the Story."

"A president's salary of from $20,000 to $50,000 annually is a common think with industrial corporations. But a building owner wants to hire management for $3,000. There's the story. You can't get good management for any business enterprise without paying a fair price for it. Building owners aren't paying sufficient compensation to attract and hold adequate management.

"If the public's money is to participate in new enterprises, management must be a factor. Has it occurred to you that investors might be educated to buy property management in the same manner that industrial management is bought? Those who finance industrial and commercial enterprises regard management as the biggest single factor."

ATLAS UTILITIES WOULD MERGE WITH 12 OTHERS

New York, June 9.—(AP)—The Atlas Utilities corporation, started in 1923 as a private investment trust with a capital of $40,000, today made an offer for 12 investment companies to join it.

Atlas Utilities corporation now has substantial interests in the companies concerned. If stockholders of those companies accept, Atlas Utilities will then have assets of $53,346,000. In August, 1928, the assets of the Atlas company were $1,000,000.

The twelve companies which the present offer affects are: All America General corporation, Allied Atlas corporation, which was formerly the Exide Securities corporation; American, British and Continental corporation; Atlas Utilities and Investors' company, Ltd.; Aviation Securities corporation; Chain Store Stocks, Inc.; Federated Capital corporation, General Empire corporation, National Securities Investment company, Securities-Allied corporation, which formerly was the Chatham Phenix Allied corporation; Sterling Securities corporation, and Ungerleider Financial corporation.

Atlas Utilities now has 9,000 common and 2,200 preference stockholders. If the plan of exchange is accepted in its entirety, its stockholders' family will be increased to 20,500 holders of common and 14,500 of preference stock.

Absorption of the dozen companies would increase to 18 the total of companies fully acquired by Atlas since 1928.

Reserve Members Reduce Loans.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It would appear that the widely heralded "bond pool," which is supposed to have more than $100,000,000 subscribed chiefly by New York banks, hasn't begun to function yet. The announced purpose of the group was to buy bonds, thereby helping the listed market, disbursing credit and restoring confidence.

However, some of the weekly reports issued by the federal reserve board yesterday showed that the big New York and Chicago banks sold securities rather freely in the last week. At the same time, they reduced further both their commercial and collateral loans. In order to offset this contraction in credit, the Federal Reserve banks expanded their purchases of government obligations, whereas in the preceding week such buying was diminished when the member banks were increasing their loans and investments.

Reduce Their Loans.

The statement showing the position of New York reporting member banks, which include the larger institutions, shows that they reduced their commercial loans by $94,000,000 and their loans on securities by $78,000,000. While they increased their investment in government obligations by $12,000,000, they disposed of $45,000,000 of other securities. Perhaps part of these shrinkages was the result of their net demand and time deposits declining $106,000,000.

Similarly, the Chicago group of banks reduced their commercial loans by $7,000,000 and their loans on securities by $13,000,000. They increased their investment in government obligations by $21,000,000, but sold $3,000,000 of other securities. Their net demand and time deposits increased $6,000,000.

The federal reserve banks stepped up their purchases of government obligations to $69,367,000, whereas in the preceding week such buying totaled only around $50,000,000. Total holdings now stand at $1,644,567,000. This credit expansion also was helped in a minor way by the member banks outside of the larger cities, as they increased their borrowings from the reserve banks by $7,310,000. This item now totals $501,911,000. Some return of money to the banks following the month-end and Memorial day holiday was evidenced in the fact that federal reserve note circulation declined $7,289,000.

Gold Reserves Drop.

The heavy withdrawals of gold by European nations, coupled with the increased buying of government bonds, caused a considerable decline in gold reserves of the system. These dropped $124,106,000, although still aggregating $2,626,961,000, which exceeds note circulation of $2,557,119,000. Foreign banks also withdrew $32,339,000 of deposits in our reserves banks and now have only $41,636,000 on deposit. The reserve accounts of the member banks receded $13,012,000. Total deposits declined $32,879,000. Total reserves fell off $122,344,000 and the ratio of reserves to liabilities sagged to 59.4 per cent, compared with 61.4 per cent in the previous week.

For another week, the New York Federal Reserve bank made no change in its 3 per cent rediscount rate.

With the decline in the stock market in the last week brokers' loans again turned downward. The decline for the week was $36,000,000, bringing the total down to $373,000,000. This also marks a shrinkage of $1,117,000,000 from the figure of a year ago, which was $1,420,000,000. The New York banks reduced their own loans by $34,000,000, the interior banks withdrew $3,000,000, and nonbanking lenders increased their loans by $1,000,000.

STOCK BUYERS' LEAGUE ATTACKS UTILITY FINANCE

A criticism of recent orders of the Illinois commerce commission permitting three former Insull utilities to issue 70 million dollars in bonds was read yesterday before the city council subcommittee which is investigating utility regulation in Illinois. The communication was from the Utility Consumers and Investors' League of Illinois, of which Prof. Paul Douglas of the University of Chicago is president.

"Increased operating costs, due to excessive interest rates and commissions, are the first penalty the gas and electric consumers of the state are to be forced to pay as a result of the mismanagement of Insull and the domination of local utilities by Wall street and Chicago banking interests," the communication charged.

It added that the orders permitting the Peoples Gas Light and Coke, the Commonwealth Edison, and the Public Service of Northern Illinois companies to issue the bonds were "railroaded" through the commission.

League Group Favors World Gold Standard

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

GENEVA, June 9.—A return to the gold standard as the world's "best available monetary mechanism" was strongly recommended by the league of nations gold delegation today in its final report. The full text will be given out tomorrow or Saturday.

The document, divided into three parts, is being hurried off the press so it will appear before the Lausanne conference begins.

Favors Gold Standard.

The first part deals with the breakdown of the gold standard and how to restore it. "Impressed by the practical difficulties and dangers" of regulating currencies not on a common world basis and "the very great desirability of an agreement on a common world standard, it rejects silver, bimetalism and other commodity standards since "whatever their theoretical advantages, their universal adoption presents a very grave if not an insuperable practical difficulty in present times" and gold at its worst is just as good.

The report lays down three main conditions, however, as necessary before restoration of the gold standard can be expected. All involve international action as follows:

1. The restoration of a reasonable degree of freedom in the movement of gold services on debts.

2. A satisfactory solution of the problem of reparations payments and war debts.

3. An agreement concerning "certain guiding principles in respect to the working of the gold standard system."

Also Discusses Prices.

Regarding the suggestion that action be taken to raise prices, it deems a rise desirable, but does not expect monetary policy alone to adjust the price level, which is influenced by many non-monetary factors. Where credit contraction has gone to extremes it declares it "imperative" for central banks to do what they can to check it "and sometimes to take the initiative in encouraging the freer use of credit."

It concludes, however, that "it will be difficult to restore prices and standard of living" until "there is some clearing of the atmosphere of international distrust" and world trade is freer.

Regarding the future the report declares it impossible to stabilize prices, and says what relative stability is possible is not achievable by monetary policy alone.

It recommends a reduction in the present reserve ratios of central banks and a revival of a modified form of a gold exchange system.

Dollar Is Stronger.

New York, June 9.—(AP)—The American dollar strengthened its position against foreign gold currencies for the third successive session in today's exchange market.

At the close French francs, the belga, and Dutch guilders were all at levels which make further gold exports to those countries unprofitable. This leaves only the Swiss franc in a position sufficiently strong to attract shipments of the previous metal.

Although bankers believed it probable that withdrawal of balances from the United States might be continued for a time by foreign central banks, irrespective of whether transactions on an exchange basis made such exportations attractive, they pointed out that such balances have been very sharply reduced in the last couple of months. Estimates place the remaining total at around $500,000,000.

Foreign Fears Lessen.

The strong dollar is being attributed to a lessening of European apprehension over our financial position now that the tax bill has been passed. Gold actually withdrawn for export today totaled only $32,000, taken by Peru, although there was a gain of $6,001,500 in metal earmarked for foreign account. It was pointed out that lack of immediate transportation facilities might have had something to do with the relatively small change in our gold position.

French francs sagged ¼ point to 3.94¾ cents for cables, the lowest in several weeks, compared with a gold export level of 3.94½ cents. Guilders dropped 4 points to 40.40 cents against a gold point of 40.51, and belgas were down one point to 13.95 cents compared with their gold level of 14 cents flat. Swiss francs were off 1¾ points to 19.55¾ cents, still 6¾ points over their outgoing gold mark.

Sterling Is Steady.

Sterling was steady, closing unchanged at $3.67½ cents for cables, but there was a smaller spread between rates for spot and futures. The latter have been commanding a substantial premium.

The dollar was also up on the foreign exchange market today. The quotation was 25.2825 as against yesterday's 25.34.

French Say Pact Stands.

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

PARIS, June 9.—The French press published reports today emanating from New York that the Bank of France has given notice of intention to repatriate as soon as possible its gold holdings in the United States.

Bank officials, when asked this afternoon, said their policy has not been changed in any way. It was announced months ago that the bank, in cooperation with the federal reserve, was going gradually to withdraw holdings. That is exactly what it is doing. American financial circles here are certain the French will do nothing to embarrass the federal reserve.

Exchange Board Names Officers for Coming Year

Smallest in Years, U. S. Reports.

BY C. D. MICHAELS.

The smallest winter wheat crop, with two exceptions, since 1907 may be harvested this year, according to the June estimate by the department of agriculture. The indicated yield of 411,000,000 bu was only 11,000,000 above the 400,000,000 bu harvested in 1912, and showed 30,000,000 bu less than a month ago, and 376,000,000 bu under the bumper crop of last year.

The winter wheat condition of 64.7 June 1 was the lowest ever reported, with the exception of 1885, when it was 62. The yield in that year is given as $57,000,000 bu, but included some spring wheat.

Recent private reports suggested a yield of around 433,000,000 bu winter wheat. The report was somewhat of a surprise to the trade, in view of the rather favorable weather conditions which prevailed between the time the data for the private returns was assembled and that for the government figures.

Believes Crop Is Better.

In commenting on the report R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Bros. & Co. expert, said he thought the winter wheat crop had improved 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 bu at a maximum since the government data was compiled. Nat C. Murray, the Clement Curtis & Co. expert, expressed the belief that the crop this season might turn out similar to that in 1924, when the May figures of 552,000,000 bu were followed by a drop to 519,000,000 bu in June, while the July report suggested a total of 545,000,000 bu.

Condition of all spring wheat is 84.5, compared with the private returns suggesting 83.2, and with 67.9 last year and a 10 year average of 86.8. No estimate on the acreage indicated yield was made by the government. On the basis of the private estimate on acreage the suggested crop would be around 245,000,000 bu, compared with 105,000,000 bu harvested in 1931.

Cromwell, in commenting on the spring wheat condition figures said they looked a little low, but this might be accounted for in part by intentions to use a little higher par than usual, or by placing more importance on deficiency of subsoil moisture or grasshopper infestation.

Conditions of all crops at the present time is below the 10 year average, as shown by the report. Details follow, last three ciphers omitted:

CANADIAN REPORT

Canadian crops have made an excellent start, according to the dominion government report given to the trade late yesterday. No estimate was made on the acreage or the indicated yield. R. O. Cromwell, the Lawson Bros. & Co. expert, however, while admitting that production figures must be taken with reserve at this season of the year, said that the returns suggested a spring wheat crop of 415,000,000 bu. This compared with an average of 412,000,000 bu by the private reports June 1, and with 304,000,000 bu harvested in the three provinces last year. Condition of leading crops follows:

GRAIN EXPERTS TO ATTACK NEW PRICE STABILIZERS

With the hope of attracting attention of the delegates to the national Republican convention, members of the Grain Market Analysists' club will rally at the Hamilton club on the evening of June 13, to protest against further federal projects for grain price control.

After a dinner, starting at 6 o'clock, B. W. Snow and Thomas Cain will attack such measures. Mr. Snow, formerly with the department of agriculture, will assail proposals for equalization fee, export debentures, and domestic allotment plans as all likely to be injurious to the grain trade and to business generally.

Mr. Cain, president of the Farmers' National Grain Dealers' association, will discuss such proposals from the viewpoint of the cooperatives with which the members of his organization are associated.

U.S. COURT DELAYS KREUGER, TOLL RECEIVERSHIP

Awaits Swedish O. K. on Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—Decision on an application for the appointment of a receiver in bankruptcy for the Kreuger & Toll Co. was postponed today by Federal Judge Julian W. Mack. The delay was decided on to allow Gordon Auchincloss, American representative of administrative trustees in Sweden, to determine the Swedish attitude toward a voluntary petition in bankruptcy and the election of a trustee.

Samuel Untermyer, as counsel for an independent committee of debenture holders, asked for the receiver.

Called World's Prize Fraud.

"This is about the largest fraud, or series of frauds in the world's history," Untermyer said. "Others are mere pikers' adventures. There have been suggestions that the Swedish government might be offended if a receiver were appointed here. These suggestions appear absurd in view of the fact that among creditors here are persons who have invested $85,000,000 of their money in securities backed by Kreuger & Toll.

"We are merely endeavoring to protect as far as possible the interests of American investors. The Swedish government would not be offended by any such process any more than we should be by efforts in Sweden to protect Swedish investors."

Receiver Named in Sweden.

Mr. Untermyer reminded the court that a receiver had been appointed in Sweden, and said an original receivership here would open the way for the appointment of ancillary receivers in districts throughout the country where there are assets of Kreuger & Toll.

When Joseph M. Proskauer, former Supreme court justice representing Lee, Higginson & Co., banking house for Kreuger, here, objected to Mr. Untermyer's hints of "misrepresentations to investors," and of the "culpable negligence of our banking houses," Untermyer said he did not intend to charge any one with knowingly misrepresenting securities.

Hypnotized by Kreuger.

"They all seem to have been hypnotised by Kreuger," Mr. Untermyer added. "No sooner was money raised than it was sent abroad, and I can find nothing in the minutes to indicate that sales had been reported to the directors. Ivar Kreuger treated the properties of the concern as his own, and it is very probable that we'll find that accounts held in his name are really those of the Kreuger & Toll Co."

Mr. Proskauer said that Lee, Higginson & Co. was the trustee for the Kreuger securities here, and that nothing had been presented at the hearing to warrant the appointment of a receiver.

S. B. Optner New Receiver for O. W. Richardson Co.

Saul B. Optner was appointed receiver in bankruptcy yesterday for O. W. Richardson & Co., Chicago furniture company, by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. L. S. Tiffany, president of the furniture company, who has been acting as co-receiver in an equity proceeding filed several months ago, was ordered to turn over his accounts to Optner. An involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed after the appointing of the equity receivers.

Denies Rosenwald Fund Unloads Sears Securities

N. W. Levin, controller of the Julius Rosenwald fund, stated yesterday that the foundation has not been liquidating any of its holdings in Sears, Roebuck & Co. stock recently. The fund still owns 180,000 of those shares, compared with 184,524 last year at this time. The fund never has owned or sold any other stock, Mr. Levin declared. The sales made during the year were made to raise funds as the needs for them arose, he explained. On June 30 the fund had notes payable of $900,000.

Charles Swift Heads Packing Firm's Board

Charles Henry Swift was elected chairman of the board of Swift & Co. yesterday to succeed his brother, Edward F. Swift, who died May 28 when he fell from the window of his eighth floor apartment at 1550 North State parkway.

The new board chairman of the packing company is 58 years old. He was born in Lancaster, Mass., and came to Chicago in 1875 with his mother and father. He was educated in the public schools here and in business schools in Chicago and Boston. While attending school he devoted part of his time to his father's packing business.

Starts as Lamb Buyer.

After leaving school he gave all his time to the packing business, beginning as a lamb buyer in the stockyards here. He later became a cattle buyer and continued in that capacity for several years. When the company expanded he was transferred to the general offices. He played an important part in building up the vast distributing system of Swift & Co. throughout the country.

Served in Army.

He succeeds to his present position from the vice chairmanship, which office he has held since Jan. 8, 1931. He is chairman of the pension board of the company.

During the world war Mr. Swift served in the ordnance department in Washington and overseas. He was commissioned a major early in 1918 and was made a lieutenant colonel later in the same year. He was one of seven members of the Swift family in the service.

N. Y. Exchange Approves Cotton Belt Bond Listing

New York, June 9.—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange has approved for listing $9,327,500 of St. Louis Southwestern Railway company [Cotton Belt] general and refunding 5 per cent gold bonds, series A, due on July 1, 1990. Consenting holders of the road's first consolidated mortgage 4 per cent bonds that matured on June 1 received payment, comprising $500 cash and $500 of the new refunding bonds.

Milwaukee Road Reports $2,114,830 April Deficit

Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific had a deficit of $2,114,830, compared with $1,716,185 for April, 1931. Chicago and Eastern Illinois reported a net loss of $392,646, against $247,149 a year ago. Norfolk and Southern's net loss was $79,942, against $12,350 in April of last year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—The stock market failed to hold its level after a brief afternoon rally and sagged back to new low territory. The traders did not like the way matters are shaping up on the economy program in congress and lower prices all around were the result. For the most part shares scraped along around the low levels of last week's bear movement, with United States Steel and American Telephone as the pivots of the selling wave.

The day, which was anticipated as a test of rallying power, began with a moderate decline, prices perked up notably toward noon and held their gains until midaft noon when they gave way under selling pressure and sagged to new low levels.

Covering by Shorts.

The morning rally was attributed to a covering movement by shorts as the market approached the previous lows and the afternoon break was the inevitable result of disappointment over the failure of congress to bring a halt to the spending of taxpayers money.

The list presented a varied picture after a day of moderate trading. Preferred stocks broke even on large gains and losses and the common stocks showed scattering plus signs. Among the individual performers Auburn Automobile attracted attention. Its turnover was about 35 per cent of the total stock and at one time it had a gain of almost 10 points. At the close Auburn showed a net

Chicago, Illinois, June 9, 1932

Business conditions are such that the operation of The Peoples Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago has become unprofitable. The Directors have therefore determined to liquidate the affairs of the Bank. Arrangements have been made for the payment in full of all deposits. From and after Friday morning, the 10th day of June, 1932, no further deposits will be accepted and no further loans will be made.

All depositors, at their convenience, will arrange for the withdrawal or transfer of their deposits in full. For this purpose the present banking quarters, 32 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, will remain open during the usual banking hours.

The safe deposit vaults will continue to be operated in the present quarters, with no change in business hours.

By order of the Board of Directors

Top yesterday, $7.00; average, $6.00.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 1,500; hogs, 17,000; sheep, 10,000.

The hog market swung slowly about and headed upward again yesterday, devoid of interesting features. Both the extreme top and general average prices advanced 5c to $3.55 and $3.30, respectively, comparing with a top of $3.40 and average of $3.15 at the close of last week.

Action improved toward midsession when larger houses dipped into the best grades and paid the full advance.

Practically all interests went up to $3.50 for sorted 180@210 lb averages, while the bulk of best quality 225@300 lb averages sold at $3.20@3.45. Several carloads of $25@400 lb averages were slower to sell at $3.00@3.15. Eastern shipping orders increased but outsiders are not taking as big a proportion as they were earlier in the week.

Cattle Trading Slow.

Trading in the cattle alleys slowed down some except in the common to medium grades of light steers and yearlings where much of the buying centered yesterday. The poorer quality of offerings accounted for some of the price decline in the rank and file of offerings. Receipts carried a much smaller share of well finished cattle than was the case earlier in the week when good to choice steers and yearlings were plentiful. Bulk of offerings sold within a range of $5.50@6.75, although a fair showing reached $7.00 and slightly above.

Armour paid $7.30, the top for long yearling steers averaging 1,144 lbs. Butcher stock ruled steady to a shade lower, grain fed cows and heifers showing the minimum loss for the day. Yearling heifers sold up to $6.35. Good to fat cows sold largely at $4.00@4.50, only occasional lots reaching $5.00.

Idaho Lambs $6.25.

A liberal movement of both range and southern lambs drove prices down 25c more yesterday, with spots off 50c on natives before the close. About 2,000 Idaho range lambs were sorted 25 per cent, the "tops" going at $6.25, with the culls at $5.00, all for slaughter. Most of the native lambs came over the scales at $6.00@6.50, although city butchers picked out a few of the best as high as $7.00. Packers received 11,800 of yesterday's 15,000 sheep and lambs direct from other points, leaving less than 4,000 on the market. About 4,200 of the directs were new crop southern lambs. Yearlings shared in the break, the best selling at $5.00.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,500 cattle, 17,000 hogs, and 10,000 sheep, against 1,132 cattle, 20,471 hogs, and 7,244 sheep the previous Friday, and 2,326 cattle, 13,415 hogs, and 8,712 sheep, a year ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firmer today and prices advanced 1-32c to the basis of 2.65 for spots. Sales reported aggregated 162,000 bags of Philippines for June-August shipment at 2.65@2.75. After some irregularity early futures firmed up on increased covering and buying by houses with trade and Cuban connections, with final prices showing net gains of 3 to 4 points. The market opened unchanged to 1 point higher and showed little variation during the early part of the day, but the continued steadiness of the spot market and reports of further sales of Cuban to Europe had a stimulating effect and after selling to .62c July contracts advanced to .67c, while December sold up from .76c to .82c, with the general market at one time 4 to 6 points net higher. Approximate sales, 24,200 tons. Prices follow:

The decline of yesterday to the basis of 3.70c for fine granulated seemed to create a little better inquiry for refined sugar, although demand was only for nearby requirements.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—Coffee fluctuated irregularly. Brazilian and trade selling being offset by local covering and commission house buying. U. S. FARM CO-OP PAYS $700,000 FOR "GOOD WILL"

Bonus Given for Company Losing Money.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—"Good will" bonuses of more than $700,000 were included in the price paid by the Farmers' National Coöperative association for various subsidiaries during the last year, it was disclosed today during the second day of testimony in the Chicago Board of Trade-Farmers' National controversy now being aired before officials of the department of agriculture.

George S. Milnor, a director and general manager of the Farmers' National, which is heavily subsidized by the federal farm board, testified that one of these "good will" items was included in the price paid for certain properties purchased by the Farmers' National from the Farmers' Union of Minnesota. Mr. Milnor stated that in his opinion the good will money was well spent as it served to retain customers of the Farmers' union for the Farmers' National.

Union Lost $300,000.

Weymouth Kirkland, counsel for the Board of Trade, asked whether Mr. Milnor was aware of the fact that the Farmers' Union had lost about $300,000 in the nine months prior to the sale and whether it was a fact that the Farmers' Union owed the Farmers' National $2,000,000 at the time the government coöperative paid a large price for the properties. Mr. Milnor replied that he did not know, but assured the attorney that the properties purchased from the Farmers' Union had proved profitable.

"Yes," replied Mr. Kirkland, "because the Grain Stabilization corporation some time later bought the grain you purchased at that time at the same price you paid for it, instead of at the market price which was a great deal lower."

Mr. Milnor answered he thought the Grain Stabilization corporation paid the market price for that grain.

Case to Go to Courts.

The hearing today was held before Elton L. Marshall, solicitor of the department of agriculture, who was appointed special referee to preside in the absence of the commission, composed of Secretaries Hyde of agriculture and Lamont of commerce and Attorney General Mitchell. The proceedings are the outgrowth of a charge made by the Farmers' National that the Board of Trade had violated the grain futures act in refusing to admit it to membership in the Board of Trade Clearing House corporation.

Peter Carey, president of the Board of Trade, who has attended the hearings, said today that officials of the exchange are making this a test case to determine the extent to which the government will go in regulating grain exchanges. It became evident that attorneys for both sides intend to carry the case to the courts, to which they have the right of appeal from the decision of the commission.

Handle 135 Million Bushels.

Mr. Milnor, the principal witness today, was questioned at considerable length by Kirkland concerning the financial structure of the government owned coöperative and in regard to the relationship which existed between the Farmers' National and the Grain Stabilization corporation.

During the period from March 1, 1930, to Dec. 31, 1931, Mr. Milnor stated the Farmers' National handled 134,787,000 bushels of grain valued at $81,274,000 for the stabilization corporation. These figures, he said, did not include future sales on which deliveries were not taken.

All the transactions conducted for the stabilization corporation, he declared, were paid for at the regular commission rate. The total value of the grain handled by the coöperative during the 21 months period, Milnor testified, was $173,682,000 in addition to the transactions handled for the stabilization corporation.

JULY WHEAT DOWN 9 CENTS DURING WEEK

Day's Early Rally Is Short Lived.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation continued unabated in the world's wheat markets yesterday. For the eighth straight day prices in Chicago finished lower than the previous day with the old July selling down to 49¾c, or within ⅝c of the low figure of the season, established last October, while the September and December were in new low ground for the crop year to date.

Within a week July wheat in Chicago has declined 9¼c without any rally of consequence. There was an upturn of over 1c from the early low yesterday in sympathy with pronounced strength in stocks, but the market faded away later on persistent local and commission houses pressure, and dropped to a new low for the day shortly before the finish. Evening up for the government report due after the close made a fractional recovery but the finish was well toward the inside figures with net losses of ⅝@⅞c. Old July was 49¾@49¾c at the last; old September, 52c and December, 54⅞@55c.

Winnipeg Gains in Chicago.

Routine developments seem to have little effect on the wheat market and while local sentiment was somewhat less bearish than of late this was due almost entirely to the sharp decline which has occurred in prices in the last week. Some operators were inclined to play for a rally on technical conditions, but a majority of those who bought early went out of their holdings later. The trade generally believed that news from Washington regarding politics and financial conditions would more than offset crop reports.

Foreigners took advantage of the break in wheat futures to buy 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 bu North American wheat, largely Manitobas, and the removal of hedges against this grain were instrumental in bringing about a strong rally in Winnipeg. The latter was off around 1½c early, but closed only ⅛c lower with July at 54¾c in Canadian funds, and went to 5c over Chicago against 4½c over on Wednesday.

The determined effort being made to sell Canadian cash wheat abroad according to cables from England has caused nervousness on the part of other exporting countries with the result that pressure has increased. At one time yesterday Liverpool was off around 1¾c per bu due to general liquidation but rallied and closed ⅝@1¼c lower with July at 52⅞c.

More Rain in Canada.

Further rains were shown by the weather map in the Canadian northwest with the heaviest precipitation in the southern sections of the prairie provinces, the area which has been complaining of lack of subsoil moisture for several years. There was also fair rains this side of the international line. The trade ignored reports of heavy hail storms in parts of Kansas, as they appeared to be largely of a local character. Heavy rains also were reported in parts of that state. Harvesting has started on a small scale in Sumner county, Kansas, but will not be general for 10 days to two weeks with favorable weather.

Prospects of export business in American corn were regarded as brighter by the trade yesterday than at any time this season and a local cash handler was said to have sold 24,000 bu for shipment to Norfolk for export. There was buying of July against sales of the deferred months by spreaders who figured that if export business developed it would probably have more effect on the nearby future. The July gained ⅜c on the September for the day and closed ¼c higher at 28⅝@28¾c, while the distant months were ⅜@¼c lower, September being 30¾c, and December, 31⅞@32c. Shipping demand showed improvement with sales of 126,000 bu.

Oats Sell at Low Prices.

Owing to the prevailing low prices for oats there is a strong probability that a large acreage will not be cut for grain this season. The Iowa weekly weather crop report in commenting on this said the contract price offered for new oats of 7@8c per bu would scarcely pay for harvesting and threshing, and that only the best fields would be cut for grain. New No. 3 white for Aug. 15-Sept. 15 shipment sold here at 18⅜c or 1¼c under September, a figure that was regarded as netting the producer around 12½c at central Illinois points. Futures finished ½@⅝c lower with July closing at 19½@19⅝c equalling the inside figure of the season, while September 19¾c and December, 21⅝c.

Rye showed relatively more strength than wheat and was off ⅛@⅜c at the last. July closed at 30¾c; September, 33¾c and December, 37⅛c. There was talk of 500,000 bu Canadian rye being sold for export.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Live hens and broilers were off ½c yesterday, while Leghorn hens declined 1c. Receipts, 50 trucks. Butter was steady with receipts 10,338 tubs. Fresh eggs sold at former prices. Receipts, 19,651 cases. Potatoes dull on old and steady on new. Receipts, 103 cars with 276 cars on team track.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

SOME OF THE MORE NOTABLE OF THE REPUBLICAN LEADERS WHO HAVE ARRIVED IN THE CITY AND ARE TAKING PART IN THE PRELIMINARIES TO THE NATIONAL CONVENTION TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK. Walter F. Brown is postmaster general and spokesman for President Hoover; Henry W. Anderson of Virginia is the author of the Anderson plan for modification of the Volstead act; Ray Benjamin of California is President Hoover's mentor; Ernest L. Jahncke of Louisiana is assistant secretary of the navy; former Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland is a candidate for President; Charles D. Hilles of New York is chairman of the committee on arrangements, and James F. Burke of Pennsylvania, party counselor. Patrick Sullivan, Wyoming, is a veteran of many campaigns.
